G. M. Closed By Walkout

DETROIT (UPI)—The assembly lines of General Motors Corp., the nation's No. 1 automaker, were shut down today by a midnight strike of 343,610 United Auto Workers in 16 states and Canada.

First effects were almost immediate as automotive suppliers began laying off workers.

UAW President Leonard Woodcock said G.M. gave the union "no other choice" but to strike after 60 days of negotiations failed to produce a new three-year contract. Contracts at Ford and Chrysler expired at the same time, but both were exempted from a strike by the union.

Woodcock emerged from a listless, final negotiating session with G.M. shortly before midnight Monday to announce the strike, the third against the company since 1945.

The company and union were 24 1-2 cents per hour apart on a wage raise in the first year of a new contract when the negotiations broke off.

First layoffs were announced by the company's suppliers. About 400 employes of Irvin Industries in Lexington, Ky., a manufacturer of seat belts, were idled for the duration of the strike, and Libby-Owens-Ford Glass Co. in Toledo, Ohio, laid off 300 employes.

"Nobody really wanted a strike. We tried hard, but the demands are just too many and too high," Bramblett said. He added negotiations may resume "probably Wednesday" on unresolved issues of money, early retirement and cost-of-living allowances.

In Washington, D.C., Harold C. Passer, assistant commerce secretary for economic affairs, warned the strike could "put a crimp in the rising trend of economic activity. It would not, in my view, jeopardize the upturn that is now developing but it certainly would lower the rate of increase."

Rail Lines Struck; Union Orders End

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Railroad workers struck three of the nation's major lines today, but union leaders ordered them to return to their jobs in the face of a court injunction against selective strikes.

The United Transportation Union issued an order in Cleveland for its members and those of three other unions to halt their walkout against the Southern Pacific and the combined Baltimore & Ohio and Chesapeake and Ohio. About 40,000 workers had participated.

UTU President Charles Luna sent telegrams rescinding the union's authorization for the "whipsaw" walkouts. A union spokesman said, "They got a federal injunction and you don't dare fool around with it. They hit us with $250,000-a-day fines when they hit us."

Both freight and passenger services were disrupted during the strike against the three lines. In the Bay Area, the stoppage left 12,000 commuters looking for other means of transportation.

A union official said a decision would be made within a few days whether to stage a nationwide walkout or to fight Corcoran's ban on "whipsaw" strikes. A hearing on the order was set for Sept. 22.

The year-old dispute was further complicated by the unexplained inaction of the White House. Under the Railway Labor Act, President Nixon could call a 60-day cooling off period and appoint an emergency board to mediate the dispute, but there were indications he might allow a strike this time, at least temporarily.

There were reports the President would use this tactic to dramatize his request for special legislation to allow him more authority to settle transportation labor disputes.

Light Voter Turnout On School Issues

Voting appeared light today in three school district elections in Marin County and one in Southern Sonoma.

Polls will be open until 7 p.m. in Marin, till 8 p.m. in Southern Sonoma.

In the Mill Valley School District, voters are deciding whether to allow the interest rate on $760,000 in unsold school construction bonds to go from 5 to 7 per cent.

At 11 a.m. only 77 ballots had been cast at the Episcopal Church of Our Savior out of 450 registered voters. The turnout was even sparser at Westminster Presbyterian Church where

SPROCKET POWER—Bicycle racks were full once more as Sonoma State College opened today for the fall term. OPENING DAY

Sonoma State Area Jammed With Autos

Scattered over the lawns were students talking, studying, kissing, or playing Frisbee.

Scribbled notes pinned to bulletin board asked for or offered apartments, rides, belts and leather goods and furniture. A few hopeful males advertised for female companions.

Nixon Seeks Overhaul In Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon today proposed a major overhaul of the American foreign assistance program.

He sent to Congress a set of proposals he said would underpin the "Nixon Doctrine" by assuring regular military and economic assistance to developing nations.

The President noted in his lengthy message a downward trend in U.S. foreign aid over the past 15 years, caused by continuing congressional cuts. But he said that while "mapor transformation" of the program is needed, the answer is not to end it or slash it further.

"Foreign aid," the President said, "must be seen for what it is—not a burden, but an opportunity to help others to fulfill their aspirations for justice, dignity, and a better life. No more than at home can peace be achieved and maintained without vigorous efforts to meet the needs of the less fortunate."

The President frequently referred to the Nixon Doctrine —the policy he outlined on Guam last year. He defined the policy as calling on "any country whose security is threatened to assume the primary responsibility for providing the manpower needed for its own defense," with the United States providing assistance to help them assume those responsibilities "more quickly and more effectively."

During a briefing, White House officials disclosed that the administration probably would ask Congress for an increase in the future in both military and economic assistance.

But the officials said the request for greater military aid would be only temporary, stressing that the administration wants recipient nations to take on a greater share of their own defense.

DIANA THE DROPOUT

Guatemala: Beginning Of Torment

By LUCINDA FRANKS
and
THOMAS POWERS
U.P. INTERNATIONAL

(Copyright 1970)
(Second of five articles)

By the time she had graduated from Bryn Mawr in June of 1963, Diana Oughton had traveled among the poor in the byways of Europe and worked closely with children in one of Philadelphia's decaying ghettos, but she did not really begin to learn about poverty until she went to Guatemala.

When she filled out a personal information form after being accepted by the Quaker-run, Voluntary International Service Assignments (VISA) program, she put a single word after the heading marked experience:

"None."

Barbara Ann Graves, director of VISA, felt Diana's sheltered upbringing and gentle character would be a handicap and tried to dissuade her from the lonely assignments in back-country areas. Diana refused to be given special consideration, however, and was assigned to the isolated Indian market town of Chichicastenango in Guatemala.

Chichicastenango is a small, still half primitive place where Catholic priests look the other way when the Indians burn incense to the old gods and beat ceremonial drums on the steps of the church.

When Diana first arrived she was struck by the gaudy vitality of the town, by the bright-colored shawls of the Indians, the rambling streets, whitewashed buildings, church bells and surrounding jungles.

Gradually Diana began to see other things — the Indian's bad health, their short stature, the small, child-sized coffins sold in such numbers in market.

She plunged into work, helping local priests to launch a nutritional program, editing a newspaper for adults who were just learning how to read, and helping to care for the children who swarmed through the town. She went shopping in the market two or three times a week, learning to bargain over carrots and cabbages, and she began to know and respect Father Jose Maria Casas, an energetic middle-aged man who had spent many years helping the Indians.

The directors of VISA in Guatemala City, Bill and Donna Dreyer, began with the same doubts about Diana that Barbara Ann Graves originally felt. When they saw the speed with which Diana learned Spanish and the rapport she established with the priests and the people of Chichicastenango, their doubts disappeared.

After Diana had been living in Guatemala for several months she met Alan Howard, a young Fulbright scholar in Guatemala City. He was running an experimental adult reading program in the city's federal prison and long conversations with political prisoners had made him cynical about the chances of peaceful change in the country.

When Diana told him about the work she was doing in Chichicastenango, Howard said it would never end the poverty of the Indians.

"You're only delaying the revolution," he told her.

He argued that VISA was treating the symptoms of poverty, not the basic causes. He pointed to the experience of another Fulbright scholar who had planned to spend a year studying the country's corporate structure but completed his project in a week: There was no corporate structure, he said,

Passenger Wounds Would-Be Hijacker

Gun-Wielder Is Stopped At San Francisco Airport

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A passenger today shot and wounded a hijacker who attempted to take over a Trans World Airlines jet while armed with a pistol that shot only blanks. The hijacker was attempting to force the plane to North Korea.

There were no other injuries among the 56 passengers and crew of seven aboard TWA's Flight 15 from New York.

The TWA 707 jet was the first U.S. airliner subjected to a hijack attempt since President Nixon ordered armed guards on U.S. planes.

The airline said a Brinks security guard, Robert DeNisco, Brooklyn, N.Y., traveling as a passenger and not as a guard for the plane, shot the hijacker.

The wounded man identified as Don Irwin, 27, Reseda, Los Angeles County, was rushed to a hospital at Burlingame with a bullet wound in the abdomen. He was the first U.S. airline hijacker to be wounded seriously.

TWA officials said the hijacker pulled a handgun while the plane was over Salinas, Calif., en route to San Francisco, after a stop in Los Angeles. The pilot, J. K. Gilman of Kansas City, told the passengers after the plane was on the ground:

'WANTS TO GO'

"There is a gentleman on board who wants to go to another airport and wants us to go with him."

The plane was ordered to a corner of the field while 35 passengers were let off and Gilman negotiated with the hijacker and airport officials for refueling.

The remaining passengers, huddled in the front of the cabin while the hijacker sat in a seat eight rows back, watched as the dramatic final act was played out.

"I heard steps," said Karen O'Neill, 24, of Chico, Calif. "I looked up. I saw a man in plain street clothes with a gun. He was walking fast, almost running, down the aisle.

"I saw him fire. I saw the flash of the gun. I sank down in my seat. I thought he might have missed and there would be more firing. Then the pilot came on and told everyone to remain in their seats, that everything was under control."

Other passengers said they heard DeNisco, shout, "Police!" before he fired.

RUSH BACK

Several other occupants in the cabin rushed back after the shot and seized the hijacker.

The hijacker apparently boarded the flight in Los Angeles, where another passenger said he saw him waiting, dressed neatly in a dark business suit, white shirt and tie.

The plane left Los Angeles at 4:55 a.m. PDT and TWA said the hijacker a few minutes later handed a stewardess a note that he had a gun.

Gilman radioed a Federal Aviation Agency Control Center north of Los Angeles and said the man approached the cockpit with a pistol and ordered the plane to North Korea but Gilman persuaded him to allow the plane to make

Guerrillas Firm: 'U.S. Our Enemy'

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine said today "the United States is our enemy just the same as Israel" and that it will hold American and Israeli hijack hostages until Israel accepts the guerrilla ransom demands.

The Front listed some of its demands for the first time today and said it would insist on them "whatever happens."

The leftwing guerrilla group took a tougher stand and warned once again that any attempt at military intervention would endanger the lives of the captives, believed held in heavily guarded houses in Amman, the capital of Jordan.

Some of the 54 hijack hostages appealed to their embassies today to speed their release, and the guerrillas made it clear they were dealing separately with the British, Swiss and West German embassies and bypassing the Americans.

For the second day, the guerrilla spokesman said the Front will "treat Americans with the same status as Israelis." He said this reflected guerrilla belief the United States directly supports Israel and is therefore equally responsible for alleged Israeli "aggression."

A radio broadcast in London said two hostages had been shot dead, but the guerrilla spokesman in Amman said, "These reports are without any foundation."

The spokesman accused the Red Cross of bias against the guerrillas and indicated they would have no further negotiations with the organization.

"Direct responsibility now falls on the governments concerned to announce their acceptance of the Front conditions," he said.

The guerrillas were holding

Hussein Talked Out Of Abdicating Throne

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Jordanian army gunners shelled Palestinian guerrilla bases in North Jordan today, the Syrian Arab news agency reported. The English language Jerusalem Post said the crisis there was so serious King Hussein tried to abdicate but was dissuaded by UAR President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

The cease-fire along the Suez Canal also was reported shaky, and official sources in Cairo said Monday night Egypt believes the United States has suspended its peace initiative which led to the cease-fire. They said the Big Four powers should try again to restore peace.

British press reports also said today the United States has hinted at withdrawing its Middle East peace initiative, but U.S. Embassy sources in London denied this. They said the United States is very concerned about the cease-fire violations but there is no question of withdrawing the peace initiative.

Diplomatic sources in Jerusalem said Israeli Premier Golda Meir, who meets President Nixon in Washington on Friday, will ask him to revise America's official policy on Israel's borders. She will contend that Israel must retain some captured territory to assure its security, the sources said.

Maj. Abdel Salam Jalloud, a member of the Libyan Revolution Command Council, in a statement reported by the Egyptian Middle East News Agency, said the situation has now reached a stage where a political solution can no longer be found and the situation must be resolved through war.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Prime Rate Drop

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—The First Pennsylvania Banking and Trust Co. is dropping its prime interest rate a half-point from 8 to 7-1-2 per cent today.

It is the first large bank in the nation to reduce the rate for large, credit-worthy business borrowers. The action produced a small rally on Wall Street Monday. Several smaller banks in the nation already have reduced their rate.

First Pennsylvania, which announced the cut Monday, is Philadelphia's largest bank. It ranks 21st in the nation with deposits of $2,118,787,000 as of June 30, 1970.

Most New York banks had no immediate comment on the cut.

Disbanding Guard

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope Paul VI announced today he is disbanding all Vatican armed forces except the Swiss guards to emphasize the religious nature of his mission.

The Pope announced his decision in a letter to his secretary of state, Cardinal Jean Villot.

He said he was dissolving the Papal Gendarmerie, Noble Guard and Palatine Guard "so that all things surrounding the successor of Peter may clearly manifest the religious character of his mission."

He said police duties in the 108.7-acre Vatican City will henceforth be handled by the Swiss Guard and by a special office that will be set up under the Vatican governor's office.

Dynamite Raid

CHICAGO (UPI)—State and federal agents and Chicago police raided a North Side apartment Monday night and confiscated 620 sticks of dynamite and arrested six persons.

A spokesman for the Illinois Bureau of Investigation, John Dreiske, said the raid followed a tip from a security guard at a large Chicago-area industrial plant. The guard said the group planned to blow up the plant, Dreiske said.

The raid netted 620 sticks of dynamite, dynamite caps and detonating cord, he said. The material was taken to the Ft. Sheridan, Ill., Army Base. It was not known if those arrested belonged to any group, he said.

Japan Quake

TOKYO (UPI) — A "rather strong" earthquake shook the northern sections of Japan's main island of Honshu tonight but appeared to cause no damage or injuries, the Central Meteorological Agency reported.

Klein To Tour

PARIS (UPI)—Herbert Klein, President Nixon's director of communications, will make a five-nation European tour starting Sept. 19 in Paris, the European Republican Committee said today.

The announcement said Klein was coming to Europe to further the U.S. Republican party's "continuing liaison program with Republicans living in Europe. iIt did not mention whether Klein would meet with European government officials

Replacing Parish

BRUSSELS (UPI)—A Canadian theologian said today the hippie commune may be the type of Christian community that should eventually replace the church parish.

"In many cases, especially in the big cities, the parish is not a community and can never become one," said Professor Gregory Baum of Toronto.

"What counts is the creation of small communities, in which Christians and other people may be at home."

Many people, Baum said, already were trying to create small communities as matrices of more human existence.

"We find this in the hippie communes, in artists colonies and in underground churches," he said.

Space Misgivings

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—The space agency's cancellation of two moon flights may spoil project Apollo's chances of unlocking the secrets of origin of Earth and Moon, 40 lunar scientists said today.

In a letter expressing "deep misgivings" about the decision, scientists told Rep. George P. Miller, D-Calif., chairman of the House Space Committee, the Apollo cuts will result in "a severe curtailment of the lunar exploration program."

"We hope that these decisions are not yet final, and that the country will not tieup a plan of very great significance when the preparation for it is so nearly complete," they said.

The letter, released to the public today, was written by scientists attending a moon science conference last week at the Lunar Science Institute. Dr. William H. Rubey, institute director, said he and 39 others signed it.

Suit Dropped

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A member of the presidential commission on pornography who went to court to block the commission's report has dropped his suit after the government agreed to publish his dissenting opinions.

Charles H. Keating Jr., President Nixon's only appointee to the 18-member panel, ended his legal action Monday after reaching an agreement with Justice Department lawyers. Last week he won a temporary court order blocking publication of the report for 10 days on grounds he could not present an adequate dissent to the commission's recommendations that laws against pornography be liberalized.

Under the agreement, Keating's report, not to exceed 216 pages, will be submitted as part of the final commission report to President Nixon and Congress.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Francis R. Walsh, dean of the University of San Francisco Law School, has been appointed chief of the Federal Communications Commission's Broadcast Bureau.

Agnew Blasts U.S. Drug 'Propaganda'

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—The United States has been pervaded by "blatant drug-culture propaganda" fostered—mostly unwittingly — by entertainers, parents, broadcasters and the press, Vice President Spiro Agnew said Monday.

Agnew said a spreading drug culture in the country was being tolerated because "all the while that this brainwashing has been going on, most of us have regarded it as good, clean, noisy fun."

Agnew told a $100-a-couple dinner for Nevada Republican political candidates that another reason for the drug expansion is that parents have not listened carefully or looked closely at the music, movies and underground publications of the youth culture.

He cited popular folk-rock song lyrics containing such words as high, stoned, grass and acid as evidence of drug culture propaganda. But said he was not suggesting there was any conspiracy by the pop music world to spread it.

He urged voters to elect a "Congress which will stop waves of pornography and moral pollution and assue it will never be the wave of the future.

During his dinner speech, Agnew also said the older generation, with its use of alcohol, sleeping pills and pep pills, helped set the stage for the drug culture phenomenon.

Reds Cut Cambodian Strike Supply Route

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—Communist troops in a surprise counter-offensive today surrounded a 4,000-man Cambodian force trying to reach the provincial capital of Kompong Thon, military spokesmen said in Phnom Penh.

The spokesmen said North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops struck a lightning blow from the west and completely cut the supply and reinforcement routes for the eight battalions of Cambodian troops.

The strike came at the village of Tapeang Kak on Highway 6, about 46 miles north of Phnom Penh and about four miles behind the stalled Cambodian troops.

Cambodian officers, fearing a possible Communist trap, had ordered urgent reinforcements for the government troops hard hit by the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong at Tang Kauk, six miles north of Tapeang Kak.

The Cambodian task force withdrew Monday from the southern section of Tang Kauk. Officers insisted it was not a retreat but a move to allow time for regrouping.

In Saigon, military spokesmen said U.S. B52 bombers flew at least five more missions over the jungles near the besieged South Vietnamese firebase O'Reilly, dropping 250 tons of heavy explosives. The mountaintop camp 390 miles north of Saigon is expected to be evacuated soon.

The Air Force said there have been at least 21 B52 missions and more than 200 other air strikes outside O'Reilly in the past eight days. South Vietnamese commanders will close the base within the next few weeks because of the approaching monsoon rains.

The U.S. Command said there has been a slight decrease in ground actions involving U.S. troops in South Vietnam.

The Cambodian task force that clashed with the Viet Cong at Tang Kauk is engaged in the largest Cambodian operation of the war.

Meanwhile, the first contingent of 12,000 American troops scheduled to leave South Vietnam by Oct. 15 in the fourth phase of President Nixon's withdrawal program departed for the United States today to be deactivated.

The target of the withdrawal program calls for not more thank 384,000 American servicemen to remain in Vietnam after Oct. 15. There were 396,000 U.S. troops in Vietnam as of Sept. 10 and 543,400 Americans were in the country before the withdrawals began in mid-1969.

POLITICAL ROUNDUP

Cranston, McCloskey Back Riles For Schools Post

WASHINGTON (UPI) — California educator Wilson Riles says he prefers "quality education" for all children over immediate integration, but he does not believe it is "an either-or choice."

"If I have to make a priority, it would be for quality education for every child in the state," the Negro educator told a news conference Monday.

"To the extent that we can integrate—fine. But I'm not willing to wait while adults debate this for another 16 years, while a generation of the young go without an education."

Riles, seeking California's highest public school position, is campaigning to unseat Max Rafferty as State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

The 53-year-old Louisiana-born, Arizona-educated candidate drew the backing of Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., and Rep. Paul N. McCloskey Jr., R-Calif., for the non-partisan office. He is currently on leave from his position as deputy superintendent under Rafferty.

Cranston said Riles was "an outstanding candidate" and cautiously predicted he would defeat Rafferty—the man Cranston beat to win his Senate seat in 1968.

McCluskey, who introduced Riles to newsmen, said he wished to confirm the candidate had "bi-partisan support for this non-partisan office." He said there was "no finer man" than Riles to run against Rafferty.

TUNNEY

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Rep. John V. Tunney has dismissed as "silly" a GOP charge that he has one of the worst attendance records in Congress.

The advertisement appeared Monday in papers throughout the state. It asserted that 429 of 435 members of the House have better attendance records than Tunney and asked: "What would happen if you didn't show up for work?"

Tunney said that the ad only covered the past year when he was running hard for the U.S. Senate. Prior to that, he said, his attendance record was better than George Murphy's. Tunney is trying to oust Republican Murphy from the Senate.

MURPHY

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Sen. George Murphy is stressing the theme "he believes in America" and punching hard at his Democratic opponent, Rep. John V. Tunney, in his campaign for election to a second six-year term.

An aide to the Senator said a poll taken last month by the GOP campaign management firm of Spencer Roberts indicated voters wanted candidates to speak more about "what's right with America instead of what's wrong."

In response to the poll, Murphy's campaign billboards carry the slogan "He believes in America."

BACKS REAGAN

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Harold J. (Butch) Powers, former Republican lieutenant governor, Monday declared his support for Gov. Ronald Reagan's re-election bid.

Powers, an appointed official of Gov. Edmund G. Brown's administration, described Reagan as a "courageous leader who refuses to sacrifice principle for the easy road of political expedience."

Powers, now an Elk Grove cattleman, first was named lieutenant governor in 1953, succeeding Goodwin J. Knight. Brown later appointed Powers director of professional and vocational standards. Powers resigned after Reagan took office.

BROWN-UNRUH

sSAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Former Gov. Edmund G. Brown reminisced about Jess Unruh in an interview Monday and explained why he is backing Unruh for governor even though Unruh did not join his gubernatorial campaign four years ago.

"He'd be a very good governor," Brown said of Unruh.

"Ronald Reagan is a very poor one," he added.

Brown said he is urging some friends to forget their dislike of Unruh and join his campaign. The dislike comes from Unruh's legendary "toughness"—another subject Brown talks about.

"I suppose a political leader —and this is a weak spot for me—has to be tough. There are some things a political leader can't forgive," Brown said.

Reagan's College Polices Praised

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—State Superintendant of Public Instruction Max Rafferty Monday praised the educational policies of Gov. Reagan and said college rioters should be expelled without amnesty.

In a speech to the Hibernian Newman Club in San Francisco, Rafferty said of Gov. Reagan: "In education he is nobody's enemy and everybody's friend."

Route 17 Pitch Made Once Again

A proposed Highway 17 extension from Point San Quentin to Point Reyes Station that has bobbed up and down in county highway proposals for more than a decade, popped up again yesterday.

The proposal by the Marin County Chamber of Commerce transportation committee rated continued study of route location for Route 17 as top priority for long-term planning in the 1972-73 fiscal year.

Donald A. Beacock, head of the committee, told a chamber luncheon audience that included three supervisors at the Tiburon Lodge yesterday, that there was strong sentiment to give it lowest priority. However, he said, the committee and the county disagreed with that.

He said the project which has long been stalled by vocal opposition to proposed routes through San Anselmo, Fairfax and Sleepy Hollow, is more likely to get state funds allotted on a cost-benefit scale than an extension of Shoreline Highway from Highway 101 to Point Reyes Station.

Supervisor Louis H. Baar disagreed. "Route 17, in our opinion, is sort of a few years off — politically," he said.

He said completion of Point Reyes National Seashore purchases will swell this year's 1.2 million attendance to almost two million next year — all traveling over Route 1.

He urged Clifford Green, deputy district engineer for the state Division of Engineers, to stress work on Shoreline Highway since "Route 17, when you and I are old and grey, they'll still be talking about it."

Fairfax Councilman Cornelis Van Vliet chimed in, "I think Fairfax would be very pleased to know Highway 17 is buried for the moment."

Projects that the county chamber of commerce backed for construction or right-of-way purchase for prompt construction in 1972-73 in order of priority week:

1. Extension of Highway 101 through Novato, which has been held up by a routing disagreement between the Novato City Council and the state Division of Highways, but which is given first priority for construction in Marin in 1971-72, according to Green.

2. Widening Highway 101 from Spencer Avenue on Waldo Grade to Terra Linda, a distance of 13 miles.

3. Widening Tiburon Boulevard from Reed Ranch Road to near Avenida Miraflores.

4. Upgrading Highway 101 for the one mile between North San Pedro Road and Terra Linda including a median for rapid transit and redesign of the Civic Center interchange.

5. Beginning interim improvements to 10 miles of Shoreline Highway between Highway 101 and Stinson Beach.

6. Realigning and improving Shoreline Highway between Highway 101 and Almonte Boulevard.

7. Providing safety improvements at the Gnoss Field entrance which began today, according to Green.

Given second priority were intersection reconstruction at Highway 101 and Panoramic Highway and right of way acquisition for widening Highway 101 from Terra Linda to Highway 37.

The chamber also asked the highway department to begin route location or relocation studies for Highway 101 between Novato and Sonoma County; Shoreline Highway from Highway 101 to Point Reyes Station; Highway 37 from north of Novato to Nicasio; and Sir Francis Drake Boulevard between Highways 17 and 101.

They also asked for study of a possible rapid transit median strip on Highway 101, but gave it lowest priority.

Green gave a rundown on the progress of the equivalent list submitted last year in which he indicated the items listed this year for long-term study received no attention and probably wouldn't this year.

Most of the funds allocated to Marin in 1971-72 will go to the Novato freeway construction, he said.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors approved the chamber priorities Sept. 1 except that it gave equal priority to continuing relocation studies for Shoreline Highway and finding a path for Highway 17, according to Baar.

Photography Class

Diverting Road Funds Is Attacked

T. Fred Bagshaw of Mill Valley, who recently retired as secretary to the state Division of Highways, said yesterday that a bill on the governor's desk allocating 60 per cent, instead of 55 per cent of gas tax funds, to the southern counties could cut northern highway funds by $45 million next year.

If, in addition, a ballot proposition diverting 25 per cent of gas tax funds to rapid transit and smog control is approved, "the long range effect could be serious," Bagshaw told a luncheon gathering of state and county chamber of commerce officials and highway department representatives at the Tiburon Lodge yesterday.

He said the state allocated $6 million to smog control this year and 75 per cent of rapid transit now runs on the highway so there is no justification for divertising funds for either.

He predicted an end to the present system wherein highway funds are allocated on the basis of need if the proposition passes.

Bagshaw of 317 Hillside Avenue is a member of the California Freeway Support Committee, which opposes both measures.

The average Oregon family consumes more than a ton of dairy products a year.

College Night For Students

An opportunity for high school students to meet with college admissions officers tomorrow at 7:15 p.m. at the Redwood High School gym has been announced by the Tamalpais High School District.

The annual Marin County College Night will have representatives from the eight University of California campuses, six state college spokesmen and admissions officers from private universities including Stanford, Dartmouth and Pitzer to discuss their schools.

Interested high school students from throughout Marin will have an opportunity to meet with the officers from 7:35 p.m. to 9:15 p.m. after an introductory meeting.

Former Teacher Gets New Trial

A new trial for former Novato High School teacher James David Kimmel, 34, charged with three marijuana offenses, has been set for the week of Nov. 23 in Marin Superior Court.

A jury deadlocked in May on whether Kimmel had used minors to obtain pot for him, possessed pot and used it on the high school campus in November 1968.

The jury, however, did convict the long-haired, bearded former science teacher of resisting arrest. He is still awaiting sentencing on that charge.

Kimmel, who was arrested against last month at his home in Sonoma Valley on suspicion of growing a $20,000 marijuana crop, said yesterday that he plans to act as his own attorney in his retrial.

League Files Suit For Access To Beach

The head of the Marin Conservation League yesterday filed suit in Marin Superior Court to preserve public use of a road to a beach at Estero De San Antonio in the Oceana Marin development.

Harold E. Gregg is seeking temporary and permanent injunctions against Highway Property, Inc. and Bodega Bay Lands Inc., developers of the tract, to prevent blockage of the road because, he says, it has been used by him withous hindrance for more than five years.

Gregg lives near Dillon Beach.

The suit also asks the court to reopen county planning commission hearings on the 272 townhouses approved May 5 for the 650 acre property.

Gregg maintains approval was improper because the hearings were improperly noticed and the county did not follow vacation procedure for the road from Dillon Beach Highway.

The suit also charges the subdivision plans were approved although experts recommended against approval.

Superior Court Clerk George H. Gnoss is named a defendant because he filed the subdivision maps March 16 which show the road blocked, according to Gregg.

One of the conditions for county approval of the plan May 5 was that the developer agree to permit public access to one and one-half miles of shoreline from Dillon Beach to Estero De San Antonio, which marks the Sonoma County border.

The suit is based on a spring decision by the state Supreme Court which ruled there is implied dedication to the public of land leading to a beach if the public has used it for more than five years without interference.

Truck Damaged

Damage estimated at $25 was done to a pickup truck belonging to Donald Wayne Isdrosalge, Sunday night or early yesterday, San Rafael police reported today. The radiator cap was taken and wiring damaged while the truck was parked outside Isdrosalge's apartment at 830 B Street.

New Orleans Police Flush 14 Panthers

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Two hundred police flushed 14 Black Panthers from their sandbagged headquarters today with gunfire and tear gas. No one was injured during the "tremendous exchange of fire."

Police Supt. Clarence Giarusso ordered the officers into the black neighborhood to end a night he called "a reign of terror" by the Black Panthers.

Police and blacks exchanged gunfire for 15 minutes. The Panthers were flushed from the concrete block house by tear gas.

The crack of automatic rifles was heard with the boom of shotguns. Police helicopters circled above the gun battle. Police used "Big Bertha," an armor-plated truck, to storm the headquarters.

"Most of the fire came from the house," Giarrusso said. But one policeman, wrapped in a bulletproof vest, said he fired at least 100 rounds from his rifle.

"It was a tremendous exchange of fire," Giarrusso said.

He said the 14 Black Panthers would be accused of a variety of charges, including attempted murder.

Police said rifles, shotguns and pistols were found on the second floor of the brown-painted Panther building, located at 3542 Piety Street, 35 blocks south of downtown New Orleans near the old Irish ship channel.

Giarrusso said Black Panthers fired at police, overturned and set afire at least two automobiles and beat a man and a woman during the night of violence.

Mayor Moon Landrieu and Giarrusso decided to storm the Black Panther building at dawn. There were reports of snipers in the neighborhood.

After the shooting, the 14 Panthers were flushed by tear gas and arrested outside, under a sign reading "Sons of Desire Cultural Center." The two-story building was sandbagged by the blacks for the confrontation with police.

Several hundred young blacks yelled obscenities at police after the gun battle. About a dozen officers with shotguns at the ready formed a line opposite the blacks and the youths dispersed.

She last of the Panthers was led handcuffed from the headquarters , shouting, "You can kill a revolutionary but you can't kill the revolution."

A fresh effort by the United States to encourage multilateral giving and development of multilateral aid institutions.

—Encouragement by the United tSates of trade and private investments aboard by creation of a system of tariff preferences for exports of goods manufactured in low income countries.

'Newtown' At Marincello Is Opposed

The experimental Newtown in Reston, Va., may be just fine for the East Coast but does not belong in Marincello, a group of Marin conservationists told officials of Gulf-Reston Inc. this morning at the Civic Center.

A polite crowd of 100 watched a 15-minute color film of Newtown presented by Gulf-Reston officials and told the Marin County Board of Supervisors they do not want a Reston on the 2,138-acre Marincello, which overlooks the Golden Gate.

Glenn Saunders, executive vice president of Gulf-Reston, stressed repeatedly that his company has no plans as yet on Marincello but will study all possibilities for three months before making recommendations to its parent company, Gulf Oil of Pittsburgh, which owns the property.

"We do not propose that Reston be built in Marincello," said Saunders. He said various choices include development, partial development, or no development at all in Marincello.

Helen Carrigan of Belvedere suggested that Gulf Oil should consider a gift of the property as public open space.

William M. Bennett of Kentfield, candidate for the state board of equalization, called on Gulf Oil to "knock off this nonsense." Said Bennett, "we want nothing but Gulf to get out and leave the headlands the way God made it."

DOMINATE AREA

John Busterud, president of the Marin Headlands Committee, warned that any development on the headlands would dominate the entire area. "We hope Gulf Oil will seriously consider a gift of the land for open space."

Mary R. Summers, a conservation leader and former county planning director, declared that a community in Marincello would pour one or two more lanes of traffic on overloaded Highway 101. If the land cannot be acquired for open space, the least that Gulf Oil can do would be to keep density at a minimum, said Mrs. Summers.

Peter H. Behr, candidate for state senate, also urged Gulf Oil to donate the property.

Several other citizens rose to speak in opposition to development on the headlands. Douglas Ferguson of Mill Valley, attorney for the Conservation Law Society, reminded the supervisors that a petition for a public referendum on Marincello is pending before the U.S. Supreme Court. "The proper thing for the board (of supervisors) to do is to ask for a countywide referendum if you don't, I hope the U.S. Supreme Court will or force it on you," said Ferguson.

MONEY NEEDED

Supervisor Michael Wornum, in whose district Marincello is located, said "I don't think we can have it just by hoping for it. The people of Marin must put their money where their mouth is and help pay for it."

John F. McInnis, supervisors chairman, assured citizens that this was just an informational meeting to hear from Gulf-Reston, and any action on Marincello must be preceded by public hearings where the public will have ample opportunity to express their views.

VOTING

30 voters out of 1,200 had cast ballots.

In Sausalito, two seats on the school district board are sought by four candidates: Royce Y. McLemore and Robert E. Fisher of Marin City and Robert A. Thompson and Robert R. Lyon of Sausalito.

About 10 per cent of the district's voters had gone to the polls by 11 a.m., with Central School reporting a turnout of 105 out of 1,000 voters and Star of the Sea Catholic Church tallying 91 votes out of 990 registered voters.

Residents of the Bolinas-Stinson School District are voting on a $210,000 bond issue for construction of a school on the Bolinas site. Voting was said to be light, but no figures were available.

Midmorning outrnout at the polls was light today in the Old Adobe School District election on proposals to increase the district's general fund tax rate from $1.90 to $2.40 maximum per $100 assessed valuation, and to increase from 5 per cent to 7 per cent the allowable interest on $875,000 worth of school bonds previously approved but still unsold.

The polling place at La Terc era School, 1600 Albin Way, Petaluma, will be open until 8 p.m. As of 10:45 a.m., only 104 of 2,-235 eligible voters had cast ballots, poll workers said.

54 hostages, most of them Americans, and that they were supplying them with their basic needs. They listed the demands for the hostages' release and said the guerrillas would insist on the demands "whatever happens."

In their latest moves through a mysterious third party negotiator, thought to be Michael Adams, pro-Arab Briton, the Arabs were completely bypassing the United States and Israel and dealing only with the ambassadors of Britain, Switzerland and West Germany. It was clear the Popular Front regarded the Americans and Israelis as their principal foes.

Throughout the negotiations the five powers have insisted on an all or nothing hostage release regardless of nationality or religion. Today, guerrilla spokesmen in Amman ignored this and asked for separate settlements. The International Red Cross already had bowed out of the negotiations because of this demand.

The growing difficulties between the guerrillas and the United States stemmed from a guerrilla statement Monday they were treating Israelis and Americans as the same and a tough White House statement Monday that the holding of any U.S. hostages is "totally unacceptable."

For the first time today the guerrilla spokesman listed their demands on Israel —release of and Ali Helaziz, taken from a BOAC plane in Tel Aviv; release of Swiss Bruno Berger, detained June 23 in Haifa wearing a corset stuffed with explosives and charged with being a guerrilla saboteur, and release of 10 captured Lebanese soldiers.

Irbid area 45 miles northeast of Amman followed similar reports Monday by the guerrilla organization Al Fatah. And in Beirut, the right-wing newspaper The Daily Star quoted guerrilla sources in Amman as saying the Jordanian Army has cleared guerrillas out of South Jordan.

The Daily Star said King Hussein hoped to liquidate the whole movement gradually. It said the campaign was launched after leaders of the Bedouin, the fanatical supporters of King Hussein, met in special session and pledged to support the government.

Hussein has been faced with near civil war for months and has survived nine assassination attempts. The Jerusalem Post, quoting "sources close to the Jordanian Royal Court," said in a front page banner story he was for the first time considering abdicating.

"Hussein . . . expressed his intention of quitting after last week's fierce clashes between his armed forces and the 'errorists, and after the open split in his army over the issue of the presence of terrorists and Iraqi troops in areas of Amman and other major towns, it said.

It said Hussein held up his decision at the insistence of Nasser "who fears total civil war in Jordan would follow his abdication."

its landing at San Francisco for refueling.

DeNisco, who also boarded at Los Angeles, was on duty in his capacity with Brinks to guard part of the cargo shipment. Police said the stewardess managed to show him the note on the way forward to the cabin.

When the plane landed at San Francisco airport officials barred it from the terminal and police cars, alerted after Gilman's radio message to Los Angeles, blocked its path.

Rushing onto the plane, officers found the hijacker lying semi-conscious between two seats, and DeNisco standing over him, still pointing his gun at him. Police said the hijacker's weapon turned out to be a stater's pistol, the kind used for athletic events, which shoots only blanks.

During the hour while the 35 passengers disembarked — including military personnel, small children and their parents — and the hijacker negotiated with Irwin, other activities at the airport went on nearly normally.

Some flights were routed away from the big 707 as police and other cars sped to and from it.

It was the second time in the history of air piracy that a hijacker was wounded on a U.S. airliner.

The other hijacker casualty occurred last June 4 at Dulles International Airport near Washington when a hijacker who demanded $100 million in ransom was wounded slightly in the thumb while being subdued in a struggle on a TWA plane.

Thomas, Fit, Thinner Back At Civic Center

Looking fit but thinner than before he was wounded three times during the Aug. 7 shootout at the Civic Center, Asst. Dist. Atty. Gary W. Thomas quipped and joked with newsmen as he arrived for work yesterday.

Paralyzed from the waist down, the 32-year-old attorney settled behind his desk in the wheel chair which he has learned to use since leaving the hospital. "I'm down to my fighting weight," he joked.

"As soon as they taught me how to get in and out of the car, I was ready to get away from there," he said about leaving home far earlier than physicians had predicted.

He plans to work every day, he said, adding that he didn't know what kind of work he would be doing. "I imagine I'm a little bit behind on my correspondence," he smiled. He declined to speculate when he will again try a case.

Although the mood of the interview was mostly light, Thomas's face clouded when asked how it felt to reenter the Hall of Justice, five weeks after the tragedy in which Harold J. Haley and three others were killed.

"I have to go back to earning a living," was his answer.

What about the municipal court judgeship, to which a bipartisan committee is attempting to get Gov. Ronald Reagan to appoint Thomas?

"I'm ready to go to work tomorrow," he said, "if the governor will just appoint me."

Thomas, shot twice in the chest and once in the spine, underwent surgery followed by a month's convalescence at Marin General Hospital.

Since returning home about a week ago, he has had daily one-hour sessions with a physical therapist, who has him do such exercises as pushups and weight-lifting.

"I've always led an active life and I intend to continue doing so," he said.

Thomas, a member of the district attorney's staff since 1962, was taken hostage along with three women jurors in the courtroom of Judge Harold J. Haley, killed by a shotgun blast in the convicts' getaway van.

Thomas reportedly grabbed a gun from one of the convicts after the judge, who was his wife's uncle, was killed and shot two or possibly three of them. Two convicts and a young accomplice died in the shootout.

A third convict, Ruchell Magee, has been charged with murder and assault and is due to be arraigned today at San Quentin, where all routine court matters involving inmates have been heard since the shootout.

Still being sought in connection with the murder is teacher Angela Davis, who has been linked to guns used in the abortive escape attempt.

Police Pursue Kidnapping Leads

BERKELEY (UPI)—Police say they are pursuing "several investigation leads" into the mysterious disappearance of realtor Jack Setzer who reported he had been kidnapped for three days.

There was no demand for ransom and he was not abused.

Tiburon Lodge Additions Wins Approval By Council

The Tiburon City Council last night approved a master plan for additions to the Tiburon Lodge, including addition of 32 motel rooms, two meeting rooms, a Bank of America branch and office building and an addition to the lounge.

The plan, adopted without discussion last night, includes conditions imposed by the council at its last meeting. Among the conditions are improving Beach Road and dedicating it to the city, installing fire hydrants and mains and assuming responsibility for drainage.

William R. Bremer, representing developer Fred G. Zelinsky, had said they could "live with this," and previously estimated the cost of such conditions at about $10,000.

There was no indication when the work on the additions would begin.

The Tiburon City Council Also:

CLUSTERING — Unanimously approved an ordinance amendment allowing clustering of houses to provide more open space in residential areas, emphasizing that this amendment does not approve clustering in any particular area of Tiburon at this time.

RECREATION LAND — Granted the parks and recreation department authorization to conduct a study to determine uses for open spaces for inclusion in city's master plan.

STREET LIGHTS — Agreed to abide by a decision of a Reedland Woods area homeowners' group to install 4,000 lume incandescent lights for a six-month trial period.

APARTMENTS — Referred back to planning and development committee a plan by real estate developer John S. Hoffmire of North Bay Properties, Inc. to build 38 new units on Mariner Circle.

DRAINAGE — Heard recommendations from Milton Hudis, Santa Rosa engineering consultant working with the joint Tiburon-Belvedere flood control committee, that the holding pond behind the Safeway store should be deepened and that he did not see any short term solution to flooding in the Reed Basin area. Hudis also asked for and received the council's consent to enter several parcels of property to conduct drainage study.

REZONING — Continued to a later meeting the question of rezoning of the Leo Bodian and the A. J. Casella Jr. properties in the Round Hill Road area from RO-1 to RO-2.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned till Sept. 28 at 7:30 p.m. in city hall for the next council meeting.

CLOSED SESSION — Entered closed session to discuss impending litigation.

Foraker Coffee

Mill Valley Rec Group Endorses Creekside Park

In a brief meeting, the Mill Valley Parks and Recreation Commission last night endorsed a proposal by Trans-Marin Properties to develop a creekside park near La Goma Street and Miller Avenue and turn it over to the city.

Chairman James E. Rutledge said the commission asked the city council to approve Trans-Marin's plan to develop the park when it builds an apartment development on adjacent land.

Commissioners also decided that each would write down his feelings about the type of development he preferred for the city's small craft harbor. The recommendations will be combined at a future commission meeting, Rutledge said.

On a field trip before the meeting, commissioners viewed creek erosion at Boyle Park and urged the city council to take action to combat the undermining of the bank near the park's baseball diamond.

Sausalito Will Consider 22-Unit Housing Project

A proposed 22-unit housing development on Santa Rosa Avenue above Glen Drive will come under the scrutiny of the Sausalito City Council today at 8 p.m. when the council considers a variance for the property.

At the Sept. 3 meeting of the Sausalito Planning Commission David Hunter, owner of the 145,000 square foot site, requested the variance and conditional use permit necessary for the development. The commission approved the variance, but took no action on the permit, waiting for council action on the variance.

The project would include apartments, duplexes and some single-family dwellings.

The council will also open bids on $560,000 worth of bonds for city purchase of waterfront land and consider a resolution to sell the bonds, approved by voters in June.

A variancet to allow the Sausalito Arts Center to use outdoor amplified sound during certain planned events will also be discussed.

Woman Critical After Collision

A 60-year-old San Rafael woman was reported in critical condition today at Marin General Hospital with internal injuries sustained when her vehicle collided yesterday with another at Redhill Avenue and Ancho Vista, San Anselmo.

Police said today Faye Sybil Jasmann of 127 Valley View Avenue, apparently crossed Redhill Avenue without seeing the auto driven by John Tilden Osborne, 16, of 380 Vista Grande, Greenbrae, which crashed into her at about 4 p.m.

Osborne was not injured.

Cable TV Is Upheld For Several Areas In Tiburon

Approximately 70 families in Tiburon's Taylor Road, Seafirth, Tiburon Hills and Greenwood Beach areas may get cable television this fall as a result of action by the Tiburon City Council last night.

At present, residents of these areas are unable to receive signals from San Francisco, according to Robert Pace, manager of Cable TV of Marin, and can receive Sacramento stations only weakly.

Cable TV of Marin was granted a franchise in all of the above areas except Greenwood Beach, which was awarded to Clearview TV, which serves the rest of Tiburon.

Cable TV of Marin had objected to the city's requirement that a franchise holder pay $1,200 or 5 per cent of gross receipts per year to the city. This was resolved last night with the granting of the franchise to the company with the provision that the $1,200 minimum could be lowered later because of the limited number of people being served by the franchise.

"Until I get a franchise or written permission from you," Pace told the council "the phone company will not grant me a pole line contract."

The council passed the franchise agreement because it will take at least two months for the cable system to become operative, and delay would penalize the homeowners in these areas, according to Mayor Denis T. Rice.

Man Arraigned In Arrest Chase

Dennis William Donohoe, 21, of 4 Mount Diablo Circle, San Rafael, was arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on charges of felony battery on a police officer, assault with a deadly weapon, resisting arrest and reckless driving.

Donohoe was arrested Thursday after a high speed chase by California Highway Patrol officers on Highway 101 from Greenbrae to San Rafael.

When the chase finally ended at the Irwin Street off-ramp, Donohoe allegedly swung his fist and kicked the officer, who finally subdued him with the help of an off-duty San Francisco police officer.

He is to return to court next Monday to enter pleas to the charges.

Two Satifactory After Overdoses

Two Rohnert Park women were reported in satisfactory condition today at Community Hospital in Santa Rosa suffering from overdoses of pills.

Rohnert Park police said Dessie Sommerhalder, 43, of 7506 Adrian Drive, was taken to the hospital by ambulance at 3:40 p.m. yesterday.

Chiako Hewitt, 39, of 243 Alison Avenue, was taken by ambulance at 7:05 p.m. yesterday, police said.

Today is Tuesday, Sept. 15, the 258th day of 1970.

The moon is full. The morning stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn. The evening stars are Venus and Jupiter.

President William Howard Taft was born in 1857.

On this day in history:

In 1935 the Nazi Third Reich established the swastika as part of the national German flag.

In 1963 a bomb thrown at a Negro church in Birmingham, Ala., killed four girls and touched off city-wide rioting. Two Negro boys were shot to death the same day.

In 1966 Gemini-II splashed down in the Atlantic after a three-day flight.

A thought for the day: Benjamin Disraeli said "What we anticipate seldom occurs; what we least expect generally happens."

Tricia Gets Seat On Arts Board

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon today appointed his daugher Tricia, 24, to a 10-year term on the board of trustees of the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts.

That means Tricia would continue serving long after her father has left office no later than 1977.

Tricia will succeed Mrs. George R. Brown of Houston, Tex., multi-millionaire friend of former President Lyndon B. Johnson. Her term has expired.

CLUB LEAD

West had opened the six of clubs, and South played low from the dummy when my companion, the ageless Sherlock Holmes, made his comment. And he was right, even though the players were the best experts of Boston and Los Angeles.

South won the first trick with the king of clubs, drew three rounds of trumps and then led out the ace and jack of diamonds The defenders won and promptly led three rounds of spades.

South wanted to ruff in his own hand because he needed dummy's last trump to ruff a third round of diamonds. But then there would be no way to get back to the South hand for the last two diamonds.

Declarer would fare no better if he ruffed the third spade in the dummy. He could cash two high clubs, but then dummy would be dead. Either way he could get only nine tricks.

REMOVED ENTRY

South lost his contract by using up the king of clubs at the first trick. He should win the opening lead with dummy's queen of clubs. Then declarer draws three rounds of trumps, cashes the ace of diamonds and gives up a diamond.

If the defenders lead three rounds of spades, their best defenes, South ruffs the third spade in his own hand, ruffs a diamond in dummy, and then returns to his hand with the carefully preserved king of clubs to cash the two good diamonds.

"Since the opening lead is an obvious singleton," Holmes observed when we discussed the hand, "declarer must go after the diamonds and must save all his entries to that suit."

A Confused Diana In Guatemala

only a handful of ruling families.

Whenever Diana was in the capital, Guatemala City, she would spend the evening with Howard, talking late into the night about the peaceful revolution envisioned by the Quakers and the violent revolution already under way in the mountains to the east. Howard argued that Guatemala's only hope for fundamental change lay with guerrilla leaders like Iris Turcios.

Howard's views were shared by one of Diana's Guatemalan friends who prescribed violence even more bluntly. "What this country needs," he told Diana, "is to line up the 50 first families against the white wall."

Diana found such ideas hard to accept. She was not necessarily against violence in extreme circumstances; but like most Americans, she had always assumed that hard work could achieve the same ends with less suffering.

Throughout her two years in Guatemala Diana struggled with the questions of poverty, social justice and revolution. She and Ann Aleman, another VISA volunteer in Chichicastenango, had been exposed to the country's deep conservative roots as soon as they had arrived; the priests warned them bluntly that discussion of birth control or other subjects considered sensitive by the Catholic Church was forbidden.

During the months that followed, both girls gradually began to see that no matter how hard they or Father Casas worked, there would always be more people than food or jobs or places to live.

"Father Casas is one of the finest men I've ever met but he's a fool, too," she once said to Mike Kimmell, another VISA volunteer living in a small town about 15 miles from Chichicastenango.

Despite her doubts, Diana committed herself totally to her work. She deliberately sought out a simple, almost primitive place to live. She carried all her own drinking water, cooked over a wood fire, read by candlelight and washed her clothes in a large wooden tub.

When two Indian children contracted a rare eye disease Diana kept prodding the sluggish Guatemalan bureaucracy until operations for the children could be arranged in the capital. Several times she took the children to Guatemala City for eye examinations and returned the same day, a bruising four-hour trip each way.

When she developed asthma in the high mountain climate of Chichiastenango she tried to ignore it. During severe attacks Ann would build a fire to dry out the air and Diana, refusing to leave the town and her work, would simply retreat into bed and wait until the attack had passed.

Once she was bitten by a dog the whole town considered rabid, but refused to leave to get rabies shots, saying she couldn't spare the time.

On one occasion when she and Kimmell were trying to find a way to build some ovens, Diana decided the best way was to cut openings in large earthenware pots. She took a small elegant tool kit out of her pack, a present from her father, attached a chrome-plated saw to its chrome-plated handle and then sat in the sun for five hours, laboriously cutting openings into the rock-hard pots. When she was done her hands were covered with blisters and the saw was ruined.

The volunteers were paid a small subsistence salary which most of them found barely adequate, but Diana spent even less than she received. When her clothes wore out she patched and re-patched them.

As time passed Diana began to feel that American economic aid was only consolidating the control of Guatemala's ruling families without ever reaching the broad mass of the people.

The American influence seemed to reach everywhere, Diana knew that the American Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) had been responsible for a coup against a left-wing Guatemalan regime in 1954, and that the Spanish newspaper she helped edit was run by the Guatemalan Army with U.S. military assistance funds.

She and other VISA volunteers made friends with the people who ran CARE in Guatemala City, stopping in whenever they got to the capital to pick up a couple of pounds of radish seeds for the Indians or a box of ballpoint pens or whatever else had arrived since their last visit.

ALAN HOWARD
Planted revolutionary seed?

The volunteers were surprised and disturbed when two CARE officials suddenly left after it was reported that both were CIA agents.

On another occasion Diana was angry to learn that a large shipment of baby food donated to CARE had been prompted by something less than charity. The American manufacturer had simply decided that free samples distributed by CARE would be the cheapest form of advertising.

Diana's growing concern over the American influence in Guatemala was matched by a growing dislike for the American tourists who came to Chichicastenango and stayed at the Mayan Inn, where they spent enough in a week to support an Indian family for a year.

Diana's distaste for American extravagance was also directed at her friends. When an old college friend and her husband, both heirs to large fortunes, came to Guatemala for a visit, Diana was disgusted by their complaints about the food and water and by their extravagant spending. "My God," Diana said to Kimmel after the couple had left, "she used to be my very best friend in the whole wide world."

The attitude she had tolerated in her friend was something she could not abide in her parents.

Before they arrived she made them promise they would stay at the cheapest of the town's three hotels, not the comfortable but expensive Mayan Inn. During the visit her parents were always aware of Diana's tenseness. She was impatient with their occasional discomfort and constantly afraid they would anger or insult the people she worked with.

Later, after they had gone, she wrote them and apologized. "I had forgotten how long it took me to adjust to life here," she said.

Shortly before the end of her two years in Guatemala, Diana wrote home and tried to explain what the experience had meant to her. She did not mention the long conversations with Howard about revolution and the disturbing changes taking place in her attitude toward her upbringing, her country and her own life, but she allauded to her doubts about the Quakers' approach to changing society.

By the time she left, Diana had a totally new view of the problems faced by underdeveloped peoples and of the U.S. role in the struggle to solve those problems. When an Aid for International Deveolpment (AID) official, impressed by her fluency in Spanish, offered her a job Diana was flattered but refused to take the offer seriously. By this time she had largely accepted Howard's argument that American and Guatemalan interests were directly opposed.

The following year, when Diana returned to Guatemala for a brief visit, she was half embarrassed to tell Mrs. Dreyer she was working in a poverty program in Philadelphia.

"What are you doing working for the federal government?" Donna asked.

Diana tried to dismiss the question with a joke, but Mrs. Dreyer felt she was troubled by it.

On New Year's Eve in 1967, Diana met Kimmell for dinner in New York. "I'll drive," Diana said when Kimmell started to get on his big BMW motorcycle.

"You're crazy," Kimmell said, but Diana insisted. Kimmell finally agreed and she startled him by expertly kicking the machine to life and then maneuvering through New York traffic until the icy December air began to hurt her gloveless hands. After dinner she flew back to Ann Arbor, Mich., where she was helping to run an experimental school with a handsome, charming radical named Bill Ayers. Kimmell never saw her again.

In November 1968, Diana wrote him to say the experimental school had folded and that she was thinking of becoming a fulltime organizer for the Students for a Democratic Society (SDS). She included a quote from D. H. Lawrence which referred indirectly to a discussion she and Kimmell had on the plane to Guatemala in 1963.

"There is no point in work unless it absorbs you like an interesting game," Lawrence had said. "If it doesn't absorb you, if it's not any fun, don't do it."

Fee Drop Not Seen Fatal To Sonoma State Activity

By C. P. McCARTHY

When Sonoma State College students voted last April to abolish mandatory student activity fees, they cut off $55,000 in funds which supported student government, intercollegiate athletics, lectures, concerts and the student newspaper. (Another Sonoma State story, page 1)

The student government folded a month later.

But the man in charge of student activities at the school doesn't think the fund cutoff will be fatal to other activities.

Prior to the opening of classes today, William L. Carr, who is associate dean of students for activities and housing, said he thinks the prospects for student activities this year are exciting.

What's exciting, he said, is the fact that activities won't be "encumbered by funds, and the structure funds create.

"Nobody will be saying, 'We have $4,000, what should we do?' Rather it will be, 'What do we want to do, and how do we do it?' " Carr said.

"Students will initiate, or there won't be anything, " he said.

One area wher Carr will be taking the initiative, he said, is insuring student representation on all-campus committees and policy-making bodies — a task formerly handled by student government.

He was not sure of how student representatives to various committees will be selected, but he said he was thinking of perhaps calling for nominations from the different academic divisions of the college.

Carr doesn't see the end of student government as disastrous. In fact, he said he thinks "the day when a student body can be represented by a government is gone."

Student representation and governance in campus life is important, he said, but many of the functions of student government are "pure busy work — not necessarily meaningful to the educational experience."

Some activities will not be hurt at all by the loss of student government or its funds, Carr said.

Most student organizations don't require much money, just interest, he said, citing the Chess Club as an example.

But he listed three areas where the loss of funds will be more sharply felt: Publications, sports and lectures and concerts.

The gap created by the absence of a student newspaper, he said, can perhaps be filled by a combination of a public information office newsletter about campus activities, a similar faculty newsletter and an enlarged bulletin board system.

In addition, a group of students, calling themselves Radio Free Cotati, have applied for a broadcast license from the federal comminications commission to serve the campus.

Athletics, the most expensive of student activities, has sought public aid.

Athletic director G. Edward Rudloff said $8,000 has already been raised, but another $4,000 is needed within the next two months to carry the intercollegiate athletic program through the first semester.

Intramural sports are financed through state funding, he said, but the 12-sport intercollegiate program was financed entirely through the mandatory student activities fee.

Rudloff said the total athletics budget of $16,500, if it can be raised, will finance cross-country, football, basketball, wrestling, baseball, track, golf and tennis for men, and field hockey, volleyball, softball, gymnastics, tennis and basketball for women.

A group called Friends of Sonoma State has been conducting an advance ticket sales campaign in an effort to raise the needed funds.

Funding of lectures and concerts may prove more difficult, Carr said, adding that he expects to see less of them on campus this year.

But he noted that many lecturers are free, and there is $3,000 in the college budget for lecturers.

The money is divided into three funds: $1,000 is available for the academic departments to bring in lecturers; another $1,000 is at the disposal of a faculty ad hoc committee for lectures and concerts, and the third $1,000 is reserved by the college president for a commencement speaker.

As for concerts, Carr said his office is investigating the possibility of getting performers who might be in the area to appear at the college free.

If a music group is booked to play at a nightclub in Cotati, it might be willing to put on a free concert at the college in the afternoon, he said.

In addition, several groups have already contacted his office volunteering to perform free, he said.

Carr, who is beginning his first year at Sonoma State after being assistant vice provost for graduate student affairs at the University of Pennsylvania, said he hopes to organize voluntary student task forces to deal with problems that may come up.

"I have a lot of confidence in student initiative," he said.

Three-Car Crash Injures Two

A 57-year-old Fairfax woman was admitted yesterday to Marin General Hospital suffering from back injuries and a Sacramento man was treated for mild back strain following a three-car accident on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in San Anselmo.

Police said Ruth Willis Dole of 300 Olema Drive was turning left on to Madrone Avenue at 1 p.m. when her auto was rammed into the path of the westbound vehicle of George Pobanz of Sacramento by a third vehicle driven by Edward Thomas Koshko, 48, of 351 Meadow Way, San Geronimo.

Mrs. Dole was listed in fair condition today at the hospital.

No Religious Exemption In Pot Case

Although he finds marijuana laws "highly debatable," a Marin judge yesterday ruled that the use of it by a Lagunitas man did not fall under the religious exemption granted by the Constitution.

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of superior court said that Jeffrey Neil Stallard "does not worship marijuana and . . . does not think that God exists in it" as American Indians who use peyote in religious ceremonies do.

NOT THE SAME

Stallard's case is not the same, the judge wrote in his decision. Stallard "has not at any time used marijuana pursuant to any set or known theology," he said.

He granted, however, that the 32-year-old man who had gotten himself arrested in order to test the marijuana laws, did "entertain a good faith belief in a rather individualized religion."

Stallard had testified at a preliminary hearing that he was able only through the use of marijuana to obtain certain religious experiences, which he described as being "like I was when I was a child leaving church . . . glad to be alive."

Judge Gardiner did not elaborate his own views on pot but said that the legislature has a right to make laws as a coordinate branch of government.

"In the case of marijuana, it has made a finding which this court thinks is higfhly debatable, but which it, nevertheless, had the right to make," he wrote.

ARRESTED IN 1969

Stallard got himself arrested in April 1969, by handing a marijuana cigarette which he had taken out of his boot to a sheriff's deputy at the county jail.

Judge Gardiner made his decision yesterday without taking testimony but on the basis of the transcript of the preliminary hearing held before Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. of municipal court.

Judge Goldstein had also refused to dismiss the case saying that there was no such religion as "marijuanaism."

Earlier this year another superior court judge, E. Warren McGuire, threw out the religious defense for entertainment tycoon Frank N. Werber, whose case is still being appealed.

Judge Gardiner did not set a sentencing date for Stallard yesterday after finding him guilty of felony pot possession.

Jury Trials Set In Armed Robbery

Two jury trials were set yesterday in Marin Municipal Superior Court for Roy Morgan Jr., 22, of Marin City who is charged with being a participant in an armed robbery in Mill Valley on July 11 and possessing marijuana when arrested on July 13.

He is to be tried on three counts of armed robbery and one of felony illegal entry during the week of Dec. 7 and on the pot charge the following week.

Morgan is accused of being one of three men who forced their way into the home of Kenneth M. Stephens of 85 Tamalpais Avenue and robbed him and two guests at gunpoint.

State To Sell Expo Property

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — About 230 acres of vacant California Exposition property near metropolitan Sacramento the Reagan Administration.

State General Services Director Charles Dixon said the state hopes to get about $3 million for the land, for which it paid more than $193,000 in 1950. Bids on the property will be opened Nov. 18 in Sacramento.

Already more than $2 million has been invested in the [illegible] adjacent to the exposition—in curbs, gutters, sidewalks, streets, storm drains and other improvements. However, the land contains no buildings.

No Report For Lack Of Quorum

The San Rafael Library Board failed to muster a quorum last night to hear the initial report on the second phase of the city's library facilities study by Donald R. Hegstrom of the Consulting Organization of San Francisco.

Most of the meeting, with only two members present, was devoted to detailed analysis of the results of a patron questionnaire distributed last April during the survey's first phase.

Hegstrom said "some decisions will need to be taken" at the October meeting. He indicated his feeling is that the library should be expanded at or near its present location, with some extension of services but not through the usual type of branch libraries.

Landmark Dedication Of Angel Island Set

Dedication of Angel Island as a state historical landmark will highlight the festivities of the Second Annual Ayala Day Sept. 26. The dedication program will take place at 2:30 p.m. in Ayala Cove at Angel Island State Park.

Originated and sponsored by the Tiburon Parks and Recreation Commission, the first Ayala Day was held last September. It featured the official renaming of Hospital Cove to Ayala Cove, in honor of Lt. Juan Manuel De Ayala, the spanish explorer who anchored there in 1775 while conducting the first survey of San Francisco Bay.

Ayala Cove previously was made a state historical landmark and that designation now will be extended to the entire island.

Activities now planned for Ayala Day include the dedication of the landmark plaque and a barbecue lunch starting at 11:30 a.m., according to chairman David Teather. Tickets and other information may be obtained from Tiburon City Hall.

Hayakawa Optimistic About Year

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— San Francisco State College President S.I. Hayakawa said today he had "every reason for optimism that the school would see a peaceful year.

"The past is past indeed. I don't expect the college to be a battlefield this year," Hayakawa said.

The college president pointed out that last year was peaceful and said he expected the same this year. His prediction was given at a faculty meeting called on the opening of the school year. Attendance at the meeting was about 700, a little better than average.

"In the year ahead we are going to need ingenuity, judgment and wisdom to cope with the problems caused by the serious shortage of resources and the increased demand for our services," he said.

Hayakawa said the failure of the legislature to vote faculty raises "means that the public is pretty well fed up" with what has been going on on college campuses.

He said the black studies department, focal point of campus disturbances two years ago, will offer 33 courses this year. "I think we have reason to believe that this department will not be torn with internal division as it was last year."

Hayakawa announced the appointment of Dr. John Edwards, 47, as executive vice president of the school to replace Earl Jones, now acting president of Sonoma State College.

He also announced appointment of Dr. Leo Young as dean of humanities, Dr. Helen Bedesem as acting dean of students, and Dr. James Hirabayashi as director of ethnic studies.

Guilty Plea To Exposure Counts

Clifford T. Van Pelt, 52, of San Francisco, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Superior Court to two counts of indecent exposure and a third count of the same offense was dismissed.

Judge E. Warren McGuire appointed two doctors to examine Van Pelt, who also admitted that he had a prior conviction for the same charge, to determine if he is a mentally disturbed sex offender.

Van Pelt was arrested most recently in May at Stinson Beach State Park after children complained of his exposing himself and trying to entice them to come near.

Fire protection at Sonoma State College has been vastly improved since last December when a faculty member climbed down a rope from a third floor window to illustrate his concern over fire danger.

The improved protection was demonstrated Friday when the Rohnert Park Fire Department showed up on campus with its $86,000 snorkel truck.

In December when students and faculty dramatized their concerns, the Penngrove Fire Department, which is responsible for the campus, had only a 24-foot ladder — incapable of reaching the third story windows of some campus buildings.

Rohnert Park, which is adjacent to the campus and has a mutual aid arrangement with Penngrove, purchased its snorkel in January and Penngrove itself purchased a new truck with a 35-foot ladder last month.

Penngrove's ladder is capable of reaching the top windows of the campus's three-story buildings — the tallest in the area, and firemen showed Friday that the 65-foot snorkel is capable of putting firemen on or making rescues from the roofs of the three-story buildings.

The campus fire alarm system, which was included in December's criticisms, is also improved, although William Mabry, the college's assistant to the chief of plant, maintains the system was and is adequate.

All campus buildings now have an in-building alarm system, Mabry said, but the fire fire department must still be notified by someone who hears the alarm.

To be put into operation shortly, he said, is a system in which any firebox pulled on campus, in addition to sounding an alarm, will send a coded signal to the college's boiler plant, which is manned 24 hours a day.

The code will give the boiler plant operator the exact location of the fire and he will notify the Penngrove Fire Department. Mabry said December's criticism overlooked the fact that the campus buildings are "the most fireproof construction there is."

He said the buildings are equipped with sprinkler systems and have larger hallways and more exits than required by law.

ROTC Scholar Forms Available

Application forms for high school seniors wanting to compete for four-year Army Reserve Officer Training Corps scholarships on entering college next year are now available at the Presidio of San Francisco, according to Sixth Army headquarters.

The scholarships pay for full college tuition, books and lab fees and provide the student with $50 a month, and he can attend the college of his choice. Scholarship recipients must serve as active duty Army officers for four years after graduation from college.

Requests for scholarship applicants should be addressed to ROTC Branch, AG Reserve Forces Division, Sixth Army, Presidio of San Francisco.

Panel Objects To Richmond Loop Study

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Unanimous opposition to the Golden Gate Bridge District's study of extending rail rapid transit to Marin from Richmond was voted yesterday by the San Francisco Board of Supervisors.

The board, at the urging of Supervisor Robert E. Gonzales, adopted a resolution urging the bridge district directors to reconsider their vote of last Friday to study the Richmond loop.

Gonzales, also a member of the bridge board, had fought hard but unsuccessfully against the study last Friday. He objected that such a routing of rapid transit would require a permanent bus system for Southern Marin commuters.

Gonzales reminded his fellow supervisors yesterday that when they voted last week to approve use of San Francisco streets by bridge district buses it was understood the buses some day would be replaced by rapid transit.

However, Okamoto-Liskamm, the urban design consultants working on the district's transit plan, were to have begun work immediately on their study of the Richmond loop, for which $49,165 was allocated. They therefore will be three weeks into the study when the directors next meet Sept. 25.

Fairfax To Consider Transfer Request

The Fairfax School District board, meeting at 7:45 p.m. today, will consider an interdistrict attendance request for one student to attend classes in the Mill Valley School District.

Meeting at the district office, 58 Park Road, Fairfax, the board will also consider a student teaching agreement with San Francisco State College, and will hear reports on first day attendance figures, the Miller-Unruh reading program and the movable walls at White Hill School.

San Rafael Denies Firemen's Pay Plea

San Rafael City Council, viewing a policeman's job as more hazardous in these times, last night rejected a bid by firemen for equal pay.

Firemen, getting 2.5 per cent less than policemen, contended the pay schedule for each department should be equal as it had been in past years.

Councilmen also rejected a request by firemen for a shorter work week, 60 hours instead of 63 hours, noting that the work week was reduced from 67 to 63 hours last year.

The two mateers, unresolved in previous closed negotiating sessions, were aired at an open special session at City Hall attended by about 35 firemen and several wives.

Parity pay for firemen was turned down by a 4-1 vote, with John A. Miskimen dissenting.

Thornton C. Bunch, representing the San Rafael Firemen's Association, argued there should be no difference between pay for firemen and policemen.

Traditionally, policemen and firemen have received equal pay, and both "are public safety employees, and provide essential public service," Bunch said.

Firemen, too, have a hazardous job, and the death and injury rate for firemen is higher than that for police officers, he contended.

"The work is just as dangerous with less notoriety," Bunch said.

When a fireman dies he doesnt' "get the great press, the High Mass, the flag at half-staff and what amounts to a military funeral," accorded police officers killed in the line of duty, Bunch commented.

He said policemen in San Rafael now get 2.5 per cent more pay than firemen and "it's 5 per cent among officers in most cases."

(The salary range for firemen is $794 to $954, and the range for police officers $812 to $976.)

This has disrupted the morale of firemen, who previously were paid at the same rate, Bunch said.

Councilman Harry A. Barbier, a member of the city fire commission, said a policeman in a patrol car "has his life on the line more than a fireman," and "that 2.5 per cent is hazard pay."

In these days, policemen stopping cars on minor violations are getting shot, Barbier said.

Miskimen said the difference in hazards for each department was difficult to prove, and they traditionally had been on the same salary base.

Councilmen unanimously voted against reducing the work week three hours to 60 hours.

Bunch said that other similar departments in the Bay Area averaged below the 60-hour week, and the intent was to move eventually to a three-platoon system on a 56-hour week.

Reducing the work week would make the San Rafael firemen's work time, "comparable with his counterparts in the Bay Area," Bunch contended.

City Mgr. James H. McCown said San Rafael pays the highest salaries of any city in Marin and has the second shortest week for firemen.

There was some confusion as to how many additional men would be needed to put a 60-hour week into effect, but McCown said it would cost $11,248 a fireman, plus fringe benefits costs.

This year firemen were granted the same pay raise as other city employees, a flat $55 a month for those earning below $1,000 a month and a 5.5 per cent boost for those making more than the $1,000.

Mayor Bettini said he felt "badly that firemen were unhappy," but believed the city had given "everyone the best possible we could afford."

Councilman Barbier contended the firemen had fared well in past years when they met face-to-face with the council to present their demands. This year there were closed sessions in negotiation with the city's representative, McCown.

Thefts Reported At Two Petaluma Service Stations

Thefts from two Petaluma service stations were reported by Petaluma police today.

James Morris, an attendant at Roberts Shell Station, 900 Petaluma Boulevard North, told police two men drove into the station at about 4:15 p.m. yesterday.

While one of the men asked Morris the price of tires, the other apparently stole a battery charger valued at $160, police said.

Police said a Go-Cart valued at $75 was stolen from Henri's Union 76 station at 4998 Petaluma Boulevard North, between 10 p.m. Friday and 6 a.m. Saturday.

'Bridge' Victim Phones Coroner

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Sandra Stricker, 21, telephoned the coroner's office Monday that her mother was incorrect in saying she had plunged to her death from the Golden Gate Bridge.

Her mother, Mrs. Louise Reyes, had identified the body of a plunge victim as Miss Stricker on Sunday and declared the daughter had left her San Francisco home saying she wanted to "live my own life."

Miss Stricker refused to give her present address, "because I don't want my mother to know." She did say she worked occasionally as a receptionist at a YWCA hotel.

Officials turned to a camera found near the body in an attempt to establish the true identity.

New Shirt Look For The '70s

By JANE ROGERS
London Express Service

Remember the shirt dress as it used to be — straight up and down and no nonsense? It was useful, that just about summed up its charm, but any shape that went into it you put in yourself. And if the shirt was in thin jersey, the shape more often than not was a baggy seat, rather than a curvaceous waist and hipline.

Well the fashion roundabout has come round again to that ever-useful shirty look, but this time there's a distinct difference about it. The shirt dress of the '70s is shapely, definitely feminine and pretty, rather than practical to wear.

First there were a whole batch of see-through shirt dresses in thin cotton voile with gathered skirts and low-diving necklines. But not everyone wants to be seen through, and even more people find that the bunched effect of a gathered waistline makes them look like a merry peasant, hips and all, so now they've refined it down to something a little more practical in its purpose, but it still has plenty of fashion fun about it, all the same.

THE NEW-LOOK shirt dress for the season ahead is almost certainly in jersey; that's what gives it that soft look. But the jersey is imperceptibly backed with reinforcement, where needed to avoid that too-droopy look. One midi dress that has already proved to be a top seller has a bonded jersey top to give a good shape to the bustline, a neat waist, but the skirt which is stitched down to the hipline, then flared out into unpressed pleats is left unbonded, so that it hangs prettily. The shirt collar has taken a new look too on this dress, for it is cut to stand up and frame the neckline, with deep wide-cut lapels, rather than simply being a copy of a classic shirt, manstyle.

Another fashion idea that is catching on fast is the shirt-'n'skirt look. The top is cut classic shirt-style in a gay patterned fabric, the skirt in a plain toning color. But as they are joined as a dress, the shirt stays firmly tucked in and shaped to the waistline, often finished off with a wide tie belt. It's ideal for the kind of girl who only really feels happy in tailored clothes, but wants to keep up to date in fashion too.

The shapely shirt look makes its appearance in trouser suits too, some of them are so curvily cut that they look almost like artists smocks and are being snapped up by expectant mothers as a good shape to hide under for the first few months.

BUT FOR sheer good looks, plus plenty of shape, I prefer the shirt-trouser suits that are leaner in their cut and given curves by seaming. Tucks down the sides of the bodice can give curves where they are needed, yet control a too-wide look, in some cases the trousers have stitched creases in the center front to match and to help give a longer line. Here again jersey is the fabric to use if you want to keep that feminine look. And some of the jersey shirt tops are long enough to be worn as a dress, if you're sticking to the mini-length line, or a tunic top to be worn belted over a longish skirt if you're dropping your hemline. To complete the rennaissance of the shirt in fashion, a whole new series of shirt coats are on their way into the shops. Cut midi-length, shaped in at the waist and worn with huge buckled belts, they have a traditional shirt-front fastening, with jet buttons marching down the front, and a collar that fastens high and snug under the chin. Worn with lace-up boots they have a very attractive, slightly old-fashioned air without making you feel that you might just be mistaken for your own grandmother . . . a very real risk if you slip into a shawl-collared longer-length coat and those high-vamped lace-up shoes.

SHIRT DRESSES of the '70s are shapely, feminine and pretty instead of just practical to wear as they have been in he past. Many of the newlook shirt styles are in jersey, backed with reinforcement to avoid the droopy look. Left, a shapelier shirt dress by St. Honore has a bonded top and a single jersey skirt. Right, the shaplier shirt with trousers has parallel seaming to give it extra shape.

St. Rita's Is Setting For Wedding Of Shirley Carson And Robert Cole

St. Rita's Catholic Church in Fairfax was the setting Sept. 5 for the marriage of Shirley Louise Carson of Fairfax and Robert John Cole of San Rafael. A reception followed at Deer Park Villa restaurant in Fairfax.

Sgt. Maj. and Mrs. Frank Carson of Fairfax are the bride's parents, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. John Cronk of Napa and Paul Cole of Sebastopol.

Jean Bottini of South San Francisco was maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Carol Carson, the bride's sister; Sue Camiccia of Fairfax; Mrs. George Bury of Dublin; and Mrs. Robert Tuthill of Larkspur.

John Cornelius of San Francisco was best man, and guests were ushered to their seats by Nelson Cronk of Napa; the bride's brother, Leonard Carson; George Bury; and Dan Prior of Santa Rosa.

The newlyweds will live in San Rafael following a wedding trip to Carmel.

Shirley was graduated from Sir Francis Drake High School and College of Marin. She is employed by California Dental Service in San Francisco.

A graduate of Santa Rosa High School, Robert is employed by Pacific Gas and Electric Co. in San Francisco. Donald Cronk, in the Army in Germany, is his brother.

No Sex Discrimination Among Airplane Pilots and Owners

"We don't consider that there are men pilots and women pilots. The people wno fly their own airplanes are just pilots. But some of them are a lot prettier than others."

This is the way the world's largest organization of airplane pilots and plane owners looks at today's women's liberation movement.

Women have always been welcome in general aviation, a spokesman for the Aircraft Owners and Pilots Asscciation said. "In fact, it was recently called to our attention by a woman that our membership application has no place for designating the sex of the applicant," he said.

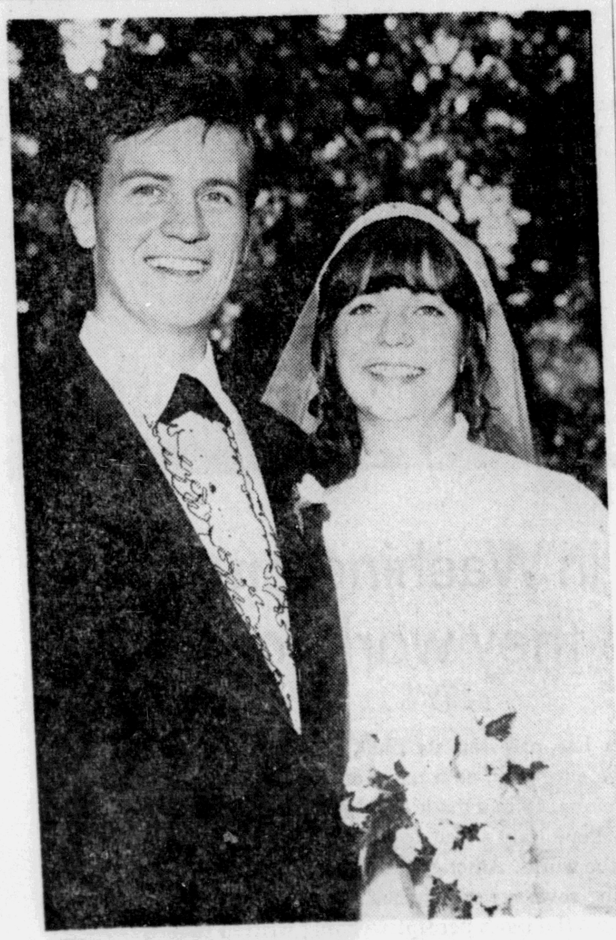
In the annals of general aviation along with the names of Charles Lindbergh and Roscoe Turner you will find Amelia Earhart and Jacqueline Cochran. Jerrie Mock of Columbus, Ohio, and Sheila Scott of England are both modern globe circling, record breaking pilots.

In addition to the women pilots who achieve outstanding flights, there are outstanding women who regularly make ordinary flights. Actress Susan Oliver, once fearful of stepping into any type of airplane, is now an accomplished plot with a crossing of the Atlantic to her credit.

There are women employed as pilots for corporate aircraft. More than 500 women are licensed flight instructors and three times that number are licensed to teach aviation ground school. Several hundred women are licensed airplane mechanics.

During World War II, the WASPS, Women's Air Force Service Pilots, played an important role in ferrying military aircraft.

But, as spectacular as some of the achievements of women pilots may be, the real story lies in the unspectacular. Thousands of college girls, mothers, career women and grandmothers use their general aviation airplanes with the ease and safety of using the family automobile.



ON A WEDDING trip to Southern California are Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Beardsley (Nancy Silewicz), who were married at Our Lady of Mt. Carmel Church in Mill Valley. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Casimir Silewicz of Mill Valley, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Bagley, also of Mill Valley.

150 Years Of Marriage Is Possibility

How would you like to be married to the same person for 150 years? Or work for the same company even longer?

Sound too bad to be true?

It's a possibility — in the future that is, when some authorities predict living through parts of three centuries may be possible.

According to Dr. C. W. Hall, head of the artificial organs program of Southwest Research Institute, San Antonio, Tex., long life — the hundreds of years kind — may be in the offing.

And it will be accomplished, to an extent, through the judicious use of artificial organs.

Dr. Hall, a surgeon and former member of the widely-known DeBakey transplant team in Houston, believes that in time there will be a cure or treatment for virtually all human ailments.

When this happens, Dr. Hall believes our scientists and engineers will extend life spans by developing spare body parts to duplicate, even improve, our worn out ones.

But there will be problems.

What, for example, will this do to health and life insurance premiums

It's certain, says the Health Insurance Institute, that both health and life insurers will have to adjust their thinking and their actuarial tables, to accommodate a 175-year-old man.

For one thing, major medical insurance specifically designed as a bulwark against the really big medical bills, will have to raise its coverage if it is to handle a dual heart-liver transplant.

The average maximum of a major medical policy today is normally between $10,000 and $20,000, although group policies are now being written with maximums of up to $100,000.

Some other routine problems were cited in "Tomorrow Through Research," a publication of the Southwest Research Institute. They include:

How does a child treat his 200 - year - old - great - to - the - sixth - power - grandfather?

What about our prison inmates? Should longevity be encouraged among those serving life sentences?

What metallic or mineral designation would you have for a 150th wedding anniversary?

But probably the big question in the age will be simply: "How old is old?" That is, will people actually feel as old as they are?

"Tomorrow Through Research" is optimistic.

It points out that remarkable effects of estrogens (female sex hormones) have already been demonstrated in both the physical and mental areas among middle-aged women. And it adds:

"There is promise of similar hormonal age retardants for the male, and research into turning back the atherosclerotic process shows promise of considerably reducing the effects of aging.

"What will life be like when it spans two or three centuries? This is a question worth pondering. But we can be relieved that Dr. Hall says it won't happen in our lifetime."

Teens Anti-Trash Movement Ended With No Place To Move It

DEAR HELEN:

Yesterday my brother and I went around the neighborhood to pick up all the trash that was carelessly thrown around the streets and vacant lots.

When we got home with our wagon load, our mother told us we had to stop because she paid for garbage collection and extra boxes meant extra charges, so she wasn't going to shell out for the neighbors.

Well, I see her point, but how do teens get an anti-litter program started when there's no place to dump the junk? — CONCERNED ABOUT LITTER

DEAR CONCERNED:

If you tell City Hall about your anti-litter campaign, I'm quite sure pick-ups will be provided. Give the mayor a ring, and who knows, your idea might develop into a city-wide program. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

My boy friend does something that really bugs me. After bringing me home from a date (around midnight), he goes to different hangouts and drinks beer with the kids (male and female) until sometimes five a.m. I'm afraid his folks think he is with me all that time.

In a few days I begin hearing how drunk he got with his so-called friends. He doesn't try to hide this from me, but I think it's dirty of a guy to go out by himself after he takes his girl home.

If I'm wrong, I'll get off his back about it. — BUGGED

DEAR BUGGED:

You're right, but "getting on a boy's back about it" may only drive him to more partying.

"Sauce for the goose" might work better. Tell him you must be home by 11:30 because "a bunch of kids are planning something for later."

(And if he asks to come along — well, you've got another problem.) — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Are you in favor of pop or rock festivals? I'm not. My ex-boy friend went to Woodstock and came back a drug addict. That's why he is my ex. He just couldn't quit LSD, so he moved to the Village to be closer to the supply.

I moaned and groaned for a long time, but finally met someone else and we're very happy. But I still have an empty feeling when I think of this guy who was so great until that Woodstock trip messed him up. He may be dead or dying for all I know.

I don't see how the police or authorities can allow rock festivals to take place. — CATHIE

DEAR CATHIE:

I think you're blaming Woodstock for an "addiction" that might have happened anyway. One rock festival doesn't permanently turn a fellow to drugs, unless the inclination is already there: He would have experimented whether he went on that trip or not, and only his basic weakness made him continue.

The day of the super-big festival is over for two reasons: Local authorities are afraid of them, and they're financial disasters (unless planners can recoup with a documentary). As for smaller ones, why not? They're less dangerous, a good deal more peaceful and probably more fun than were 1960's booze and beer busts during Easter week at Ft. Lauderdale. — H.

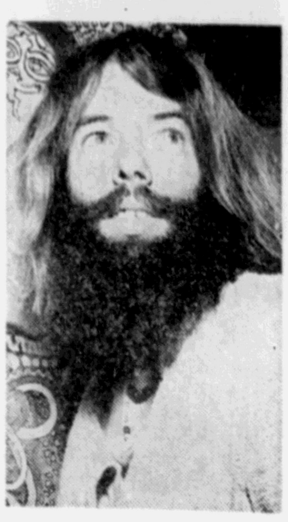
MOSAIC

Spontaneous Art For Larkspur Park

By ERIK INGRAM



DICKENS BASCOM
Gives his art away

Four years ago Larkspur artist Dickens Bascom first caught the public's interest by the somewhat unconventional interior decoration of his rented home high in the Larkspur Canyon.

He explained at the time that he was seeking to transform the three-story structure into an object of art reflecting himself.

To do so, he had scavenged materials and by creating hundreds of smaller works, had sought to integrate them into his larger work, the home.

That was 1966. Today his outlook has changed but not his passion for art.

Sitting in the shaded front yard of a friend's home in Larkspur, Bascom explained that he now gives most of his art work away, and the remainder he uses for trading as a type of currency.

His most recent donation, the 25-year-old artist commented, is a large mosaic given to Larkspur's Park and Recreation Commission. It will be hung in Dolliver Park.

The mosaic, fashioned from tile and glue donated by city businessmen, was a spontaneous effort by Bascom and about 10 of his friends.

Interspersed throughout the work are small knick-knacks, the type which are usually safeguarded in an 8-year-old's secret treasure chest.

Seashells, buttons, beads, marbles, mirrors, bones, and bottle caps are the most numerous. However a closer inspection reveals dice, colored rocks, a 1920-vintage photo and a ceramic-handled butter knife.

Why the change from self-introspection in the design of the home to complete spontaneity in the design of the mosaic?

"I worked for four years on the house. Every day, just like you go to work, I'd get up and work on the house," Bascom explained as he toyed with his full beard. "Finally, it was just too much."

Having lived hermit style while working on the house, with an occasional trip to the dump for a resupply of material, he explained he finally just left one day, leaving pets, musical instruments, and his art to be rummaged through and carted off by others.

That was two years ago, he said, and since then he has been traveling or rather painting his way through South America, Africa and Europe.

"I picked up a lot of ideas in my travels," he explained. "That mosaic has Indian, African and Persian styles in it. But it was still a spontaneous thing.

"The city, you know how they are, wanted me to submit plans and things for the mosaic, so I gave them a drawing," he continued. "But it didn't turn out anything like the drawing."

Bascom, who attended San Rafael Military Academy for three years, before running away, graduated from Oakland High School. He has only attended one art class.

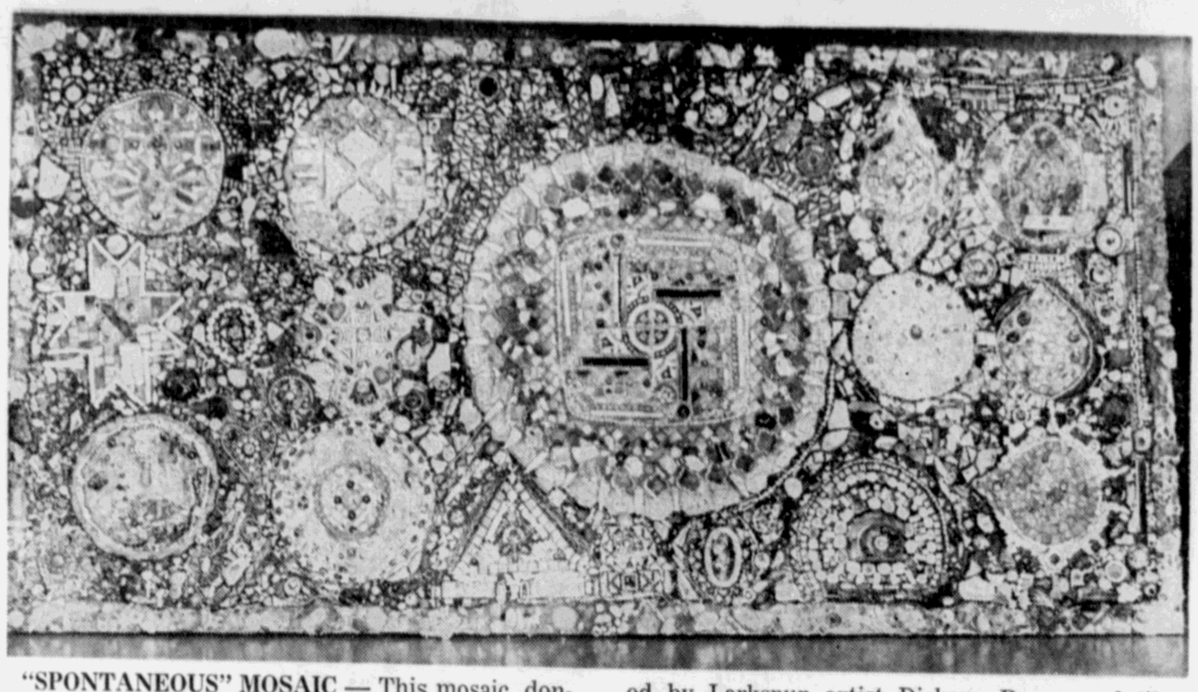
"That was ceramics, and I only did that so I could use the clay," he related. "I had some ideas on what I wanted to do, so while the teacher was with the class on one side of the room, I was on the other side working."

He added that he has always had a compulsion to create and decorate.

"I've gotten into a lot of trouble because of it," he continued explaining that after he received city permission to do the mosaic for the park he and some friends decided to decorate the entire park.

"We were painting the park equipment and drawing pictures on the outside of a restroom wall when the police told us we had to stop," he said. "They said they were afraid we would begin decorating the city hall next."

He added that he had a few ideas for improving the appearance of the city building "but the government just won't go along with spontaneous ideas."



"SPONTANEOUS" MOSAIC — This mosaic, donated to Larkspur's Park and Recreation Commission to be hung in Dolliver Park, was created by Larkspur artist Dickens Bascom of tile, glue and odds and ends such as seashells, beads and bottle caps. (Independent-Journal photo)

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon has named Raymond R. Guest, King George, Va., former U.S. ambassador to Ireland, and David K. Wilson, a businessman from Nashville, Tenn., as members of the Advisory Council on Historic Preservation.

Trial Set In Fire

Grace Patricia Halloran, 24, of Novato, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior Court to a charge of setting fire to her home on Aug. 18. A jury trial was set for the week of Oct. 13.

Officer Tells Of Firing Gun During Riot

A former Alameda County Sheriff's deputy, Lawrence L. Riche, 24, is on trial in federal court for violating the civil rights of William D. Rundle by shooting him during the riot.

Berkeley police Lt. James J. Polk said he fired his gun while riding in a jeep on Dana Street. Rundle was shot at Parker Street and Chilton Way.

Until Polk's statement the government had been able to keep from the jury all shots fired in the riot except the one allegedly discharged by Riche.

The shooting of Rundle, a freshman at the University of California, was described to the court Monday by a roof-top eye witness.

Colin McMaster, also a student, said he saw a rock thrown toward a blue-uniformed deputy in the middle of Parker Street.

"The officer turned and I saw him shoot a young man on Chilton Way. I saw him buckle and fall," McMaster said.

Iowan Is Seeking Address Of Cousin

Being sought is a woman whose maiden name was Jessie Everett and formerly lived in Chariton, Iowa.

Anyone who has any information about her may notify Ruth Mundell, 710 West Third Street, Apt. 1, Davenport, Iowa.

Arts Festival Still Taking Entrants

Entry blanks still are available for the Mill Valley Fall Arts Festival, set for Oct. 10 and 11 at Old Mill Park. They may be obtained from P. O. Box 300, Mill Valley.

Publicity chairman Jeanne Franklin said the festival committee will meet Thursday at 8 p.m. at Mill Valley's city hall to review plans for the show, and she invited all interested persons to attend. Last year's festival drew more than 10,000 spectators.

More than 250 entrants have been received so far. Media represented include painting, sculpture, weaving, ceramics, photography, serigraphy, graphics and jewelry.

In addition, several musical ensembles will perform and a variety of food booths will operate. A special feature of this year's festival will be a display of art work commemorating Mill Valley's 70th anniversary.

Weeds and sometimes nutritious pasture plants will produce off-flavors in milk.

THIRD SECTION SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 15, 1970 17

SQUIRES — Leaders of San Quentin's SQUIRES discuss their last meeting prior to beginning rap sessions with a dozen San Francisco juveniles who have had brushes with the law. Two of the youngsters accompanied by a counselor listened while waiting for other youths to arrive. The program, which aims to show potential lawbreakers the consequences, benefits youth throughout the Bay Area.

Oceana Marine Residents Seeking A Locked Entrance

By WAT TAKESHITA

Robert L. Cantu, speaking for 64 of 68 homeowners of the ocean-front subdivision, explained that the residents are fed up with a series of burglaries, trespassers and beach visitors who park their cars at random, blocking driveways and even using the private driveways so the owners have to use the street. He made his pitch before the Marin County Planning Commission.

"It is proposed that a gate will be installed and property owners will have keys to the gate," said Cantu. "As more people move into the subdivision, there may possibly be a guard." He acknowledged that there would be drawbacks because if a resident invited outside guests, he would have to meet the guests at the gate.

Planning commissioners saw other drawbacks, such as the closing of public access to the beaches and coves along the Pacific Ocean from Dillon Beach northward. They want another discussion at the next meeting on Sept. 28.

Cantu's request yesterday was for the county to abandon all the roads within Oceana Marin subdivision — Oceana Drive, Kailua Way, Lanai Way and Tahiti Way — so that they could become private roads for resident use only.

"It's primarily for security reasons," said Cantu. "Most of them are weekend homes, and practically every home has been robbed."

Commissioner Margaret B. Azevedo wanted to know what the road abandonment would do to the public access to the beach frontage. She backed up Harold E. Gregg, president of the Marin Conservation League, who asked for at least pedestrian access along the subdivision roads so that hikers and beachcombers can reach the coves and beaches. Gregg declared that with the subdivision locked off with a gate, the only public access would be from the old Dillon Beach area along the water's edge.

At high tide, this would be impossible because the water comes up to the rocky cliffs, said Gregg.

"There is a public easement about 20 feet wide along the edge of the cliff," replied Cantu. "People can come through old Dillon Beach and use the cliffside."

Planning Director Werner von Gundell warned that a locked gate would cause problems in an emergency such as fire, injury or a disaster.

All four planning commissioners present yesterday agreed to a two-week continuation, but for different reasons. Chairman Walter F. Freitas and Eugene R. Trombley wanted more information from the planning staff, particularly on the beach access required by the county supervisors when Oceana Marin Units 5 and 6 were approved last May.

Mrs. Azevedo wanted some provision for quick access to Oceana Marin by emergency vehicles, and assurance of pedestrian access to the beachfront.

John F. West declared he's not so sure that the county should abandon the roads at all.

Belafonte Charge Will Be Dropped

CHATHAM, N.Y. (UPI)—A spokesman for Harry Belafonte said Monday night the singer's arrest during the weekend for alleged petty larceny at a grocery store was a misunderstanding and that charges would be dropped.

Mike Merrick, a New York City spokesman for the singer, said he had been assured by A&P chainstore President William J. Kane the charges would be withdrawn today. "The whole thing's ridiculous," Merrick said.

Belafonte was arrested Saturday on complaint of Miles Halstead, Chatham A&P store manager, who said the singer did not pay for $8 worth of articles.

Convicts' Chilling Word To Youths

By LARRY MOWELL

"You can commit a goddamn misdemeanor and end up here for the rest of your life."

"Here" is San Quentin State Prison, and the earnest words expressed both the despair of the convict and his desire to see that his young audience never follows in his footsteps.

Getting the message, Saturday, from members of San Quentin's SQUIRES were youngsters who have scraped the boundaries of legality.

"Our primary concern is to give of ourselves the experience we've had coming up the criminal route," one convict said.

The SQUIRES are in prison for various serious offenses — rape, murder, armed robbery, forgery, sale of heroin — but they share one desire: keep the teen-agers who rap with them each Saturday from 9 a.m. to noon out of prison.

"We as a group don't want to see you fellows end up in here," one inmate said. "It's cold in here. Sometimes your mother cuts you loose. When your girl cuts you loose, when she's running around the streets with another man, you can understand that, but when relatives cut you loose it's cold."

"I've got callouses on my soul," he concluded.

Frightened eyes and solemn expressions indicated his teen-age listeners —all from San Francisco — weren't quite so hardened.

Marin juveniles, however, aren't getting the benefit or the inmates' experience and two Novato teen-agers who went through one three-Saturday sequence last year want to offer it to them.

Although they have never had any trouble with police, Craig Luckin, 18, of 417 Alameda del Prado and Carl Yorke, 17, of 495 Rowland Boulevard said they know many youths who may be on the verge of prison.

They said their youthfulness will allow them to relate to those other young people who need the program whereas adults and policemen cannot.

However, their asset is also their debit. Being young they don't have funding.

They are optimistic of getting a $1,000 grant from the Marin County Youth Commission, but they must first find matching funds. The matching $1,000 can be in money or in kind and the young men hope someone will donate office space in San Rafael.

The Novato police were involved in SQUIRES, San Quentin's Utilization of Inmates' Resources, Experience and Studies, but their program died out, according to Luckin.

He said his peers were not enthusiastic about being asked to go because they had records or were suspected of crimes, but felt participation will increase if police aren't involved.

Five three-weekend series could be reserved for Marinites each year, Lucklin guessed, meaning 50 to 75 youth could get the actual prison discussion experience.

Saturday's discussion was the first of three for the dozen youngsters so they were generally subdued and preferred to listen. The convicts however, occasionally drew them out.

A convict named Alfred asked the youths if they weren't afraid of marijuana because one seed could land them in prison, but Stanley and Joe, two teen-agers, said they would not get caught.

"You two there is pretty slick and you'll be pretty luckynot to get exposed," another convict told them.

Since such awakening experiences must be limited to Saturdays, the Novato youths plan a broader program.

They hope to use their building as a drop-in center staffed by professionals and other young people. Luckin said 10 persons have already volunteered from the Novato area alone.

Since actual visits to the prison would be limited, the pair said they would hold round table discussions liberally sprinkled with ex-cons.

They would also try to establish a hotline to the prison for anyone who might need it. This will be their only access to the prison though, unless they can find transportation, too.

Luckin said a bus might be obtained from the county, but wasn't sure how.

Given the support of the SQUIRES, Luckin and Yorke now need a bus and a building to show the chilling reality of prison to youngsters who might otherwise soon be convicts.

What is that reality? "If you get here, you don't have no assurance you're getting out," one convict said.

"I'm in the same situation at 42 as I was at 17," another said.

Demo Alquist Charges Governor With 'Monstrous Welfare Fraud'

State Sen. Alfred E. Alquist, Democratic nominee for lieutenant governor, last night accused Gov. Ronald Reagan of "a monstrous welfare fraud" which he said could cost California taxpayers $1 billion.

The San Jose Democrat, speaking at a $100-a-plate dinner for him at the Windjammer in Tiburon, charged that Reagan had "blocked badly needed welfare reform," and was using the issue of welfare in campaign speeches to hide "an almost incredible bungling."

Alquist based his charge on the governor's appeal of a federal court order that the state raise its Aid to Families With Dependent Children to levels set by the federal government. The court warned that if the state failed to comply with the order, it may order the state to refund nearly $1 billion it has received for AFDC since July 1, 1969.

The senator asked how "can the governor flout the law and deride the courts, and then convince our young people they should obey the law and respect the courts?"

Alquist said that the governor "is like the driver who parks in a no-parking zone to save a nickel. He gets a ticket and ignores it. He gets a summons and ignores it. Finally, he gets a warrant and is fined $100. Then he gets mad as hell."

The fund-raising dinner was attended by about 115 persons, most of whom arrived from San Francisco on a chartered ferryboat. The theme of the event was "Al in the same boat."

Messages from other politicians who did not attend were read by Joseph C. Houghteling of San Francisco, Northern California chairman for Alquist's campaign to unseat Ed Reinecke. Among them was one from San Francisco Mayor Joseph L. Alioto, which Houghteling said he read "with some pride — since I wrote it."

Girl To Get Jury Trial On Three Felony Counts

Rebecca Matthews, 21, of Forest Knolls, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin superior court to three felony counts of sex perversion and one of battery upon a police officer.

A jury trial was set for the week of Dec. 14.

Miss Matthews was arrested at Kent Lake Aug. 2 after she was reportedly engaging in sex acts in the nude with several men while a crowd of hippies and children watched, played guitars and joked.

She is also accused of cutting a deputy's mouth with a rock during a struggle.

Miss Matthews also faces a charge of possessing marijuana, allegedly found in her pocket Sept. 3 when a judge sent her to jail after a preliminary hearing. She is free on her own recognizance.

Freitas Sees Marin Guilty Of Snobbishness In Zoning

Marin County is guilty of "snob zoning," providing primarily for the wealthy homeowner and ignoring the low and moderate income group, chairman Walter F Freitas of the Marin County Planning Commission declared yesterday.

Faced with a growing housing shortage, described in a 186-page housing report presented to the commission yesterday, Freitas declared that the county must reverse its thinking.

Even against strong neighborhood opposition, commissioners must on occasion vote for less expensive homes if they feel this is good for the community, said Freitas.

"We're guilty of snob zoning. People want to develop and there is immediate opposition to anything that is not equal to or better than what is already there. If the area has $35,000 homes, everybody wants adjacent land developed for $40,000 and $50,000 homes."

"So what can we do?" asked Freitas. "Seems to me we have to be less concerned with the indignation of particular homeowner associations that come in and protest that they are being threatened by a development a half a mile away that is not as good as they want."

Albert Solnit, chief of advance planning, asked the commissioners to draft some kind of policy statement, outlining how the county can meet the housing shortage, particularly for the low and moderate income families.

Freitas named Margaret B. Azevedo, Hugh Dougherty and Edward Hageman to a subcommittee to draw up a statement of policy on housing, with Mrs. Azevedo as chairman.

The subcommittee's proposed policy statement and the entire housing question will get a public hearing before the planning commission on Nov. 9.

ALTO REZONING — Continued until Sept. 28 a request for motel zoning for a 40,000 square foot property on highway frontage road just north of Alto interchange. Donald R. Telford owns the parcel on the east side of Highway 101 at the corner of Thomas Drive and the frontage road. A majority of the commissioners said an apartment appears to be the most practical use of the parcel.

HOUSEBOATS — Plans for docks and berths for 225 houseboats on Donlan J. Arques property and 72 houseboats on George Kappas' property in Richardson Bay were put off without action until Sept. 28. Planning Director Werner von Gundell said both Arques and Kappas asked for a delay because their detailed plans were not ready for presentation.

BOLINAS MESA — Approved 4-0 for Ethel Steiner Montague a lot split of a 16,000-square-foot parcel on Juniper Road between Alder and Larch Roads on Bolinas Mesa on condition that before a home on either lot (one of them purchased by Scott Wilson of Bolinas) may be occupied, the owner must improve the road in front of his property.

HOMESTEAD — Denied 3-to-1 a request by Laura H. Mackin for a land division of 18,650 square feet at Melrose and Rydal avenues in Homestead Valley, only Freitas failing to agree with staff objection that the split would leave insufficient room for buildings and proper setbacks.

Stolen Ford

A 1968 white Ford owned by Patricia Slattery of 109 Tamalpais Avenue, San Anselmo, was stolen while parked at her residence sometime between 2:30 and 8:30 p.m. Friday, police reported yesterday. The auto carried license plates WZF 006.

Joblessness Among Youth Cries Out For Solutions

A 5.1 per cent national unemployment rate, highest in six years, got the headlines. But more significant in the Labor Department's report on the August employment situation was disclosure that joblessness in the "teenage work force" — from 16 to 21 years — had climbed to 15.9 per cent. This was up 2 per cent from July and the highest since April of 1965.

We do not know how the Labor Department arrives at the number of 16-to-21-year-olds who are in the job market. Many in this age bracket are not looking for jobs at all. Many others seek summer employment during school vacation, and we feel quite certain that more than one out of six of these failed to find it this year.

BUT WHETHER the percentage of those who have reached the legal "employable age" of 16 and are seeking jobs they cannot find is 13.9 per cent, 15.9 per cent, or something higher, the continued scarcity of work for this group among us is both significant and disquieting.

There has been some anguished comment about the situation. Mostly, the suggestions have run to massive federally financed job programs for the teen-agers. But this is no answer, except in the shortest of short-range views.

Several things contribute to the difficulty — sometimes almost impossibility — of finding jobs for those who have left school to enter the labor market.

FIRST, THEY ARE categorized. They're labeled "dropouts." This is a nasty word, a discriminatory word. The inference is that if the young person were any good, he would be in school. The fact is that he may be out of school and looking for work for any of several perfectly good reasons which have nothing to do with his character or ability.

SECOND, THEY ARE unprepared. Although one of the purposes of the public school system is supposed to be to prepare young people to support themselves, in fact very little such preparation is provided by elementary or high schools.

In the present technological ratrace, it is unrealistic to expect the high schools to teach students the technical skills needed for most jobs. But it is not unrealistic to expect them to turn out students who are good enough at English and mathematics to be able to read and understand directions and keep simple accounts, and disciplined enough to accept and respond to orders.

But employers complain constantly that they do not do so.

THIRD, THEY ARE UP against union discrimination.

Many of the jobs that these young people could perform are under union jurisdiction wherever they go. And the unions are not about to allow teenagers to have work that they are jealously guarding for their members.

FOURTH, THE LAW is against them.

Child labor laws are necessary. But the restrictions on employing those under the age of majority have become so great that employers shy away from hiring them to avoid trouble and possible legal difficulties.

The solutions — except, as we said before, in the shortest of short-range views — are not to be found in any massive federal job program. They must be provided by better education, not oriented to the idea that everyone is going to finish high school and go to college. They must be provided by curbs on union dictation of who can and cannot work. They must be provided by revision of child labor laws to make some sense. And they must be provided by respect for young people who want to work, instead of the disrespect shown in categorizing them as "dropouts."

Commitments To 'Free World' Come High For U.S. Taxpayers

WASHINGTON — Vice president Spiro Agnew is a man of many parts. He has been out on the hustings blasting the Democrats in his inimitable style and he has only recently come back from Asia where he went to give cheering words to America's partners — limited partners — in the Vietnam war.

In his stop at Seoul, Korea, the vice president found in Korea's President Chung Hee Park a very tough bargainer. The primary Agnew mission in Seoul was to reconcile Park to a cutback in the 53,000 American troops stationed in Korea nearly 20 years after the end of the Korean war.

Okay, said the Koreans in effect, but you will have to pay for it. The price was modernization of the Korean armed forces. What was to have been a polite exchange on one of the hopscotch stops on the Agnew schedule lasted through eight hours of tough talk.

Various price tags — one billion, two billion — for the modernization were leaked out. In any event, a large sum of money is involved if the United States means to remove about one-fifth of the force stationed in Korea and still keep the good will of President Park.

AGNEW MIGHT have been helped in his tough bargaining session if he had with him an advance copy of a report just released. It is another chapter in the record being written by Sen. Stuart Symington's foreign relations subcommittee on America's overseas commitments. Dredged out of the Pentagon and the Department of State through long and painstakingly prepared hearings, this chapter dealing with Korea reveals startling facts hitherto kept secret on what the Korean involvement in Vietnam has meant.

The cost to the United States from 1965 to 1970 for a Korean force of 47,872 was just under $1 billion. Of that amount $130 million went on allowances to Korean military personnel. Thanks to this generous supplement to the low-paid Korean military, they were able to send home savings of $27 million. Another perhaps as much as $75 million went for combat rations and PX supplies. As did the Thai troops under similar circumstances, the Korean military shipped home, at American expense, quantities of consumer goods out of the PXs.

A part of the price for committing the two Korean divisions was a commitment in American defense aid of $193 million that could be spent on "commercial consumables." This went for gasoline and other daily needs rather than for the long-term hardware to modernize the Korean military. That is one reason the price tag presented to Agnew for bringing the Korean military up to date was so big.

IN QUESTION is the gloss of "Free World" rhetoric sprayed over the participation of troops that were essentially mercenaries. They may not have fought, in the dictionary definition of mercenary, solely for pay. But they would never have gone to Vietnam if their government had not exacted a high price for their commitment.

"The fact of the matter is," Senator Symington said in the course of the hearings, "That the people of the United States were deceived as to the degree of the desire to participate in the South Vietnamese venture. President Nixon said on Nov. 3 that no nation will support a war unless they are given the truth about it, and we just didn't know what the facts were with respect to these transactions"

Why the arrangement to foot most of the bill for the Korean troops was kept secret disturbed the committee. A letter from Gen. Hamilton H. Howze, then U.S. Army commander in Korea, was read into the record setting out the agreement to pay allowances for Vietnam service and concluding, "The United States government attaches considerable importance to maintaining as confidential information the fact it is assuming these costs."

Having completed the Asian hearings, the Symington committee turns to Europe. Secret testimony has already shown the way in which the United States is made to pay for fundamental services, plus taxes, to sustain forces in Europe dedicated to the common security of the West.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

City Sprays Trees Without DDT

When I wrote to you last week concerning the tree spraying program in San Rafael I evidently didn't make myself understood.

Anyone who wants his street trees sprayed should call the public works department and give his permission. They will be more than happy to spray the trees, without using DDT, as long as they have the consent of the caller.

The mosquito abatement district has the same policy — just call and they'll come right out.

MARY LOU JACOBSON
San Rafael

Letters to "What Our Readers Say" are welcomed. Only letters with signatures and addresses will be considered. Please keep them under 200 words. We reserve the right to cut letters.

Did Not Suggest Anniversary Gift

I wanted to advise you of several errors in the article covering the horse matter in the Sept. 9 issue . . .

I did not suggest to the city council that the approval of our permit be an "anniversary present" from the council, but did suggest that "this was an important evening to us because, (1) I was hoping to get justice and (2) it happened to be our 13th wedding anniversary."

The petition did not represent the "general" neighborhood, but the specific neighborhood.

Most important is the fact that you stated I was convicted of maintaining a nuisance, but in fact, the conviction was maintaining animals without a permit; the nuisance charge was dropped by the city as it could not be proven.

EDWARD K. WACHSMAN
San Rafael

(A map displayed by Wachsman at the city council meeting was marked with the locations of homes of the signers of his petition. It covered several streets, hence the reference to general neighborhood. — Editor.)

Better To Pay Than Take Chance

Your editorial of Sept. 10, appears to be a terribly irrational approach to the recent Palestinian hijackings.

You apparently seriously disapprove of paying ransom to kidnapers. But could you really be so cold-blooded if your own child were kidnaped?

As for the Hall of Justice fiasco, Judge (Harold J.) Haley could very well be alive today if the order of Sheriff (Louis P.) Mountanos to leave the vehicle go through had been heads.

I could possibly accept your plan to give King Hussein an ultimatum, however, if you and the other trigger-happy people who are so willing to heartlessly risk the lives of others would offer and be accepted as substitute hostages. Then when your plan failed and your carcass with plane parts went sailing into the blue, I could say with a clear conscience: "Good riddance to bad rubbish."

FRED MacDONALD
Novato

Protect Officers Who Protect Us

I would like to voice my opinion on the last supervisors' meeting, regarding the sheriff's department.

I think it's too bad Mr. (John F.) McInnis, Mr. (Michael) Wornum and Mr. (Peter) Arrigoni saw fit to vote against having two-man patrols.

Do we have to wait until some of our deputies are injured or possibly killed, to afford to have the money for adequate protection?

They may sometimes have to lay their lives on the line for our protection. The least we could do is see that their job is made somewhat safer.

I wonder if the cities would object paying for the sheriff's help for backup, if an emergency arose in their cities.

I think our county has about as much problem with dope and undesirable people as anywhere. Those who have no respect for law and order.

I wonder if they would like it if they found themselves needing the protection of the police and not getting it?

Are we going to use our money to aid and abet these people who have no respect for authority, nor in some cases self-respect? Or are we going to use it to back our law enforcement, for their safety and well being?

I respect Mr. (Louis P.) Mountanos highly for trying to get for his men the things he sees they have need of.

LOUISE TRUMBLY
Fairfax.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

State Seeks To Crack Down On Promoters – In Mexico

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Some pertinent legal questions may be answered as a result of a $25.7 million lawsuit filed by several state officials against the developers of a subdivision in Baja California.

The suit was filed by Burton E. Smith, state real estate commissioner; Thomas H. Lynch, attorney general, and Anthony Pierno, state corporation commissioner. It seeks recovery of funds invested by California residents in property located in a foreign country.

The state real estate commissioner has all the authority he needs to regulate the sale of subdivided lots in California, but the question is how far this authority extends when applied to a jurisdiction outside of California.

CAN THE STATE real estate commissioner regulate advertising for a subdivision that's out of the country, even if such regulation might be for the beneficial interest of the purchaser? If he can so regulate, then he is behind the times, for there will long be the memory of lots sold in Florida that turned out to be lots all right, but just a few feet under water.

Probably there are no greater gyp artists in business than the hard-sell land developers, even those who definietly are regulated by California law and comply with the requirements of California statutes as supposedly enforced by the real estate commissioner. Unfortunately, either the law does not go far enough or it is not enforced to the extent it should be.

There have been instances of lot sales even around a choice area like Lake Tahoe, where property has been held for a decade in the hopes of plausible increases in valuation. About the only increase available has been the increase in county taxes and assessments for sewage disposal.

OF COURSE, this has nothing to do with the subdividers, except the legal glowing accounts of potentials and the unkept promises of what the subdividers intended to do, but never did, for the buying public.

There ma be some subdivisions that live up to their promises, but they seem to be few and far between. So if the real estate commissioner, the corporations commissioner, and the attorney general get a court ruling that the state can regulate out-of-state and out-of-country subdivision sales in California, it may be helpful for future dealing in land purchases.

On the other hand, such regulation may be wholly out of line with the activities in other states and foreign countries, where regulations may be tougher than in California, or not so tough.

In Dewsbury, England, Mrs. June Grace, out of pure uxorial thoughtfulness, has suddenly opened the most promising road to peace since the defeat of Napoleon at Waterloo.

By way of fulfilling an oft-expressed wish of her husband's, Mrs. Grace, for his 30th birthday, arranged through the Ministry of Defense for him to run the obstacle course at a nearby British army post. Gerald Grace, a coal miner by profession, jogged through a running track covered with mud, hurdled fences and scaled walls, crawled on his belly under barbed wire and swung through the air on a rope.

"Just what I've always wanted," said Gerald, much renewed as he headed back to the pits and the wrong side of 30.

The prospect for peace is obvious. According to one entire school of war-peace analysts, neither we nor the Russians nor anyone else except the Liechtensteiners can afford to have peace break out because of the immense investment we have in the instruments and processes of war.

Mrs. Grace has found the answer. The obstacle course can be opened to the public for a fee. Likewise the rifle range, the artillery field and the tank course. We all begin our childhood playing soldier and the only reason we stop is that the scale becomes ridiculous. Given the nice profit, w'ed go on at a nice profit to the Defense Department, or Entertainment Center, as it could be renamed.

For the man who has everything, the Grace system of redemption could offer a day at the Pentagon as a joint chief. Those maps, those choppers, those thousands posted at your bidding over land and sea. Best thing for megalomania since Cecil B. DeMille.

Red Victory In Chile Alarms Neighbor Nations

By ALBERTO J. SCHAZIN

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI)— Triumph of a Marxist presidential candidate in Chile has led the chiefs of staff of Latin American armies to their greatest reevaluation of foreign policy since Fidel Castro came to power in Cuba in 1959.

Military sources in Rio de Janeiro told United Press International that installation of a Marxist government by Salvador Allende in Chili, who was backed by the Communist party, would be considered a greater threat to continental security than Cuba.

"Cuba, at least, was an island that could be isolated," remarked one South American military officer based in Rio de Janeiro.

ARGENTINA and Brazil are the most important countries affected by the Chilean elections. These are the two largest countries in South America, both in population and territory. Both have conservative military governments which reject leftism as a way out for their nations' problems. Both are plagued by underground, terrorist movements, whose members would probably find easy refuge in Allende's Chile.

Particulary bothersome to Argentina is its 2,000 mile frontier with Chile. Military observers expect Argentine to tighten border controls to prevent infiltration across the Andes.

Brazilian military officers are also upset. They view the leftward trend of the military governments in Peru and Bolivia, on Brazil's border, with distrust. They are also worried about the instability in Uruguay, whose civilian government is hard-pressed to control the Tupamaro terrorists.

MANY MILITARY officers in Argentina and Brazil would welcome a coupe d'etat in Chili to prevent Allende from taking power, but they see little possibility of this happening now. Army officers here expect the Chilean armed forces to maintain their traditional policy of non-intervention for the time being. There has not been a coup d'etat in Chile since 1932, a rare record for Latin America.

Military sources here also rule out any immediate joint Argentina-Brazilian armed intervention in Chile. "We'll just have to wait and see what happens," one officer commented.

Said one officer, "We can expect Russian fleets to anchor off Valparaiso like they do now off Havana. It's likely that Chile will become a ground for confrontation between China on the one side and Russia on the other."

LATIN AMERICAN generals would like to see more favorable treatment by Washington of military governments. They point out the U.S. last year gave Chile $122 million in foreign aid—more than any other Latin American country.

"I remember when the United States refused to sell tanks to Argentina shortly after General Juan Carlos Ongania was put into power by a coup," recalled one Latin American officer. "But the U.S. did sell a battallion of the tanks to Chile. They will now probably be used to occupy the property of the Anaconda copper company."

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

As if Wall Street brokers weren't having enough troubles these days, one of them was called at the busiest hour of the day last week by his dear old mother who demanded, "I want you to tell me immediately, Arthur, what I'm suppose to do with my American Telephone dentures."

After three rounds of humiliating back-pedalling and absorbing haymakers, a miserable preliminary fighter sat gasping for air and resignedly waiting for the bell to signal round four. "Ya doin' good, kid," his manager sought to encourage him. "The bum ya fightin' ain't really laid a glove on ya yet," "That so?" mumbled the fighter, spitting out a couple of teeth. "Then keep an eye on the referee, because somebody is beatin' the bejabbers outa me!"

How The Fuehrer Lost The War And The Miniskirt Triumphed

WASHINGTON — It was the end of the 1970 fall fashion season, and the news on all fronts was bad. The furhrer, deep down in his bunker underneath the Seventh Avenue Subway, was reading reports from all parts of the country in rage and frustration.

"Mein fuehrer," one of his aides told him, "Seventh Avenue is in ruins. The midi-length skirt has bombed. All is lost. We must surrender."

"Don't tell me we have lost the war," the fuehrer screamed. "We will counterattack. We will punish all those who refuse to wear the midi-skirt!"

Another aide came in. "Good news, mein fuehrer," he said. "Bonwit Teller reports it has just sold two midis today."

The fuehrer started to dance a jig. "You see, swine. It is selling! The midi is selling! Today, Bonwit Teller . . . tomorrow the world."

THE FUEHRER went over to his map and stuck two pins in it. "That makes 234 midi-skirts sold this year. I told you the women would go for it."

Another aide came in with a telegram. "Mein fuehrer, Saks Fifth Avenue has surrendered to the mini forces. So have Macy's, Gimbels and Bloomingdales. We cannot hold out much longer. Perhaps we should issue a communique saying that it makes no difference what length a woman's skirt is this year as long as she's happy."

"Never! Never!" screamed the fuehrer, kicking over chairs and tables. "I decreed that women would wear midis and they will wear midis, whether they like them or not."

The aides looked at each other in hopelessness. The fuehrer's mistress, who was playing solitare, looked up from her game, "Perhaps it may be better, liebchen, to give in."

The fuehrer looker at his mistress and screamed: "Yes, and if I surrender I will be tried as a war criminal and they will hang me. They will say I brought ruin to all of them. The answer is, 'No.' My plan to bring order to the fashion world will triumph. If they do not listen to me, there will be anarchy in the land. What word from Sears, Roebuck?"

AN AIDE came in with the new Sears, Roebuck catalogue.

"They've replaced the midi with pantsuits," the aide said.

"Traitors! They will pay for this," the fuehrer yelled as he started tearing the catalogue to bits. "I made Sears, Roebuck and I will destroy them."

The telephone rang and an aide grabbed it. "Yes, yes. Good, good." Then he turned to the fuehrer. "It's Orbach's. They have a customer in the store and she's looking at midis."

The fuehrer started to dance another jig. "The tide is turning," he cried.

"What's that?" the aide said. "Oh." He hung up the phone. "Her husband came in and dragged her out of the store."

The teleprinter rang.

An aide went over to the machine. "I. Magnin's, Marshall Field, Lord & Taylor, and J. C. Penney have collapsed. They're all holding fire sales on the midi."

The fuehrer sank down in his chair. "That does it. No more Mr. Nice Guy."

The fuehrer's mistress took a bottle of cyanide capsules out of the drawer and placed one in each cupcake. Then she called over the dog and gave him a cupcake. He ate it eagerly and rolled over dead.

She poured out two cups of coffee. She handed the fuehrer a cupcake. He looked at her and said, "Liebchen, you believed in the midi, didn't you?"

The mistress took the other cupcake. "With my legs, what choice did I have?"

Quadruple Ship Passage Requests

PARIS (UPI) — Reservation requests for passage on the Queen Elizabeth II and the liner France have more than quadrupled after recent airline hijackings to the Middle East, the General Trans-Atlantic Co. reports.

A company spokesman said Monday the France, which has 2,044 berths on its transAtlantic sailings, would start its next crossing from France to New York starting Friday and probably would be able to cope with the increased demand in the current off-season.

The Queen Elizabeth II sailed from Le Havre Friday with many last-minute passengers, the spokesman said.

Fort Point Bill Passes House

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House has passed a bill to establish the Fort Point National Historic Site in San Francisco.

The bill, passed by a voice vote and sent to the Senate, would authorize spending $5.25 million for developing the site.

Peking Hits Kremlin On Bonn Pact

LONDON (UPI) — Peking, rekindling its feud with the Kremlin, has accused the Soviet Union of treachery because of its recent nonaggression pact with West Germany.

The Mao regime evidently has taken time to study the agreement before launching its broadside against the Soviets, whom they officially charged with "social imperialism" and "collusion" with the United States.

Behind the move lies Peking's opposition to Kremlin policy on principle. But there is a special fear that by consolidating the front in Europe, the Soviets are strengthening their posture in the Far East against China.

The Institute for Strategic Studies in London earlier this month reported the Soviet Union has shifted nine divisions to the Far Eastern front in the past twelve months alone and doubled her strength there in the past two years to 30 divisions.

The Soviets have moved troops and missiles into Mongolia, close to China's precious nuclear weapons installation.

Peking can have hardly overlooked these moves.

In addition to attacking Russia for her accord with West Germany, Peking has also accused Moscow of collusion with the United States in alleged appeasement tactics in the Middle East.

Judge Denies Motion In I-J Rioting Case

I-J Special Report

FAIRFIELD — A judge in Solano County Superior Court yesterday denied motions to dismiss indictments and suppress evidence in the case of seven men arrested during the Valentine's Day riot outside the Independent-Journal building in San Rafael.

Visiting Judge S. C. Masterson of Contra Costa County ordered the men to stand trial on Oct. 20, refusing the request of defense attorney Robert D. Carrow to be allowed more time to appeal the denials and to bring more lawyers into the case.

Judge Masterson also denied a motion that the defendants' cases be tried individually.

He ruled that the indictments should not be dismissed on the grounds that the men had been indicted by the grand jury after preliminary proceedings had begun in municipal court. He also said there was no legal reason that evidence should be suppressed in the case of three of the men.

A pre-trial conference in the case was set for Oct. 5, although both Carrow and Deputy Dist. Atty. Joshua W. Thomas said there was no possibility of settling the case without going to trial.

The seven defendants are John Joseph De Martini, 44, of Mill Valley; Nimmes Harrison Shelton, 40, Charles Porter Vance, 29, Alvis Dean Bailey, 43, and James Starkey Brooke, 35, all of San Francisco; Joe Earl Reese, 31, of Hayward, and Terry Warner Lansing, 20, of Berkeley.

They are charged with offenses including felony assault upon officers, possessing unlawful weapons and various misdemeanor counts. They were arrested during a riotous demonstration Feb. 14 in support of San Francisco Typographical Union 21, which has been on strike against the I-J since Jan. 7.

Their case was transferred to Solano County after Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court granted a defesne motion by defense attorneys for a change of venue.

They claimed the defendants could not receive a fair trial in Marin because of publicity in the I-J.

Suspect Nabbed On Grand Theft

The assistant manager of a Petaluma grocery store, arrested Sunday on suspicion of grand theft, has been ordered to appear in Sounthern Sonoma Municipal Court Sept. 28.

Alvin Lester Finch, 34, of 48 Cordelia Drive, Petaluma, was booked at Petaluma City Jail Sunday on a citizens arrest by James O. Gaultney, owner of Hagstrom's Market at 200 Douglas Street, who told police that Finch had taken about $1,380 from the store's cash register during the past 56 weeks.

Finch was freed on his own recognizance by Judge Alexander J. McMahon of Southern Sonoma Municipal Court.

High Court Backs Chevez In Picketing

SALINAS, Calif. (UPI)—Monterey County is prohibited by the State Supreme Court from enforcing temporary restraining orders against picketing by Cesar Chavez's striking farm workers union.

The high court in San Francisco issued the ruling Monday and set Oct. 7 for hearing arguments on whether to make it permanent.

Affected is an Aug. 25 order by Judge Stanley Larson in Monterey County Superior Court which forbade the striking AFL-CIO United Farm Workers Organizing Committee from "striking, slowing down or pickeing."

Chavez has openly defied the order by personal picketing. However, he has not been arrested.

As the Supreme Court was acting, a superior court judge in Salinas was issuing preliminary injunction against picketing of two Salinas Valley growers who had long-standing contracts with the Teamsters Union.

Judge Anthony Brazil issued the injunctions in behalf of Bud Antle, Inc., and Mapes Farms, both of whom have had Teamster pacts since the early 1960s.

Chavez attorneys argued unsuccessfully that the pacts did not cover field hands.

Judge Brazil's preliminary injunctions were the first issued in the jurisdictional dispute between Chavez' union and the Teamsters. Temporary retraining orders were issued previously without hearing arguments from each side.

In dispute is whether the UFWOC or the Teamsters shall represent field hands in this valley which produces most of the nation's lettuce as well as other vegetables and strawberries.

Police arrested six pickets opposed to Chavez as they attempted to halt trucks operated by Inter Harvest, Inc., the valley's largest lettuce grower and the only one to have switched from the Teamsters to the UFWOC.

Chavez is negotiating with 13 other growers and has permitted his members to work those farms.

AND SUDDENLY YOU'RE IN BUSINESS MAKING GOOD MONEY

(Recession Proof)

We're proud to talk about our business. It's fascinating. Dynamic. Appeals to the small investor. No experience necessary. With very little money he or she can achieve financial satisfaction — quickly or moderately. It's yours to decide.

Ours is a vending machine program. The best. We sell you Ussery machines, establish route locations. Provide finest line of snack items. We train, counsel, guide, hold your hand until you're firmly entrenched. No experience necessary. Just honesty, integrity, willingness to listen, work and give good service.

You need a car and at least $600 to $1500 for minimum investment strictly for equipment and inventory. No fee or extra of any kind required. Be ambitious and willing to expand.

Vending is a vigorous 4-billion plus recession proof business. Cash sales. No credit risks. Equipment works for you day and night—even while you sleep. Quick turnover. Original investment can be returned in short time.

Requires only 6 to 8 hours per week of serious attention. Like getting retirement pay, annuity or pension — only better!

If you're serious, sincere, let's talk. Letter preferred, giving name, address, phone number, and sufficient references to verify.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Younger Generation Damaging Ears With Today's Pop Music

Van Dellen

If rock 'n' roll recordings were medications they might never pass our FDA because the racket causes deafness. Dr. Frederick L. Dey of New London, Conn., tested sound pressure levels in a local discotheque and found the octave band frequencies most damaging to hearing. A typical reading of 110 decibels was obtained at a distance of 30 feet from the loudspeaker.

Noise is measured in decibels. In general, 35 is acceptable in court and classrooms, 55 in restaurants and 60 in a sports arena. At 80 decibels it is difficult to hear a telephone conversation if the room is noisy. Ninety can be tolerated for only a short time and 100 causes severe physical discomfort. At take-off, jets create 130 decibels and a mile from the runway 100 decibels.

ADMITTEDLY, 110 decibels in the discotheque is a lot of noise. At this level, exposue lasting an hour or two can be expected to cause some loss of hearing. At first, the impairment is temporary and due to fatigue of the hearing apparatus. But prolonegd exposure results in deafness (acoustic trauma). Furthermore, there is ample proof that pop music is damaging the hearing of the present younger generation.

In industry, prolonged exposure to noise (greater than 85 decibels) is hazardous, even though susceptibility to noise damage varies with the individual. Ringing of the ears (tinnitus) may be an early indication of damage, but regular auditory testing is the only certain way of detecting the condition.

WITH AGE, hearing becomes less acute, and if the individual has worked in a fairly noisy environment for many years, he is likely to blame noise for the deficit. Audiometer tests usually distinguish between the two possibilities because different sound levels are involved.

City dwellers find noise pollution almost as disagreeable as air pollution. There is a good possibility that daily exposure has some harmful effect upon hearing.

PAINFUL ARM

O.D. writes: My doctor said that the pain in my right arm is coming from a vertebra in my neck. Would an operation relieve this condition?

REPLY

Yes, provided tests have demonstrated pressure upon the nerve as it comes out of the vertebra. This is particularly true if a disk is protruding and pressing upon the nerve. You ought to consult a neurosurgeon or an orthopedic specialist.

SPASTIC COLON

REPLY

Abdominal pain develops because of cramping or spasm of the intestine. Nervousness is the most common cause and the condition is most prevalent during periods of stress and strain.

Panel To Hear $120 Million Bay Fill Plan

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A precedent-setting development proposed for San Francisco's waterfront will be heard by the Bay Conservation and Development Commission at 2 p.m. on Thursday in Room 1194 of the State Building, 455 Golden Gate Avenue.

The $120 million proposal for a hotel, offices and stores on 18.4 acres of fill and pilings has aroused the biggest storm of controversy in the commission's five-year history.

Linked to the development is a staff proposal to allow bay use for any purpose if an equivalent area of fill or pilings is restored to open bay. The development would replace 13.9 acres of existing piers.

The commission's present policy is to limit bay uses to water-oriented projects.

BACKWARDS CRASH INJURES DRIVER

The demolished auto driven by Willis Clark Jr., 42, of 215 Bayview Street, San Rafael, rests in the doorway of the Boy Scout headquarters on A street after a noon-hour crash. Clark's auto struck three parked vehicles yesterday on Second Street and then backed into a fourth, moving car before slamming into the building. San Rafael police said Clark, eastbound in the right lane on Second, may have had a seizure before driving his car into unoccupied vehicles parked on the south side of Second street and owned by Jack Underwood, 823 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Kentfield, and James E. Ruzicka, 36 Bell Avenue, Fairfax. The car then going into reverse grazed an auto driven by Virginia Martha Huerto-Rojo, 35, of 28 Monterey Street, San Anselmo, and backed at more than 25 miles per hour into the building around the corner of A Street. Clark was reported in satisfactory condition today by Kaiser Hospital in San Francisco, with multiple injuries, including a possible broken neck.

Creek Debris Problems In Fairfax

The Fairfax City Council last night waded through problems of debris-clogged streams in what one councilman called an "hour-long bull session."

The discussion, which centered on San Anselmo and Cascade creeks, ended only after Councilman Francis J. O'Connell moved it be continued to Sept. 25 because, as he said later, "we would have been here all night."

The discussion was spurred by a meeting between councilmen and residents last week over the operation of a bulldozer in the Arroyo Road channel.

DOING HARM

Claiming the bulldozer was doing more harm than good, residents convinced the council to cease operation until a policy of creek clearing could be maintained.

The discussion swirled from residents who fear debris-clogged creeks will continue to erode their property when winter rains begin, to residents questioning the city's policy on the construction of creekside bulkheads to halt erosion.

City Engineer Ben C. Albritton told the council much of the creek problem has been caused by haphazard clearing of channel beds.

"You can't haphazardly put a cat (bulldozer) into a channel and say that what is being moved will have a good or bad effect," he said. "You're upsetting the balance of nature by tampering with the velocity of the water and with the rate of (bank) erosion."

STUDIES NEEDED

Albritton said the only way to insure proper creek flow is through extensive studies. "Right now there is no satisfactory answer," he said.

"You take the trees and stumps out and you increase the velocity of the water which causes erosion. You don't take the trees out and you have (debris) blockage which backs up the water and creates flooding," he explained.

Sidney W. Foote of 50 Creek Road noted the erosion and questioned the city's policy of permitting only concrete bulkheads.

"I don't see why redwood retaining walls shouldn't be allowed," responded Mayor Frank J. Egger.

STATE DEBRIS

Related questions came from Charles Bagley of 334 Bolinas Road who sought city support in ending erosion to his property by Cascade Creek.

Magley, who lives adjacent to a piece of property owned by the state, said debris from the state property and the backing up of a culvert on Cascade Drive were primarily responsible for the loss of his retaining wall.

The city disavowed ownership of the culvert, which runs across the state property, except for that portion under Cascade Road.

"This is not getting us anywhere," said Councilman O'Connell, who labeled the discussion a "bullsession." He moved that the discussion be continued. A special meeting was set for Sept. 25.

Holding Pond Urged For Flooding Relief

A Santa Rosa consulting engineer told the Belvedere City Council last night that the city can expect relief from flooding this winter if certain measures are taken before rains begin.

Specifically, the engineer, Milton Hudis, said that work should be started soon on a holding pond behind the Safeway market on Tiburon Boulevard.

He recommended enlargement of the pond, owned by the Tiburon Peninsula Club, and conveyance of its waters across the Northwestern Pacific Railroad right-of-way to an existing ditch and culvert and thence to Raccoon Strait.

"This is the most urgent work facing us, and it would be a very effective measure against flooding," said Hudis. He told Mayor Edwin J. Drechsel that a gravity system to convey the water would be best, because such a system would not require extensive pumps.

Although he emphasized that work on the pond would be an interim measure, Hudis said it would reduce flooding "for one or two years" until more permanent improvements could be made.

The recommendation coincided with one made by tre Tiburon-Belvedere Joint Drainage Study Committee, a group that earlier in the year pointed to the holding pond as the key to proving temporary flood relief.

Other projects, which Hudis said were more long-term in nature, included building a system of pipes in the Reed and Belvedere basins and the planting of grass in the Reed basin and on Red Hill to prevent silt runoff.

Hudis was hired with matching $2,500 appropriations by Tiburon and Belvedere to study drainage problems in the two cities and come up with interim and long-range solutions. His report to the council last night was based on his first two weeks of studying the problem and a more thorough report will be delivered later.

Drechsel expressed hope that Belvedere and Tiburon may be able to save money on the projects suggested by Hudis by using city crews to perform the work.

Fairfax Gets Cable TV Contract

The Fairfax City council last night succeeded in negotiating a new contract with Clear View Cable Systems for cable television service to city residents.

After about a year of sparing over a new contract, the two agreed last night that the city should recieve a 5 per cent service fee from the company, which will begin collecting $5.50 per month from subscribers beginning in January. The city now collects 2 per cent.

Subscribers who originally contracted with the company for $4.50 per month by placing a $50 deposit will not be affected by the new contract as long as continuous service is maintained.

Subscribers who are now paying $5.50 and $6.50 per month will pay $5.50 monthly in 1971, $5.75 in 1972 and $6 in 1973. The life of the contract will be 20 years.

By a 3-2 vote, Robert R. Souza and Lee Nelder dissenting, the council ordered drafting of an ordinance.

The city had struggled for its 5 per cent and a monthly service charge to customers of $5. The council had argued this would be comparable to San Anselmo and other Marin cities.

The company countered that at such a rate it would mean a loss of about $11,000 per year or about 70 cents a customer per month.

In accepting the city's offer, Clear View attorney Joseph Sheeks said "losing 20 cents (per customer) is better than losing 70 cents" the first year.

Subsequent annual increases through 1973 are expected to recoup those losses.

The Fairfax City Council also:

BIDS — Postponed awarding a contract for construction of the Arroyo Road Retaining wall when only one bid was received from O. C. Jones and Sons of Berkeley for $13,500, about $5,500 above the city engineer's estimate.

CANYON ROAD — Approved unanimously acceptance of Canyon Road for city maintenance after residents paid to bring it up to city standards.

STREET REPAIRS — Tabled a request from San Anselmo that the two cities split the cost of repairing about 800 feet of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard which borders Fairfax city limits.

CONSTRUCTION — Approved sending to bid street repairs on Crest Road. Bids to be opened Oct. 13.

DRAINAGE — Approved the construction of a $400 culvert along Meernaa Avenue by city personnel.

SITE DEVELOPMENT — Approved the use of the city personnel to prepare White Hill School recreational area for installation of an irrigation system.

Greyhound's Cutback Pleas Criticized

New cutbacks in bus service in Southern and Central Marin — sought by Greyhound Lines West in an application pending before the California Public Utilities Commission — drew unanimous opposition today from Marin County Transit District directors.

The cutbacks, which Greyhound said would reduce the amount it soon will seek in a separate application for new fare hikes, could mean 90-minute delays between connecting midday, weekday buses, according to the district's acting manager, James Robertson.

"FIRST GAMBIT"

Marin County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney said that the cutbacks probably were "a first gambit in Greyhound's long-expressed desire to withdraw from commuter service in Marin."

The seven-member board agreed with his prognosis, and voted to send him to protest the application when it is heard by the PUC at 10 a .m. on Oct. 1 in the commission courtroom, 350 McAllister Street, San Francisco.

Chairman John F. McInnis added that the pplication underscored the need for the Golden Gate Bridge District to move fast to set up its commuter bus system. The district got permission from San Francisco to run the system downtown last week, after a year's delay.

McINNIS WARNING

The cutbacks, Robertson explained, will increase from 30 to 45 minutes the interval between buses on three routes, thus connecting routes no longer will overlap. The affected routes are the C, which operates through Sausalito to Marin City and north to Fairfax and San Anselmo via Corte Madera and Larkspur, the D, which follows the same route except that it bypasses Sausalito using Highway 101, and the G, a shuttle between Fairfax and San Rafael.

Most service in the county is on 30-minute or one-hour intervals, Robertson said, thus a 45-minute schedule "would cause a discontinuity of many trips from routes by persons wishing to transfer."

Marin Transit System Wins Another Subsidy

Marin Transit Systems today won another month's subsidy of $4,000 from the Marin County Transit District to keep it going until it contracts with the Golden Gate Bridge District for Marin service.

The transit directors also got a request for a subsidy to a separate bus company connecting San Rafael with San Quentin Prison and Richmond.

Cecil J. Allen, owner of the San Rafael Bus Line, said he no longer could operate "without some assistance." His letter to the board did not state how much assistance he wanted, but he told the Independent-Journal that he needed $750 to $1,000 a month.

Marin Transit Systems, a Marin City-based company, has received $30,000 in subsidies from the transit district through today. The transit district also has promised to provide the company with a $51,000 subsidy for six months after it contracts with the bridge district to expand its service to Novato.

The company has been operating a feeder service to the Tiburon ferry since last November.

Tiburon Councilman Denis T. Rice, a member of the transit board, attempted unsuccessfully to increase the subsidy to $6,000, but lost in a 3-4 vote. Voting with Rice were San Anselmo Councilman Kenneth L. Anderson and Supervisor Michael Wornum.

The company's attorney, Albert Bianchi, pointed out that his client originally had asked for almost $8,000 a month. The $4,000 subsidy, he said, was "a bare minimum" that still will leave the company with an operating loss.

The general manager of the bridge district, Dale W. Luehring, said he hoped that a contract between the bridge district and the company can be ironed out within a month. Under the contract, the bridge district will hire the company to serve the Tiburon and North Marin routes, with the county transit district continuing to subsidize the operations for intracounty service.

Intercounty service, such as to bus passengers also using the Tiburon ferry, would be subsidized by the bridge district.

In other business, the directors referred to staff for study a request from a woman in the audience that local newspapers publish bus schedules regularly, "just like the winds and tides." McInnis commented that the bus schedules "are changeable — like the winds and tides."

J.B. Rice Named To Span Post

J. Brooks Rice of Alameda, a retired Greyhound Lines vice president, has been hired by the Golden Gate Bridge district to fill its new $18,000-a-year position of transportation maintenance manager.

Rice, 62, formerly was in charge of maintenance of all Greyhound equipment west of Chicago.

The district's transit manager, H. Donald White, who announced the hiring, said Rice had invaluable experience in setting up a bus system since he was the first maintenance manager of the Alameda-Contra Costa Transit District.

White and Rice thus will have the same roles as the bridge district sets up its $7.7-million, 132 commuter bus system. White was the assistant general manager of the East Bay district.

Rice, who already has been advising the bridge district on its bus plans, will start work on Oct. 1.

Rice worked for Greyhound from 1931 to 1960, rising to assistant maintenance manager for Greyhound's western operations. He joined A-C transit in 1960, and worked there until he was hired bacq by Greyhound in 1964 as a vice president. He retired last year.

A public hearing on the dismissal of Gabe Jackson, community worker for the Sausalito School District, was postponed last night by the Sausalito School board when Jackson failed to attend the meeting and asked for a continuance.

Greg Dunn, field representative for the California State Employees Association, told the board Jackson did not feel he could appear "because he has received several telephone calls suggesting in rather strong language" that he not attend the meeting.

Trustees voted to continue the hearing until Sept. 28 at 7:30 p.m., 8 Bayside School. At that time trustees will hear testimony on the charges they have formulated against the community worker.

A request from Dunn that an impartial hearing officer be hired to conduct the hearing was turned down by the board. The CSEA representative said he feld the use of such an officer was "critical."

I don't see how you could judge the merits of any testimony given at the hearing without reflecting on prior testimony you have heard," he told the board. On Aug. 24, the board met in closed session for two hours to hear testimony from interim Supt. Robert G. Spain and Jackson about the incident.

"Someone who is not involved could approach the situation in complete neutrality," Dunn continued. Board chairman Nathaniel Johnson, who voted against proceeding with Jackson's dismissal, said the trustees' initial decision to go ahead with the firing "is an indication that the board has already made up its mind."

Trustee Jerry L. Whitcomb disagreed. "I absolutely do not have any pre-conceived ideas. For me, everything was chopped off at that point, after that meeting."

Whitcomb added Jackson will not be in the position of "disproving anything at the hearing; instead, it will be up to the administration to convince us it is necessary to fire Mr. Jackson."

Trustee Delta Christ said she felt some changes in board policy for dismissals may be necessary. "I feel we should give the superintendent the power to dismiss (an employee)," she said, "and then the board could hear the charges and make the final decision."

At present, the board, on the recommendation of the superintendent, must vote to go ahead with dismissal proceedings and also draw up a list of charges against the employee in question.

The Sausalito School District Board Also:

RESIGNATIONS — Accepted the resignations of Thomas Bonynge, a teacher, who has accepted a position with San Francisco State College, and Peggy Williams, an educational aide; Myrna Hill and Victoria Meade, both school secretaries. All three resigned for personal reasons.

LEAVES OF ABSENCE — Granted a one-month leave of absence without pay to teacher Mary Davis and a six weeks' leave of absence without pay to Jeanne White, an education aide.

TITLE 1 AIDES — Agreed to pay for tuition and books needed at the College of Marin for eight title one educational aides, since federal funds for that part of the program have been withdrawn.

TRANSFER POLICY — Adopted additions to the district's interdistrict transfer policy which deal with expenses of education. The board agreed that if a child transfers out of Sausalito, the district will pay the cost of educating a child in the district the transfer student plans to attend, minus state and federal monies. If a child comes into the district where the student resides to pay that district's current cost of education, less state and federal funds.

TRANSFERS Accepted four children, Lisa Pardee, David Padgett and Lee and Scott Kresky, as transfers into the district. Denied transfers out of the district for Launa Gaines, Robert Howe and Cassandra Politzer and granted transfer requests for Peter Zimmerman and Connie Bradley who plan to attend Reed and Mill Valley districts.

MEETING — Set a special meeting to hear a report from the director of the outdoor education school in San Mateo County for tomorrow at 4 p.m. in Bayside School. The board tabled action on a recommendation from Spain to allow 100 fifth and sixth grade students to participate in the one-week camp program which begins Sept. 28 after Royce McLemore, a Marin City parent, said youngsters who attended the program in 1968 were "very badly treated" and called names by some of the camp counselors. Mrs. LcLemore said a group of parents had called for an investigation of the program at that time and asked the board to look into the matter before sending any more youngsters.

ENROLLMENT — Heard a report from the superintendent that enrollment in the district is 501 students.

Novato Land Use Change Abandoned

Novato Sanitary Board Sets $5.5 Million Bond Election

The Novato Sanitary District board last night adopted a resolution calling for a $5.5 million special bond election Dec. 8 to finance a sewage works improvement project.

The Novato Sanitary District Board Also:

HAMILTON RATE — Approved a rate hike for service to Hamilton Air Force Base, including the Capehart and Rafael Village housing areas, from 95.1 cents to $1.051 per unit per month. Mgr. Trio Of Firms Hired To Plan Tam Projects

The Tamalpais High School District board last night approved hiring three San Francisco architectural firms to plan district projects totalling about $860,000.

According to Edward J. Neumeier, administrative assistant, the three firms were recommended by an architictural selection committee which spent about two years interviewing firms for the district.

Neumeier said the firms hired last night were Wurster, Bernardi and Emmons to design a $231,000 multipurpose-lecture room at Sir Francis Drake High School; Bushnell, Jessup, Murphy and Vandeweghe to plan a $357,500 student center at Tamalpais High School, and Richard C. Marshall and Chester Bowles for $277,000 remodeling at Redwood High School.

Mudcat Traded In Mystery Move

The only consistent performer on the Oakland pitching staff, Grant compiled an impressive 6-2 record with an earned run average of 1.71. He saved 24 games and earned the unusual distinction of keeping his earned run mark below 1.00 for several weeks of the campaign.

It is no secret that the A's, who have experienced trouble with their starting pitchers, would not be as high as their current second place standing in the American League West without the effective late inning relief of Grant.

Howeber, Grant also made no secret of his opinion of club owner Finley. The veteran hurler said in a pre-game radio broadcast Sunday that the A's would have been more successful in 1970 without interference from the front office.

Grant's comment may or may not have been the reason for his being traded. He certainly was no troublemaker among his teammates. In fact, it was Grant and a few other veterans such as Tommy Davis and Felipe Alou who lent a measure of stability and maturity to a young ballclub racked by a running feud between Finley and slumping slugger Reggie Jackson.

Full terms of the Grant deal have not yet been disclosed. Undoubtedly, the Pirates are happy to be receiving a man who can help their pitching situation down the stretch of the National League East pennant fight.

The A's were rained out Monday. They play a twi-night doubleheader against Milwaukee today. Since Minnesota also was rained out Monday, Oakland still trails the first place Twins by eight games.

BOCCABELLA OUT FOR THE SEASON

MONTREAL (UPI) — Montreal Expos catcher-first baseman John Boccabella will miss the balance of the 1970 season after undergoing surgery for acute appendicitis at Queen Elizabeth Hospital here Monday afternoon.

Doctors decided to operate after Boccabella complained of pains.

Making A Pitch For New York

The acute appendicitis that has sidelined Montreal Expos catcher-first baseman John Boccabella for the remainder of the season means the Marin County slugger will finish up the year pitching for New York. I mean, he'll be making a pitch for the New York Life Insurance Co. as a salesman in Marin, his off season occupation.

KEN BLUE, who coached football at Drake High in 1953, posting a 4-5 won-lost record, is now linebacker coach for the St. Louis Cardinals of the National Football League. Blue, 48, is famous around Stockton as the only undefeated, untied, unscored upon head football coach in University of Pacific history. Because: During the winter he was named the head man at Pacific and after a month resigned to accept the St. Louis job without so much as drawing an X or an O in anger at Pacific.

The Same Dan Fouts

YES INDEEDY, that Dan Fouts who led Oregon to its 31-24 upset of Cal in their Pacific 8 Conference opener at Portland last Saturday night was the same skinny little Dan Fouts who quarterbacked Marin Catholc High n 1966. Dan transferred from Marin to St. Ignatius where he became a star and earned a scholarship to Oregon. The son of sportscaster Bob Fouts, Dan, a soph, passed 32 yards for the winning TD over Cal.

LAST FRIDAY a press release from U. of Pacific said wide receiver Honor Jackson (senior from Mill Valley) "has been the subject of rave notices." The very next afternoon the most Honorable Jackson lived up to rave notices by catching 42-yard touchdown pass from quarterback John Read as the Pacific Tigers edged University of Texas at El Paso, 24-18.

No Action For Alvarado

NO, I DON'T think San Anselmo's Don Alvarado saw any action for Stanford in that TV thriller at Arkansas Saturday afternoon. At least I didn't see his No. 85 on the field. The former Drake star is second string split end and has been nursing a hip pointer, so he didn't figure to see much action. Besides, Stanford tried to give the win to Arkansas and needed its healthy first string all the way.

REDWOOD HIGH assistant football coach Al Endriss says the Larkspur school's sophomore quarterback-defensive back Darryl Etralin, part Hawaiian, "reminds me a lot of Herman Wedemeyer," the former St. Mary's College All-American halfback of the mid-1940s. "He (Etralin) will be a great one," says Endriss.

A Scratch Golfer In Hawaii

Endriss compared Etralin to Squirmin' Herman because during the summer the Redwood coach bumped into Wedey in Hawaii. "He looks great," said Endriss of the former Gael flash. "He's a scratch golfer and is getting back into politics over there."

DUE TO A mixup in jerseys and numbers printed in the official program, there was an error in the caption on that Pop Warner Conference pictorial spread in last night's I-J. No. 22 for the Drake Junior Pirates was Jay McDonald of San Anselmo and NOT Ken Davis.

CHALK TALKS, BULLDOGS LISTEN

Coach Bob Muster uses chalk to put across some points while preparing his San Rafael High School Bulldogs for their 1970 football opener against George Washington High of San Francisco Friday night at San Rafael. The Bulldogs, looking forward to a winning season with an abundance of speed and experience on their roster, are rated among the strong contenders in the Marin County Athletic League. All Marin and southern Sonoma county high schools will be in action this weekend.

Reg Carolan Fails In Try With Bills

Reg Carolan of Novato, veteran profesisonal tight end who was released by the world champion Kansas City Chiefs last month, has failed in his bid to win a job with the Buffalo Bills of the National Football League's American Conference.

The United Press International reported today that the Bills have also released the former Drake High School star. He was trying to win a job as a tight end and punter, the wire service said.

Carolan, a substitute teacher in Marin County during the off season, suffered a leg injury in the 1969 exhibition season and sat out the entire season, although he remained with the Chiefs and shared in their championship rewards.

Carolan could not be reached for comment this morning.

Banaszek Might Miss 49er Game

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (UPI)—Tackle Cas Banaszek and defensive lineman Charlie Krueger hope to recover from leg injuries in time for the San Francisco 49ers' regular season opener against Washington.

The 49ers finished 1-4 in exhibitions despite outgaining four or five opponents. Fumbles, interceptions, a breakdown by special teams and a plodding offensive attack cost the club several games.

Krueger, nursing a pulled thigh muscle, sat out a loss to Los Angeles in which Banaszek injured a knee. Krueger may recover sufficiently for the game against the Redskins. But Banaszek suffered a hemorrhage in his knee and was hospitalized. He could miss the season opener.

Nolan drilled the 49ers Monday in an effort to eliminate recurring errors which plagued San Francisco throughout the exhibition schedule.

"We've worked on the areas that need improvement," Nolan said. "The defense is better. The kicking game is improved. We'll spend considerable time with the offense this week. Against the Rams, we spent most of the game backed up in our own territory."

Cassius Wins Ruling; To Apply For License

NEW YORK (UPI) — Cassius Clay, bolstered by a judge's ruling that he cannot be barred from boxing for refusing to be inducted into the Army, will apply for a license later this week, and the New York State Athletic Commission is expected to rule on the application Thursday.

UNREASONABLE

Federal Judge Walter R. Mansfield ruled Monday that the commission's suspension of Clay, also known as Muhammad Ali, three years ago "constituted an arbitrary and unreasonable departure from the commission's established practice of granting licenses to applicants convicted of crimes or military offenses."

The judge pointed out that "a number of licenses were granted to convicted felons in 1967 but it does not appear whether the commission acted before or after the denial of Alis' application. In any event, 35 licenses were granted to felons and those who committed misdemeanors in 1968 and 1969 and Ali's license was suspended by the commission."

He added, "The commission has offered no proof to refute the overwhelming and undisputed proof of arbitrary, capricious and unfounded discrimination against the plaintiff (Clay)."

THE FIRST

The New York commission was the very first to strip Clay of his heavyweight title and place him on suspension after he refused to be inducted into the Army 3 1-2 years ago. Every other boxing authority in the world eventually followed suit, and he was subsequently found guilty of draft evasion.

It was less than two weeks ago that Clay finally was granted permission by a local boxing commission to enter the ring for an exhibition bout in Atlanta. Encouraged by the action, the 28-year-old Clay has signed to defend his "title" against Jerry Quarry on Oct. 26 in Atlanta, and will begin training in Miami Tuesday.

"The way I look at it," Clay said, "it's just great to get a chance to earn a living again. I dont have hard feelings against nobody. They did what they thought was right and I did what I thought was right."

Chiefs Cut Flores

KANSAS CITY (UPI) — Quarterback Tom Flores, an original Oakland Raider who remained with the club through 1966, has been released by the Super Bowl champion Kansas City Chiefs.

Johnson Is Giants Ace Utility Man

Key Hit In S.F. Victory

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Frank Johnson finally seems to have found a home with the San Francisco Giants but it's not exactly what he had in mind.

The 28-year old native of El Paso, Texas, failed in three previous trials with the Giants and wasn't even invited to spring camp this year.

However, Johnson never gave up and Charlie Fox, upon being named manager in May, brought him up again this year, and now he looks like a solid fixture but strictly as a utility man.

FOR McCOVEY

Monday night he was the key man in a 7-5 victory for the Giants over the Atlanta Braves, and he did it after taking over for Willie Mc Covey at first base in the fourth inning.

Johnson, who also can play the outfield and third base delivered three hits in as many at-bats and his second one was the big one in a four-run sixth inning rally that broke a 3-3 tie.

"He is the perfect utility player," said Fox of Johnson. "He can play three positions for me and is a good right-handed pinch-hitter. I couldn't ask for more from anyone. Dont't forget, a team is as strong as its bench and Frank gives me a lot of bench."

Johnson doubled with the bases filled in the sixth inning rally Monday after a walk to Willie Mays with bases filled gave the Giants their first run of the frame. A wild pitch by Atlanta reliever Phil Niekro pushed across the fourth run.

BATTING .257

While Johnson was happy with his performance he didn't exactly buy Fox's evaluation of him as a utility player.

"I'm not complaining," he said, "I'm young enough and I think I can do a job. But if they say this is my role then that's the way it will have to be."

The three hits pushed Johnson's batting average to .275 and he now has 30 runs batted in. Not bad for a guy who has appeared in parts of 60 games.

Frank Reberger was the chief beneficiary of Johnson's key hit as he picked up his sixth victory in 12 decisions. However, Frank, who gave up nine hits and walked five batters, needed help from 40-year old Don McMahon over the final 2-1-3 innings. McMahon didn't give up a hit over the stretch and the only man to reach base off him did it via an error, Hal Lanier's second of the game.

FIFTH SAVE

The save was McMahon's fifth in the last eight games for the Giants, who have won five

Limping Raiders On Mend

OAKLAND (UPI)—Five more players have been added to the extensive injury list of the Oakland Raiders.

Linebacker Bill Laskey, Duane Benson and Gerald Irons, safety George Atkinson and wide receiver Rod Sherman all suffered minor hurts over the weekend in Oakland's 20-6 loss to Pittsburgh.

Coach John Madden said Monday the five injured players, plus four who sat out the Pittsburgh game, should recuperate in time for the Raiders' regular season opener Sunday at Cincinnati.

Receivers Fred Biletnikoff and Ray Chester and running backs Marv Hubbard and Pete Banaszak all should be ready for the Bengals.

IN SAN JOSE

Marin Tars Drill For Grid Opener

The Tars, who did a little scrimmaging with Sonoma State College last Saturday, get down to real game business this Saturday night when they travel to San Jose for their season opener with the San Jose City College Jaguars, a team that beat them last year, 28-14.

College of Marin coach Dick Read said about San Jose's team: "They're about like us," meaning they have some backfield men returning from 1969, but are hurting for veterans on the line.

A member of the Golden Gate Conference, San Jose should by rights be much stronger than the Tars, since the South Bay school has an enrollment of close to 9,000 as compared to Marin's 4,000.

The Kentfield campus rates about in the middle regarding enrollment among schools in the Camino Norte Conference, which the Tars joined three years ago.

About last Saturday's scrimmage with Sonoma State, Read said, "We were pretty even with them."

Read had praise for quarterback Peters and running back Ron Blasingame among the backfield people, tackle Rich Simpson and center Charlie McBride on offense, and linebacker dave Perron, safety Pete Carroll and cornerback John Dohn on defense.

Perron, a Marin County Athletic League all-star last season for Novato High School, is the best so far of the freshmen who have come out for the Marin Club. Altogether some 50 players are on the Tar roster, roughly the number Read will carry into the season.

The Tars' other fall sports, cross country and water polo, will also get underway this weekend. The cross country team, under Tony Bailey, journeys to San Mateo Saturday for a beach run that morning against the College of San Mateo.

Marin will be out to improve a 1969 CNC record of three wins and two losses. Four lettermen led by last year's conference champion Don Makela will be joined by former Tamalpais High School great Keith Krieger in forming a fairly strong nucleus. Bailey says Krieger has been running really well in early workouts.

Marin's water polo squad, coached by Bob Justice, opens the 1970 season in the Visalia Tournament at the College of Sequoia Saturday and Sunday.

Seals Will Send 20 Players To Minors

OSHAWA, Ont. (UPI) — Coach Fred Glover says 20 players will be sent to the minor leagues following the Oakland Seals' exhibition hockey game here Friday night against Buffalo.

The competition's ads have been somewhat vague about prices. But we're spelling ours out. Our suggested retail price for the two-passenger Gremlin is $1,899, the lowest list price of any car made in America. The four-passenger lists for $1,999.

This may be the first time in history that you could buy an original for less.

FISH AND GAME

New Trout In Bon Tempe; Great Fishing At Shasta

By AL GIDDINGS

Trout plants were made today with nearly 5,000 catchable trout dumped in Bon Tempe Reservior here in Marin County. Witha cooling system installed n Bon Tempe, the waters are now cool and fit for the present plants. Other plants will be made periodically in Bon Tempe.

Some of those anglers trying Kent Dam recently were disappointed! The hotbait taking the fish there was a miniature marshmallow with a Pautzke egg seasoning! One marshmallow and one egg! Try it. Isn't it ridiculous!

LAKE MERCED in San Francisco also received plants if you travel in that direction.

And Shasta Lake and the high Sierra lakes are just reaching their best depths and temperatures for top fishing. Just received a report on Shasta County trout fishing from Bob Borello of Point Reyes. Bob and George Honenko, Novato, took weight limits from lower Hat Creek. George's best fish, a rainbow weighing 12 pounds, 15 ounces, 27½ inches in length and 19½ inches in girth. If that's not a big enough fish, try the Klamath River. It's reported red hot for salmon.

THE STRIPER fishing has still been good around the Richmond Bridge area. The other 2:30 a.m., the San Quentin security officials called telling me that the bass were jumping in the lighted area of the bridge. They also stated that the illegal night anglers were out! I went down and cited two of the anglers, adults all the way from Concord, for night fishing. They had one fish taken on a fly. Two others were juveniles from up Corte Madera slough way. They were all in boats, but in the lights they really show up! You know, it's great fishing there one hour before sunrise in the dark and it's legal one hour before sunrise, but 2:30, that's really an early three hours before sunrise! Oh, for the life of a game warden! By the way, 5:50 a.m. is now the legal starting time!

I RECEIVED a note from Winter Enterprises in San Jose at 1430 Cherryhill Drive. Bud Winter writes: "How would you like to fish where the fish are stacked in the stream like a log jam; and they eagerly take a fly! These finny monsters are Coho salmon with weights topping 20 pounds. The place? The remote Queen Charlotte Islands, but I can jet you there in four hours from San Francisco. You'll live at the Thele River Lodge. Bonus attractions include: Deer so plentiful there is no bag limit or season, mushrooms that weigh five pounds, and clams and crabs so plentiful that it's unbelievable. I take eight people at a time, and this opportunity comes seldom in a lifetime. All this is available from August through October!"

He didn't mention what they drink up in that area, but it must be good!

THOSE OF you who have killed deer, get your tags validated and mailed in! The wardens usually send for all the tags, checking them against club areas in the county. If no tags show up from some areas where club and ranches definitely do a lot of hunting, personal calls are made there for a final checkout. Citations could be issued. There will be a two week interval before the season opens Sept. 26 for the inland deer season this year.

AND LAST, but not least, Marty Medin of the Marin County Fire Dept. finally killed his first buck. Mary, my wife and the kids took him out for his last hunt, and they ran him a buck. Marty got one shot, and thought he had missed, but he had the good sense to have Mary check the brushy area where he shot, and there was his trophy. Mary said, "Marty then got the fever, couldn't make out his tag, and almost cut his finger off gutting the deer." That's par for the course. Now, everybody's happy!

Playoff Schedule Arranged

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—National League president Chub Feeney has made arrangements for playoff games in the event of a two or three team tie for first place in the Eastern Division.

Feeney said Monday that lots were drawn by the league championship series planning committee in New York Sept. 10, to determine the site of an Oct. 2 playoff game in the event of a two-team tie involving Pittsburgh, New York or Chicago.

The Pirates would have to play in an enemy park no matter who their opponent. The Cubs, who would be at home against Pittsburgh, would have to travel to New York if tied with the Mets. New York would have the home field adventage in any case.

In the event of a three-team tie, the club with the highest winning percentage against the other two clubs would have the option of selecting an opponent and a playing site.

The club with the second highest percentage gets the second option. Such a playoff arrangement would be held Oct. 2-3.

If two or three clubs finish with identical winning percentages, their options would be determinetd by lot.

of their last six starts and eight of their last 10. Overall, it was big Don's 18th save and he kiddingly said "There's nothing to it. All you have to do is to get them to hit it to no. 24." No. 24, of course, is Willie Mays.

McMahon knew what he was talking about. Of the seven men he retired four hit the ball to Mays in centerfield.

The Giants jumped to a 2-0 lead on Atlanta starter and loser Mike Mc Queen (0-4) in the second on a hit batsman, a double by Bernie Williams and a single by Reberger. They made it 3-0 in the next inning on Mays' second double, a wild pitch and a passed ball.

Gaylord Perry (20-13) pitches tonight in the second game of the series and Ron Reed (6-9) goes for The Braves. In Wednesday's wrapup game it will be Juan Marichal against Jim Nash.

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

Add Danny Frisella To Met Hero List

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Add Danny Frisella to the list of unlikely heroes in the history of the New York Mets.

A 24-year-old right-handed relief pitcher who has bounced around between the majors and the minors since 1966, Frisella has suddenly become a big man in the Mets' hopes of winning a second straight National League pennant.

Frisella, who throws a crackling curveball which he sometimes gets over the plate, won his seventh game of the season Monday night when the Mets beat the Montreal Expos, 9-5, in 10 innings and moved into a first-place tie with the idle Pittsburgh Pirates in the National League East. The Mets and Pirates are one game ahead of the Chicago Cubs with the three teams separated by a blanket og seven percentage points.

"We are getting good relief pitching now," said Mets manager Gil Hodges after Monday night's victory. "Ron Herbel has helped us and Frisella and Tug McGraw are contributing, too."

Frisella held the Expos to one run and one hit for five inings and became the winning pitcher when the Mets scored four runs in the 10th inning with the help of errors by Ron Fairly and John Bateman.

Jerry Grote led off the inning with a single and pinch-runner Rod Gaspar stole second and went to third when Bud Harrelson was safe on an error by Fairly. Gaspar was trapped between third and home on Tommie Agee's grounder but scored when Bateman threw wild during the rundown to put the Mets in front, 6-5. Wayne Garrett's double, Ron Swoboda's sacrifice fly and Donn Clendenon's single drove in three more runs to round out the inning.

The Los Angeles Dodgers beat the San Diego Padres, 12-4, and the San Francisco Giants downed the Atlanta Braves, 7-5, in the only other NL games Monday night. California at Minnesota and Oakland at Milwaukee were postponed by rain in the only scheduled American League action.

Willie Davis' double with two on keyed a five-run first-inning outburst which carried the Dodgers to their victory and snapped a five-game San Diego winning streak. Claude Osteen yielded three runs in the ninth but won his 15th game against 13 losses. Ivan Murrell hit his 11th homer of the year for the Padres.

No Takers On Halas' Challenge

CHICAGO (UPI)—And so ends another chapter in the story of Papa Bear George Halas, head of the Chicago Bears. He stood eyeball-to-eyeball with the bookmakers, and they blinked.

The chapter opened last week with Halas hearing that Jimmy "The Greek" Snyder, a Las Vegas oddsmaker, had offered 200-to-1 against the Bears to win the NFL championship.

Halas promptly said he would ask football commissioner Pete Rozelle for permission to place a $15,000 bet, with proceeds of any win going to cancer research as a memorial to the late Bear backfield star Brian Piccolo.

"It is regrettable," Halas said Monday, "that none of the legalized professional makers in Las Vegas had enough faith in the 200-to-1 odds against the Bears to challenge my $15,000 investment. Three very meritorious cancer research funds would have benefited richly, I'm sure.

"I was amused by the so-called expert's explanation how he arrived at 200 to 1. He rated Detroit and Green Bay each 5 to 1 and Minnesota 8 to 1 over the Bears, and so multiplying five by five by eight, he arrived at 200."

Candlestick Work Gets Okay

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The San Francisco Park and Recreation Commission has approved an $11.5 million bid from Williams and Burrows, Inc., to go ahead with the long delayed expansion of Candlestick Park.

Construction and installation of new seats and other improvements, if started in a couple of months, would not be completed until March 1973 by the earliest.

Approval of the bid was welcomed by owner Lou Spadia, whose San Francisco 49ers have been playing in rundown Kezar Stadium.

McClinton, Long In Early Retirement From Football

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

A lot of older men look forward to a nice, easy, rocking-chair existence. But at the age of 31?

Curtis McClinton and Charlie Long, both 31, are hardly ready to lead sedentary lives. But both retired Monday from pro football wars.

McClinton, the man who scored the Kansas City Chiefs' first regular season touchdown back in 1933, wrote finis to a distinguished eight-year pro career. An All-American out of Kansas University, McClinton was American Football League Rookie of the year in 1962, and three-time All-AFL.

Long joined the Boston Patriots out of the University of Chattanooga and became Boston's offensive captain for six years. He filled a variety of jobs, including offensive guard and tackle, tight end and even blocking back.

The Pats cut three players to reach the required 40-man limit prior to the start of the regular season. Released were third year running back R. C. Gamble, second year defensive back John Outlaw and running back Bob Gladieux. The Chicago Bears asked waivers on running back Elijah Pitts, a nine-year veteran acquired from the Packers. The Dallas Cowboys cut five-year veteran running back Les Shy and linebacker Fred Whittingham, also a five-year veteran.

Baseball

CHICAGO — New manager Chuck Tanner looked forward to meeting his White Sox baseball team with an open mind Monday night.

Tanner, and new pitching coach Johnny Sain, hired Monday, flew to Kansas City during the afternoon to join the White Sox and "watch them play the rest of the season." Tanner, who managed Hawaii to the Pacific Coast League championship this year, said he believed his job for the rest of the season would be to "observe and analyze" the White Sox.

Weightlifting

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Polish contenders stole the show at the 1970 World Weightlifting Championships here Monday night, becoming the first team to win both first and second place in a single event.

Mecislav Nowak won the featherweight title with a total poundage of 875 and Jan Wojnowski was runnerup with 848 1-2 in the third night of competition.

Basketball

DETROIT — Bob Lanier, the top choice in last year's pro basketball draft who signed a $1 million contract with the Detroit Pistons, fell during practice Monday, causing his knee to swell. A team physician said, however, that the injury to Lanier's knee, which was operated upon last March, was not serious.

Rookie Bob Lanier Reinjures Knee

"He was in pain and the knee swelled up," a spokesman for the National Basketball Association club said. "He'll be out of practice a couple of days, at least."

Lanier, first player to be selected in the most recent NBA draft, tore some adhesions in the right knee.

This is not serious, according to Dr. Robert Bailey, who has performed operations on knees numerous times, because the breaking of adhesions sometimes happens after an operation.

The 6-foot-11 St. Bonaventure graduate suffered torn ligaments to the same right knee last March in the semifinals of the NCAA basketball tournament.

Lanier was still limping and bothered by a little pain as the Pistons opened practice for rookies last week but had been assured by Dr. Bailey recently that he could go all out in practice and in games.

Shockley Has Cast On Hand

STANFORD (UPI) —Running back Hillary Shockley, who ripped the Arkansas defense for 117 yards last weekend, is taking part in Stanford University football practice with a cast on his hand.

"Shockley has a chipped bone on the base of his right thumb," Stanford coach John Ralston said Monday. "He's playing with a cast, but he's not having any trouble holding onto the ball."

Cal Lineman Resting Ankle

BERKELEY (UPI) —Defensive tackle O.Z. White, resting a twisted ankle, was the only University of California player to receive more than a minor injury in the Bears' 31-24 loss to Oregon.

Autopsy Report Due In DePaula Death

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (UPI)—An autopsy report was expected today on Frankie DePaula, former light heavyweight contender, before authorities decide whether to press heavier charges against two men charged with gunning him down.

DePaula, 30, died Monday at Jersey City Medical Center after lying paralyzed for four months following an early morning gangland style shooting outside the home of a young woman he dated.

The attack May 14 came one week after a jury acquitted him of theft and possession in connection with $75,000 worth of copper ingots. DePaula, Anthony Joseph "Gary" Garafola, his manager, and four others had been indicted on charges of hijacking the copper ingots from Port Newark docks in 1968.

The jury could not agree on conspiracy charges and Garafola faced a new trial on all three charges because of a hung jury.

Garafola and Richard Phelan, 26, were indicted as the result of an investigation into the shooting by Deputy Police Chief Patrick McGee. Both McGee and Police Director George Whelan said any further action against the pair would hinge on the medical report.

Ira Clark, associate director of the Jersey City Medical Center, said one of two high-powered bullets that struck DePaula lodged in his spinal column. The fighter underwent several operations on the wounds.

Clark added DePaula appeared to have died from pneumonia brought on by the debilitating effect of his gunshot wounds.

"He (DePaula) was a quadraplegic. He could talk, but he couldn't move," Clark said.

After a Jan. 22, 1969 light heavyweight title fight in which DePaula was knocked out by Bob Foster in the first round, DePaula and two alleged underworld figures were indicted on charges of lying to a Manhattan grand jury investigating possible irregularities in the fight.

Then came the hijacking charges and DePaula was suspended from boxing in May, 1969. The indictment was returned the day before he was to have fought Don Fullmer in Madison Square Garden. The Manhattan indictments were against DePaula, James "Jimmy Nap" Napoli, 57, a reputed crime syndicate chieftain, and Joseph "Joe Carlo" Calbro, 44, a convicted gambler, seven months later.

BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER

The "spot system" of bowling is for everybody. Common logic says it is easier to hit a target 15 feet away than a target 60 feet away. In practice learn which arrow will usually bring your ball to the pocket. Then concentrate on rolling the ball over this mark.

Suyderhoud Leads U.S. Water Ski Team To Victory

Mike Suyderhoud of San Anselmo, reigning world water ski champion, led the United States team to victory in the Group I water ski championships over the weekend in Mexico City.

Suyderhoud, due back in time to return to studies at Sonoma State College tomorrow, won the jump event with 153 feet, won the slalom by clearing four buoys with a 40 foot towline, and was second in tricks with 4,800 points. The performance was good for overall championship.

Group I includes the Americas, and water skiers from the U.S., Canada, Chile, Argentina, Mexico and Columbia competed.

FOOTBALL PROSPECTS

San Rafael Cadets Should Be Improved

In 1969, San Rafael Military Academy's Tom Kewell was good enough to be named all-Bay Counties League quarterback despite his team's miserable record of no wins, eight losses, and a tie.

Kewell and two of his primary receivers are back this year, and football fortunes for the Cadets may be looking up.

"We have more size and more speed than we've had in two or three years," says coach Charles Tubbs. "And our spirit is terrific. I've never seen its equal on any team at the academy."

Because the Cadets play a largely independent schedule (the BCL has only four teams), it's hard to predict what they will do. But 41 players have come out for the team, including 14 lettermen, and Tubbs feels they have the potential for a solid club, certainly better than last year.

Kewell, a senior, has gained 15 pounds and a foot in height over the summer, and now checks out at 6-1 and 180. Author of nine touchdown passes last year, he will again be throwing to senior tight end Ken Goebel and wide receiver Kurt Bromberg, a junior.

Tubbs hopes to supplement Kewell's passing game with a strong rushing attack, and he pins his hopes on veteran senior running back Jim Stevenson and junior transfer Larry Bengston.

The SRMA line, which last year was a disaster area, should be bolstered by the return of center Jare Henderson, a junior who also serves as the team's middle linebacker and defensive signal caller.

A couple of newcomers to football, Scott Montgomery and Steve Rayburn, will assume the tackle positions, and while they lack experience (Montgomery played junior varsity ball briefly two years ago), Tubbs believes they will do much to shore up the line.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Build Fund Through Periodic Buying

Q. We are interested in knowing if there is a system whereby money could be invested each month to build up a retirement fund. J.H. and J.B.

A. You have two options open to you, a Monthly Investment Plan through a New York Stock Exchange member firm or a mutual fund systematic accumulation plan. The former allows monthly or quarterly purchase of any Big Board stock in $40 minimum payments. Most mutual funds, both load and no-load, offer some type of voluntary accumulation plan. I stress a voluntary rather than contractual plan, since the latter penalizes the individual who discontinues the plan prior to completion through use of a front-load system in allocating acquistition charges. A typical mutual fund requires a $100 minimum initaial investment with subsequent monthly contributions of $25. This does vary sharply from fund to fund; some have no minimums and others require as much as $1000. Regardless of the means you choose for your retirement program the dollar-cost-averaging afforded by regular periodic purchase is a distinct advantage over a period of years.

Q. About two years ago we bought 25 shares of Transamerica. We now have 52 shares as a result of a split and stock dividend and our cost is $37. Do you think these share should be held for recovery? S.P.

A. Although many segments of the company's business have suffered under adverse economic conditions, operating earnings for its largest subsidiary, Occidental Life Insurance, were well ahead of results reported in the first half of 1969. Corporate earnings, however, were down to 53 cents compared with 77 cents in the 1969 period. Transamerica is building a multimarket service organization with interests in life insurance, real estate development, travel, motion picture financing and distribution and mobile home park development. An interruption in its uptrending pattern of earnings growth appears probable for the full year. However, because the outlook is promising in most of the company's operating areas, retaining these shares for recovery is warranted.

PEACEFUL IMPRESSIONS

Lynn Thomas checks a batch of self-linking stamps which include emblems of the U.S. Flag, ecology, peace, love and a dove. The stamps are made at the Johnson Wax Company in Racine, Wis. The new office products have their own built-in ink supply, rate good for about 25,000 impressions. Made from Porelon, a plastic printing material, they come in single or multiple colors or red, blue, green and black.

Stock Prices Fall Across Broad Front

OTHER PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

By HARRY CRAFT

Huffaker Engineering Company Is Back In Marin County Again

A former San Rafael firm that moved to San Francisco about two years ago, Huffaker Engineering Co., has made the return trip to Marin.

The company, owned by J.W. Huffaker of Novato, makes racing cars and parts and is now located at 22 Mark Drive, Northgate Industrial Park, where 3,000 square feet has been leased through William W. Howy and Co.

When previously in San Rafael the company was at 45 Duffy Place. In San Francisco it was on Van Ness Avenue. The new location is larger than the San Francisco quarters and eliminated a long commute for Huffaker.

A STORE scheduled to open about Oct. 1 is The Chandlery, at 969 Grand Avenue, San Rafael — a new venture of Carroll Stoerker.

With Stoerker's background in yachting and boats and also as former owner of the Colonial Candle Co. this business name could indicate either a line of marine supplies — or a candle shop. As it turns out, candles will be the stock in trade. He will manufacture some of his own and also sell some other make.

Store hours will probably be from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

MRS. KRISTI NELSON of Larkspur has been appointed advertising manager of Holiday Magic, Inc., San Rafael. She has been with the company four years as a copywriter and package designer.

EDWARD PURSEY is Holiday Magic's new vice vresident in charge of fund raising. He will advise distributors and coordinate their activities in marketing products used by civic and charitable organizations in their fund raising efforts. He was formerly regional vice president of the northwest states for Holiday Magic.

PETER SCOTT of Sausalito has been named program director of KSFO in San Francisco. He joined the station in 1965 as production coopdinator. Before beginning his radio career he started as a stand-up comic at San Francisco's Purple Onion and then entertained across the country. He has received several awards for his creative radio work.

COMMISSIONS: P and H Design Group San Francisco has been commissioned by KFRC Radio to design a new visual image for the station. Executive vice president Tom Hall of Terra Linda and designer Jack Martin of Sausalito will be working on it . . . Ronald Wren Advertising, Inc. has been selected to handle the advertising of Vaughn at Sather Gate Sacramento-based clothing chain. Serving this client are account executive Dick Rojas Of Marinwood and creative director Stanely Raymond of Mill Valley.

INSURANCE: Donald Ross III of Novato will head a new West Coast reinsurance sales office of Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance Co. in San Francisco. He recently joined the company as regional reinsurance director and an officer of the firm. He has been a representative in individual, group and reinsurance sales in the Bay Area for 12 years . . . ,

Michael W. Dooling, president of Crown Funding Corp., San Rafael, has announced the start of the first prepaid dental plan in Northern California which utilizes the prepayment of dental expenses on a per capita basis instead of insuring them. Crown Funding specializes in health and securities programs for association and employer groups.

G. M. Closed By Walkout

DETROIT (UPI)—The assembly lines of General Motors Corp., the nation's No. 1 automaker, were shut down today by a midnight strike of 343,610 United Auto Workers in 16 states and Canada.

First effects were almost immediate as automotive suppliers began laying off workers.

UAW President Leonard Woodcock said G.M. gave the union "no other choice" but to strike after 60 days of negotiations failed to produce a new three-year contract. Contracts at Ford and Chrysler expired at the same time, but both were exempted from a strike by the union.

Woodcock emerged from a listless, final negotiating session with G.M. shortly before midnight Monday to announce the strike, the third against the company since 1945.

The company and union were 24 1-2 cents per hour apart on a wage raise in the first year of a new contract when the negotiations broke off.

First layoffs were announced by the company's suppliers. About 400 employes of Irvin Industries in Lexington, Ky., a manufacturer of seat belts, were idled for the duration of the strike, and Libby-Owens-Ford Glass Co. in Toledo, Ohio, laid off 300 employes.

"Nobody really wanted a strike. We tried hard, but the demands are just too many and too high," Bramblett said. He added negotiations may resume "probably Wednesday" on unresolved issues of money, early retirement and cost-of-living allowances.

In Washington, D.C., Harold C. Passer, assistant commerce secretary for economic affairs, warned the strike could "put a crimp in the rising trend of economic activity. It would not, in my view, jeopardize the upturn that is now developing but it certainly would lower the rate of increase."

Rail Lines Struck; Union Orders End

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Railroad workers struck three of the nation's major lines today, but union leaders ordered them to return to their jobs in the face of a court injunction against selective strikes.

The United Transportation Union issued an order in Cleveland for its members and those of three other unions to halt their walkout against the Southern Pacific and the combined Baltimore & Ohio and Chesapeake and Ohio. About 40,000 workers had participated.

UTU President Charles Luna sent telegrams rescinding the union's authorization for the "whipsaw" walkouts. A union spokesman said, "They got a federal injunction and you don't dare fool around with it. They hit us with $250,000-a-day fines when they hit us."

Both freight and passenger services were disrupted during the strike against the three lines. In the Bay Area, the stoppage left 12,000 commuters looking for other means of transportation.

A union official said a decision would be made within a few days whether to stage a nationwide walkout or to fight Corcoran's ban on "whipsaw" strikes. A hearing on the order was set for Sept. 22.

The year-old dispute was further complicated by the unexplained inaction of the White House. Under the Railway Labor Act, President Nixon could call a 60-day cooling off period and appoint an emergency board to mediate the dispute, but there were indications he might allow a strike this time, at least temporarily.

There were reports the President would use this tactic to dramatize his request for special legislation to allow him more authority to settle transportation labor disputes.

Light Voter Turnout On School Issues

Voting appeared light today in three school district elections in Marin County and one in Southern Sonoma.

Polls will be open until 7 p.m. in Marin, till 8 p.m. in Southern Sonoma.

In the Mill Valley School District, voters are deciding whether to allow the interest rate on $760,000 in unsold school construction bonds to go from 5 to 7 per cent.

At 11 a.m. only 77 ballots had been cast at the Episcopal Church of Our Savior out of 450 registered voters. The turnout was even sparser at Westminster Presbyterian Church where

SPROCKET POWER—Bicycle racks were full once more as Sonoma State College opened today for the fall term. With cars restricted to the perimeter of the widespread campus, the choice lies between getting around on two wheels or two legs. It would seem that for many a student, the wheels have it. (Independent-Journal photo by Jim Kean)

OPENING DAY

Sonoma State Area Jammed With Autos

Scribbled notes pinned to bulletin board asked for or offered apartments, rides, belts and leather goods and furniture. A few hopeful males advertised for female companions.

Nixon Seeks Overhaul In Foreign Aid

He sent to Congress a set of proposals he said would underpin the "Nixon Doctrine" by assuring regular military and economic assistance to developing nations.

The President noted in his lengthy message a downward trend in U.S. foreign aid over the past 15 years, caused by continuing congressional cuts. But he said that while "mapor transformation" of the program is needed, the answer is not to end it or slash it further.

"Foreign aid," the President said, "must be seen for what it is—not a burden, but an opportunity to help others to fulfill their aspirations for justice, dignity, and a better life. No more than at home can peace be achieved and maintained without vigorous efforts to meet the needs of the less fortunate."

The President frequently referred to the Nixon Doctrine—the policy he outlined on Guam last year. He defined the policy as calling on "any country whose security is threatened to assume the primary responsibility for providing the manpower needed for its own defense," with the United States providing assistance to help them assume those responsibilities "more quickly and more effectively."

During a briefing, White House officials disclosed that the administration probably would ask Congress for an increase in the future in both military and economic assistance.

But the officials said the request for greater military aid would be only temporary, stressing that the administration wants recipient nations to take on a greater share of their own defense.

Nixon proposed a number of

Gun-Wielder Is Stopped At San Francisco Airport

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A passenger today shot and wounded a hijacker who attempted to take over a Trans World Airlines jet while armed with a pistol that shot only blanks. The hijacker was attempting to force the plane to North Korea.

There were no other injuries among the 56 passengers and crew of seven aboard TWA's Flight 15 from New York.

The TWA 707 jet was the first U.S. airliner subjected to a hijack attempt since President Nixon ordered armed guards on U.S. planes.

The airline said a Brinks security guard, Robert DeNisco, Brooklyn, N.Y., traveling as a passenger and not as a guard for the plane, shot the hijacker.

Wounds skyjacker

The wounded man identified as Don Irwin, 27, Reseda, Los Angeles County, was rushed to a hospital at Burlingame with a bullet wound in the abdomen. He was the first U.S. airline hijacker to be wounded seriously.

TWA officials said the hijacker pulled a handgun while the plane was over Salinas, Calif., en route to San Francisco, after a stop in Los Angeles. The pilot, J. K. Gilman of Kansas City, told the passengers after the plane was on the ground:

'WANTS TO GO'

"There is a gentleman on board who wants to go to another airport and wants us to go with him."

The plane was ordered to a corner of the field while 35 passengers were let off and Gilman negotiated with the hijacker and airport officials for refueling.

The remaining passengers, huddled in the front of the cabin while the hijacker sat in a seat eight rows back, watched as the dramatic final act was played out.

"I heard steps," said Karen O'Neill, 24, of Chico, Calif. "I looked up. I saw a man in plain street clothes with a gun. He was walking fast, almost running, down the aisle.

"I saw him fire. I saw the flash of the gun. I sank down in my seat. I thought he might have missed and there would be more firing. Then the pilot came on and told everyone to remain in their seats, that everything was under control."

Other passengers said they heard DeNisco, shout, "Police!" before he fired.

RUSH BACK

Several other occupants in the cabin rushed back after the shot and seized the hijacker.

The hijacker apparently boarded the flight in Los Angeles, where another passenger said he saw him waiting, dressed neatly in a dark business suit, white shirt and tie.

The plane left Los Angeles at 4:55 a.m. PDT and TWA said the hijacker a few minutes later handed a stewardess a note that he had a gun.

Gilman radioed a Federal Aviation Agency Control Center north of Los Angeles and said the man approached the cockpit with a pistol and ordered the plane to North Korea but Gilman persuaded him to allow the plane to make

Guerrillas Firm: 'U.S. Our Enemy'

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine said today "the United States is our enemy just the same as Israel" and that it will hold American and Israeli hijack hostages until Israel accepts the guerrilla ransom demands.

The Front listed some of its demands for the first time today and said it would insist on them "whatever happens."

The leftwing guerrilla group took a tougher stand and warned once again that any attempt at military intervention would endanger the lives of the captives, believed held in heavily guarded houses in Amman, the capital of Jordan.

Some of the 54 hijack hostages appealed to their embassies today to speed their release, and the guerrillas made it clear they were dealing separately with the British, Swiss and West German embassies and bypassing the Americans.

For the second day, the guerrilla spokesman said the Front will "treat Americans with the same status as Israelis." He said this reflected guerrilla belief the United States directly supports Israel and is therefore equally responsible for alleged Israeli "aggression."

A radio broadcast in London said two hostages had been shot dead, but the guerrilla spokesman in Amman said, "These reports are without any foundation."

The spokesman accused the Red Cross of bias against the guerrillas and indicated they would have no further negotiations with the organization.

"Direct responsibility now falls on the governments concerned to announce their acceptance of the Front conditions," he said.

The guerrillas were holding

Hussein Talked Out Of Abdicating Throne

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Jordanian army gunners shelled Palestinian guerrilla bases in North Jordan today, the Syrian Arab news agency reported. The English language Jerusalem Post said the crisis there was so serious King Hussein tried to abdicate but was dissuaded by UAR President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

The cease-fire along the Suez Canal also was reported shaky, and official sources in Cairo said Monday night Egypt believes the United States has suspended its peace initiative which led to the cease-fire. They said the Big Four powers should try again to restore peace.

British press reports also said today the United States has hinted at withdrawing its Middle East peace initiative, but U.S. Embassy sources in London denied this. They said the United States is very concerned about the cease-fire violations but there is no question of withdrawing the peace initiative.

Diplomatic sources in Jerusalem said Israeli Premier Golda Meir, who meets President Nixon in Washington on Friday, will ask him to revise America's official policy on Israel's borders. She will contend that Israel must retain some captured territory to assure its security, the sources said.

Maj. Abdel Salam Jalloud, a member of the Libyan Revolution Command Council, in a statement reported by the Egyptian Middle East News Agency, said the situation has now reached a stage where a political solution can no longer be found and the situation must be resolved through war.

DIANA THE DROPOUT

By LUCINDA FRANKS
and
THOMAS POWERS
U.P. INTERNATIONAL

(Copyright 1970)
(Second of five articles)

By the time she had graduated from Bryn Mawr in June of 1963, Diana Oughton had traveled among the poor in the byways of Europe and worked closely with children in one of Philadelphia's decaying ghettos, but she did not really begin to learn about poverty until she went to Guatemala.

When she filled out a personal information form after being accepted by the Quaker-run, Voluntary International Service Assignments (VISA) program, she put a single word after the heading marked experience:

"None."

Barbara Ann Graves, director of VISA, felt Diana's sheltered upbringing and gentle character would be a handicap and tried to dissuade her from the lonely assignments in back-country areas. Diana refused to be given special consideration, however, and was assigned to the isolated Indian market town of Chichicastenango in Guatemala.

Chichicastenango is a small, still half primitive place where Catholic priests look the other way when the Indians burn incense to the old gods and beat ceremonial drums on the steps of the church.

When Diana first arrived she was struck by the gaudy vitality of the town, by the bright-colored shawls of the Indians, the rambling streets, whitewashed buildings, church bells and surrounding jungles.

Gradually Diana began to see other things — the Indian's bad health, their short stature, the small, child-sized coffins sold in such numbers in market.

She plunged into work, helping local priests to launch a nutritional program, editing a newspaper for adults who were just learning how to read, and helping to care for the children who swarmed through the town. She went shopping in the market two or three times a week, learning to bargain over carrots and cabbages, and she began to know and respect Father Jose Maria Casas, an energetic middle-aged man who had spent many years helping the Indians.

The directors of VISA in Guatemala City, Bill and Donna Dreyer, began with the same doubts about Diana that Barbara Ann Graves originally felt. When they saw the speed with which Diana learned Spanish and the rapport she established with the priests and the people of Chichicastenango, their doubts disappeared.

After Diana had been living in Guatemala for several months she met Alan Howard, a young Fulbright scholar in Guatemala City. He was running an experimental adult reading program in the city's federal prison and long conversations with political prisoners had made him cynical about the chances of peaceful change in the country.

When Diana told him about the work she was doing in Chichicastenango, Howard said it would never end the poverty of the Indians.

"You're only delaying the revolution," he told her.

He argued that VISA was treating the symptoms of poverty, not the basic causes. He pointed to the experience of another Fulbright scholar who had planned to spend a year studying the country's corporate structure but completed his project in a week: There was no corporate structure, he said,

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Prime Rate Drop

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—The First Pennsylvania Banking and Trust Co. is dropping its prime interest rate a half-point from 8 to 7-1-2 per cent today.

It is the first large bank in the nation to reduce the rate for large, credit-worthy business borrowers. The action produced a small rally on Wall Street Monday. Several smaller banks in the nation already have reduced their rate.

First Pennsylvania, which announced the cut Monday, is Philadelphia's largest bank. It ranks 21st in the nation with deposits of $2,118,787,000 as of June 30, 1970.

Most New York banks had no immediate comment on the cut.

Disbanding Guard

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope Paul VI announced today he is disbanding all Vatican armed forces except the Swiss guards to emphasize the religious nature of his mission.

The Pope announced his decision in a letter to his secretary of state, Cardinal Jean Villot.

He said he was dissolving the Papal Gendarmerie, Noble Guard and Palatine Guard "so that all things surrounding the successor of Peter may clearly manifest the religious character of his mission."

He said police duties in the 108.7-acre Vatican City will henceforth be handled by the Swiss Guard and by a special office that will be set up under the Vatican governor's office.

Dynamite Raid

CHICAGO (UPI)—State and federal agents and Chicago police raided a North Side apartment Monday night and confiscated 620 sticks of dynamite and arrested six persons.

A spokesman for the Illinois Bureau of Investigation, John Dreiske, said the raid followed a tip from a security guard at a large Chicago-area industrial plant. The guard said the group planned to blow up the plant, Dreiske said.

The raid netted 620 sticks of dynamite, dynamite caps and detonating cord, he said. The material was taken to the Ft. Sheridan, Ill., Army Base. It was not known if those arrested belonged to any group, he said.

Japan Quake

TOKYO (UPI) — A "rather strong" earthquake shook the northern sections of Japan's main island of Honshu tonight but appeared to cause no damage or injuries, the Central Meteorological Agency reported.

Klein To Tour

PARIS (UPI)—Herbert Klein, President Nixon's director of communications, will make a five-nation European tour starting Sept. 19 in Paris, the European Republican Committee said today.

The announcement said Klein was coming to Europe to further the U.S. Republican party's "continuing liaison program with Republicans living in Europe. iIt did not mention whether Klein would meet with European government officials

Replacing Parish

BRUSSELS (UPI)—A Canadian theologian said today the hippie commune may be the type of Christian community that should eventually replace the church parish.

"In many cases, especially in the big cities, the parish is not a community and can never become one," said Professor Gregory Baum of Toronto.

"What counts is the creation of small communities, in which Christians and other people may be at home."

Many people, Baum said, already were trying to create small communities as matrices of more human existence.

"We find this in the hippie communes, in artists colonies and in underground churches," he said.

Space Misgivings

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—The space agency's cancellation of two moon flights may spoil project Apollo's chances of unlocking the secrets of origin of Earth and Moon, 40 lunar scientists said today.

In a letter expressing "deep misgivings" about the decision, scientists told Rep. George P. Miller, D-Calif., chairman of the House Space Committee, the Apollo cuts will result in "a severe curtailment of the lunar exploration program."

"We hope that these decisions are not yet final, and that the country will not tieup a plan of very great significance when the preparation for it is so nearly complete," they said.

The letter, released to the public today, was written by scientists attending a moon science conference last week at the Lunar Science Institute. Dr. William H. Rubey, institute director, said he and 39 others signed it.

Suit Dropped

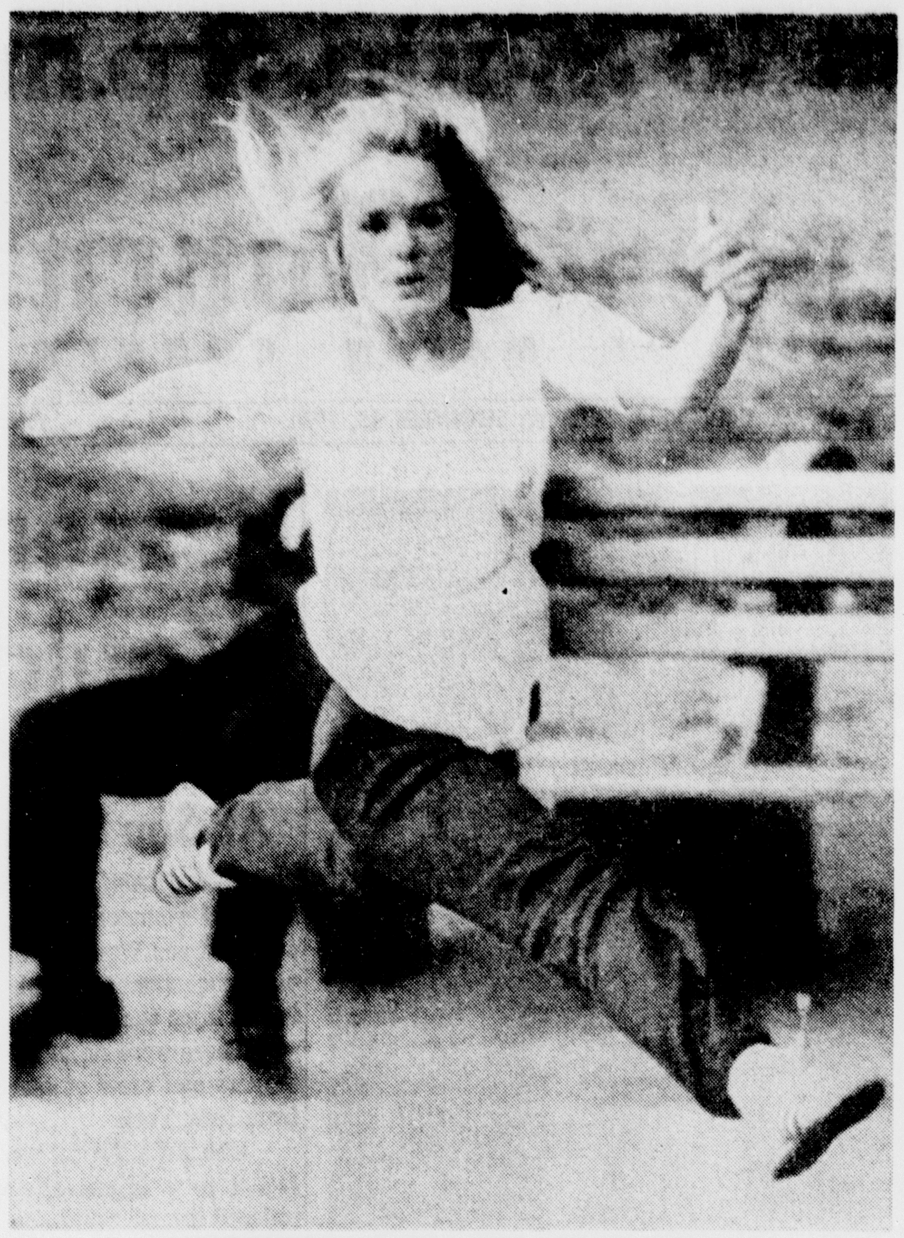
WASHINGTON (UPI) — A member of the presidential commission on pornography who went to court to block the commission's report has dropped his suit after the government agreed to publish his dissenting opinions.

Charles H. Keating Jr., President Nixon's only appointee to the 18-member panel, ended his legal action Monday after reaching an agreement with Justice Department lawyers. Last week he won a temporary court order blocking publication of the report for 10 days on grounds he could not present an adequate dissent to the commission's recommendations that laws against pornography be liberalized.

Under the agreement, Keating's report, not to exceed 216 pages, will be submitted as part of the final commission report to President Nixon and Congress.

Broadcast Chief

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Francis R. Walsh, dean of the University of San Francisco Law School, has been appointed chief of the Federal Communications Commission's Broadcast Bureau.



ENTERTAINER ON THE RUN

Agnew Blasts U.S. Drug 'Propaganda'

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—The United States has been pervaded by "blatant drug-culture propaganda" fostered—mostly unwittingly — by entertainers, parents, broadcasters and the press, Vice President Spiro Agnew said Monday.

Agnew said a spreading drug culture in the country was being tolerated because "all the while that this brainwashing has been going on, most of us have regarded it as good, clean, noisy fun."

Agnew told a $100-a-couple dinner for Nevada Republican political candidates that another reason for the drug expansion is that parents have not listened carefully or looked closely at the music, movies and underground publications of the youth culture.

He cited popular folk-rock song lyrics containing such words as high, stoned, grass and acid as evidence of drug culture propaganda. But said he was not suggesting there was any conspiracy by the pop music world to spread it.

He urged voters to elect a "Congress which will stop waves of pornography and moral pollution and assue it will never be the wave of the future.

During his dinner speech, Agnew also said the older generation, with its use of alcohol, sleeping pills and pep pills, helped set the stage for the drug culture phenomenon.

Reds Cut Cambodian Strike Supply Route

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—Communist troops in a surprise counter-offensive today surrounded a 4,000-man Cambodian force trying to reach the provincial capital of Kompong Thon, military spokesmen said in Phnom Penh.

The spokesmen said North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops struck a lightning blow from the west and completely cut the supply and reinforcement routes for the eight battalions of Cambodian troops.

The strike came at the village of Tapeang Kak on Highway 6, about 46 miles north of Phnom Penh and about four miles behind the stalled Cambodian troops.

Cambodian officers, fearing a possible Communist trap, had ordered urgent reinforcements for the government troops hard hit by the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong at Tang Kauk, six miles north of Tapeang Kak.

The Cambodian task force withdrew Monday from the southern section of Tang Kauk. Officers insisted it was not a retreat but a move to allow time for regrouping.

In Saigon, military spokesmen said U.S. B52 bombers flew at least five more missions over the jungles near the besieged South Vietnamese firebase O'Reilly, dropping 250 tons of heavy explosives. The mountaintop camp 390 miles north of Saigon is expected to be evacuated soon.

The Air Force said there have been at least 21 B52 missions and more than 200 other air strikes outside O'Reilly in the past eight days. South Vietnamese commanders will close the base within the next few weeks because of the approaching monsoon rains.

The U.S. Command said there has been a slight decrease in ground actions involving U.S. troops in South Vietnam.

The Cambodian task force that clashed with the Viet Cong at Tang Kauk is engaged in the largest Cambodian operation of the war.

Meanwhile, the first contingent of 12,000 American troops scheduled to leave South Vietnam by Oct. 15 in the fourth phase of President Nixon's withdrawal program departed for the United States today to be deactivated.

The target of the withdrawal program calls for not more thank 384,000 American servicemen to remain in Vietnam after Oct. 15. There were 396,000 U.S. troops in Vietnam as of Sept. 10 and 543,400 Americans were in the country before the withdrawals began in mid-1969.

POLITICAL ROUNDUP

Cranston, McCloskey Back Riles For Schools Post

WASHINGTON (UPI) — California educator Wilson Riles says he prefers "quality education" for all children over immediate integration, but he does not believe it is "an either-or choice."

"If I have to make a priority, it would be for quality education for every child in the state," the Negro educator told a news conference Monday.

"To the extent that we can integrate—fine. But I'm not willing to wait while adults debate this for another 16 years, while a generation of the young go without an education."

Riles, seeking California's highest public school position, is campaigning to unseat Max Rafferty as State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

The 53-year-old Louisiana-born, Arizona-educated candidate drew the backing of Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., and Rep. Paul N. McCloskey Jr., R-Calif., for the non-partisan office. He is currently on leave from his position as deputy superintendent under Rafferty.

Cranston said Riles was "an outstanding candidate" and cautiously predicted he would defeat Rafferty—the man Cranston beat to win his Senate seat in 1968.

McCluskey, who introduced Riles to newsmen, said he wished to confirm the candidate had "bi-partisan support for this non-partisan office." He said there was "no finer man" than Riles to run against Rafferty.

TUNNEY

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Rep. John V. Tunney has dismissed as "silly" a GOP charge that he has one of the worst attendance records in Congress.

The advertisement appeared Monday in papers throughout the state. It asserted that 429 of 435 members of the House have better attendance records than Tunney and asked: "What would happen if you didn't show up for work?"

Tunney said that the ad only covered the past year when he was running hard for the U.S. Senate. Prior to that, he said, his attendance record was better than George Murphy's. Tunney is trying to oust Republican Murphy from the Senate.

MURPHY

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Sen. George Murphy is stressing the theme "he believes in America" and punching hard at his Democratic opponent, Rep. John V. Tunney, in his campaign for election to a second six-year term.

An aide to the Senator said a poll taken last month by the GOP campaign management firm of Spencer Roberts indicated voters wanted candidates to speak more about "what's right with America instead of what's wrong."

In response to the poll, Murphy's campaign billboards carry the slogan "He believes in America."

BACKS REAGAN

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Harold J. (Butch) Powers, former Republican lieutenant governor, Monday declared his support for Gov. Ronald Reagan's re-election bid.

Powers, an appointed official of Gov. Edmund G. Brown's administration, described Reagan as a "courageous leader who refuses to sacrifice principle for the easy road of political expedience."

Powers, now an Elk Grove cattleman, first was named lieutenant governor in 1953, succeeding Goodwin J. Knight. Brown later appointed Powers director of professional and vocational standards. Powers resigned after Reagan took office.

BROWN-UNRUH

sSAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Former Gov. Edmund G. Brown reminisced about Jess Unruh in an interview Monday and explained why he is backing Unruh for governor even though Unruh did not join his gubernatorial campaign four years ago.

"He'd be a very good governor," Brown said of Unruh.

"Ronald Reagan is a very poor one," he added.

Brown said he is urging some friends to forget their dislike of Unruh and join his campaign. The dislike comes from Unruh's legendary "toughness"—another subject Brown talks about.

"I suppose a political leader —and this is a weak spot for me—has to be tough. There are some things a political leader can't forgive," Brown said.

Reagan's College Polices Praised

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—State Superintendant of Public Instruction Max Rafferty Monday praised the educational policies of Gov. Reagan and said college rioters should be expelled without amnesty.

In a speech to the Hibernian Newman Club in San Francisco, Rafferty said of Gov. Reagan: "In education he is nobody's enemy and everybody's friend."

Route 17 Pitch Made Once Again

A proposed Highway 17 extension from Point San Quentin to Point Reyes Station that has bobbed up and down in county highway proposals for more than a decade, popped up again yesterday.

The proposal by the Marin County Chamber of Commerce transportation committee rated continued study of route location for Route 17 as top priority for long-term planning in the 1972-73 fiscal year.

Donald A. Beacock, head of the committee, told a chamber luncheon audience that included three supervisors at the Tiburon Lodge yesterday, that there was strong sentiment to give it lowest priority. However, he said, the committee and the county disagreed with that.

He said the project which has long been stalled by vocal opposition to proposed routes through San Anselmo, Fairfax and Sleepy Hollow, is more likely to get state funds allotted on a cost-benefit scale than an extension of Shoreline Highway from Highway 101 to Point Reyes Station.

Supervisor Louis H. Baar disagreed. "Route 17, in our opinion, is sort of a few years off — politically," he said.

He said completion of Point Reyes National Seashore purchases will swell this year's 1.2 million attendance to almost two million next year — all traveling over Route 1.

He urged Clifford Green, deputy district engineer for the state Division of Engineers, to stress work on Shoreline Highway since "Route 17, when you and I are old and grey, they'll still be talking about it."

Fairfax Councilman Cornelis Van Vliet chimed in, "I think Fairfax would be very pleased to know Highway 17 is buried for the moment."

Projects that the county chamber of commerce backed for construction or right-of-way purchase for prompt construction in 1972-73 in order of priority week:

1. Extension of Highway 101 through Novato, which has been held up by a routing disagreement between the Novato City Council and the state Division of Highways, but which is given first priority for construction in Marin in 1971-72, according to Green.

2. Widening Highway 101 from Spencer Avenue on Waldo Grade to Terra Linda, a distance of 13 miles.

3. Widening Tiburon Boulevard from Reed Ranch Road to near Avenida Miraflores.

4. Upgrading Highway 101 for the one mile between North San Pedro Road and Terra Linda including a median for rapid transit and redesign of the Civic Center interchange.

5. Beginning interim improvements to 10 miles of Shoreline Highway between Highway 101 and Stinson Beach.

6. Realigning and improving Shoreline Highway between Highway 101 and Almonte Boulevard.

7. Providing safety improvements at the Gnoss Field entrance which began today, according to Green.

Given second priority were intersection reconstruction at Highway 101 and Panoramic Highway and right of way acquisition for widening Highway 101 from Terra Linda to Highway 37.

The chamber also asked the highway department to begin route location or relocation studies for Highway 101 between Novato and Sonoma County; Shoreline Highway from Highway 101 to Point Reyes Station; Highway 37 from north of Novato to Nicasio; and Sir Francis Drake Boulevard between Highways 17 and 101.

They also asked for study of a possible rapid transit median strip on Highway 101, but gave it lowest priority.

Green gave a rundown on the progress of the equivalent list submitted last year in which he indicated the items listed this year for long-term study received no attention and probably wouldn't this year.

Most of the funds allocated to Marin in 1971-72 will go to the Novato freeway construction, he said.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors approved the chamber priorities Sept. 1 except that it gave equal priority to continuing relocation studies for Shoreline Highway and finding a path for Highway 17, according to Baar.

Photography Class

Diverting Road Funds Is Attacked

T. Fred Bagshaw of Mill Valley, who recently retired as secretary to the state Division of Highways, said yesterday that a bill on the governor's desk allocating 60 per cent, instead of 55 per cent of gas tax funds, to the southern counties could cut northern highway funds by $45 million next year.

If, in addition, a ballot proposition diverting 25 per cent of gas tax funds to rapid transit and smog control is approved, "the long range effect could be serious," Bagshaw told a luncheon gathering of state and county chamber of commerce officials and highway department representatives at the Tiburon Lodge yesterday.

He said the state allocated $6 million to smog control this year and 75 per cent of rapid transit now runs on the highway so there is no justification for divertising funds for either.

He predicted an end to the present system wherein highway funds are allocated on the basis of need if the proposition passes.

Bagshaw of 317 Hillside Avenue is a member of the California Freeway Support Committee, which opposes both measures.

The average Oregon family consumes more than a ton of dairy products a year.

College Night For Students

An opportunity for high school students to meet with college admissions officers tomorrow at 7:15 p.m. at the Redwood High School gym has been announced by the Tamalpais High School District.

The annual Marin County College Night will have representatives from the eight University of California campuses, six state college spokesmen and admissions officers from private universities including Stanford, Dartmouth and Pitzer to discuss their schools.

Interested high school students from throughout Marin will have an opportunity to meet with the officers from 7:35 p.m. to 9:15 p.m. after an introductory meeting.

Former Teacher Gets New Trial

A new trial for former Novato High School teacher James David Kimmel, 34, charged with three marijuana offenses, has been set for the week of Nov. 23 in Marin Superior Court.

A jury deadlocked in May on whether Kimmel had used minors to obtain pot for him, possessed pot and used it on the high school campus in November 1968.

The jury, however, did convict the long-haired, bearded former science teacher of resisting arrest. He is still awaiting sentencing on that charge.

Kimmel, who was arrested against last month at his home in Sonoma Valley on suspicion of growing a $20,000 marijuana crop, said yesterday that he plans to act as his own attorney in his retrial.

League Files Suit For Access To Beach

The head of the Marin Conservation League yesterday filed suit in Marin Superior Court to preserve public use of a road to a beach at Estero De San Antonio in the Oceana Marin development.

Harold E. Gregg is seeking temporary and permanent injunctions against Highway Property, Inc. and Bodega Bay Lands Inc., developers of the tract, to prevent blockage of the road because, he says, it has been used by him withous hindrance for more than five years.

Gregg lives near Dillon Beach.

The suit also asks the court to reopen county planning commission hearings on the 272 townhouses approved May 5 for the 650 acre property.

Gregg maintains approval was improper because the hearings were improperly noticed and the county did not follow vacation procedure for the road from Dillon Beach Highway.

The suit also charges the subdivision plans were approved although experts recommended against approval.

Superior Court Clerk George H. Gnoss is named a defendant because he filed the subdivision maps March 16 which show the road blocked, according to Gregg.

One of the conditions for county approval of the plan May 5 was that the developer agree to permit public access to one and one-half miles of shoreline from Dillon Beach to Estero De San Antonio, which marks the Sonoma County border.

The suit is based on a spring decision by the state Supreme Court which ruled there is implied dedication to the public of land leading to a beach if the public has used it for more than five years without interference.

Truck Damaged

Damage estimated at $25 was done to a pickup truck belonging to Donald Wayne Isdrosalge, Sunday night or early yesterday, San Rafael police reported today. The radiator cap was taken and wiring damaged while the truck was parked outside Isdrosalge's apartment at 830 B Street.

New Orleans Police Flush 14 Panthers

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Two hundred police flushed 14 Black Panthers from their sandbagged headquarters today with gunfire and tear gas. No one was injured during the "tremendous exchange of fire."

Police Supt. Clarence Giarusso ordered the officers into the black neighborhood to end a night he called "a reign of terror" by the Black Panthers.

Police and blacks exchanged gunfire for 15 minutes. The Panthers were flushed from the concrete block house by tear gas.

The crack of automatic rifles was heard with the boom of shotguns. Police helicopters circled above the gun battle. Police used "Big Bertha," an armor-plated truck, to storm the headquarters.

"Most of the fire came from the house," Giarrusso said. But one policeman, wrapped in a bulletproof vest, said he fired at least 100 rounds from his rifle.

"It was a tremendous exchange of fire," Giarrusso said.

He said the 14 Black Panthers would be accused of a variety of charges, including attempted murder.

Police said rifles, shotguns and pistols were found on the second floor of the brown-painted Panther building, located at 3542 Piety Street, 35 blocks south of downtown New Orleans near the old Irish ship channel.

Giarrusso said Black Panthers fired at police, overturned and set afire at least two automobiles and beat a man and a woman during the night of violence.

Mayor Moon Landrieu and Giarrusso decided to storm the Black Panther building at dawn. There were reports of snipers in the neighborhood.

After the shooting, the 14 Panthers were flushed by tear gas and arrested outside, under a sign reading "Sons of Desire Cultural Center." The two-story building was sandbagged by the blacks for the confrontation with police.

Several hundred young blacks yelled obscenities at police after the gun battle. About a dozen officers with shotguns at the ready formed a line opposite the blacks and the youths dispersed.

8he last of the Panthers was led handcuffed from the headquarters , shouting, "You can kill a revolutionary but you can't kill the revolution."

reforms growing out of a reappraisal of foreign aid by a task force on international development headed by Rudolph Peterson, chairman of the Bank of America, Among the reforms he requested were:

—Creation of a new agency called the U.S. International Development Corp. to replace the present Agency for International Development to administer American bilateral aid.

—Development of an international security assistance program whose aim would be to support the Nixon doctrine by helping other nations assume resposibility for their defense.

A fresh effort by the United States to encourage multilateral giving and development of multilateral aid institutions.

—Encouragement by the United tSates of trade and private investments aboard by creation of a system of tariff preferences for exports of goods manufactured in low income countries.

'Newtown' At Marincello Is Opposed

The experimental Newtown in Reston, Va., may be just fine for the East Coast but does not belong in Marincello, a group of Marin conservationists told officials of Gulf-Reston Inc. this morning at the Civic Center.

A polite crowd of 100 watched a 15-minute color film of Newtown presented by Gulf-Reston officials and told the Marin County Board of Supervisors they do not want a Reston on the 2,138-acre Marincello, which overlooks the Golden Gate.

Glenn Saunders, executive vice president of Gulf-Reston, stressed repeatedly that his company has no plans as yet on Marincello but will study all possibilities for three months before making recommendations to its parent company, Gulf Oil of Pittsburgh, which owns the property.

"We do not propose that Reston be built in Marincello," said Saunders. He said various choices include development, partial development, or no development at all in Marincello.

Helen Carrigan of Belvedere suggested that Gulf Oil should consider a gift of the property as public open space.

William M. Bennett of Kentfield, candidate for the state board of equalization, called on Gulf Oil to "knock off this nonsense." Said Bennett, "we want nothing but Gulf to get out and leave the headlands the way God made it."

DOMINATE AREA

John Busterud, president of the Marin Headlands Committee, warned that any development on the headlands would dominate the entire area. "We hope Gulf Oil will seriously consider a gift of the land for open space."

Mary R. Summers, a conservation leader and former county planning director, declared that a community in Marincello would pour one or two more lanes of traffic on overloaded Highway 101. If the land cannot be acquired for open space, the least that Gulf Oil can do would be to keep density at a minimum, said Mrs. Summers.

Peter H. Behr, candidate for state senate, also urged Gulf Oil to donate the property.

Several other citizens rose to speak in opposition to development on the headlands. Douglas Ferguson of Mill Valley, attorney for the Conservation Law Society, reminded the supervisors that a petition for a public referendum on Marincello is pending before the U.S. Supreme Court. "The proper thing for the board (of supervisors) to do is to ask for a countywide referendum if you don't, I hope the U.S. Supreme Court will or force it on you," said Ferguson.

MONEY NEEDED

Supervisor Michael Wornum, in whose district Marincello is located, said "I don't think we can have it just by hoping for it. The people of Marin must put their money where their mouth is and help pay for it."

John F. McInnis, supervisors chairman, assured citizens that this was just an informational meeting to hear from Gulf-Reston, and any action on Marincello must be preceded by public hearings where the public will have ample opportunity to express their views.

30 voters out of 1,200 had cast ballots.

In Sausalito, two seats on the school district board are sought by four candidates: Royce Y. McLemore and Robert E. Fisher of Marin City and Robert A. Thompson and Robert R. Lyon of Sausalito.

About 10 per cent of the district's voters had gone to the polls by 11 a.m., with Central School reporting a turnout of 105 out of 1,000 voters and Star of the Sea Catholic Church tallying 91 votes out of 990 registered voters.

Residents of the Bolinas-Stinson School District are voting on a $210,000 bond issue for construction of a school on the Bolinas site. Voting was said to be light, but no figures were available.

Midmorning outrnout at the polls was light today in the Old Adobe School District election on proposals to increase the district's general fund tax rate from $1.90 to $2.40 maximum per $100 assessed valuation, and to increase from 5 per cent to 7 per cent the allowable interest on $875,000 worth of school bonds previously approved but still unsold.

The polling place at La Terc era School, 1600 Albin Way, Petaluma, will be open until 8 p.m. As of 10:45 a.m., only 104 of 2,-235 eligible voters had cast ballots, poll workers said.

54 hostages, most of them Americans, and that they were supplying them with their basic needs. They listed the demands for the hostages' release and said the guerrillas would insist on the demands "whatever happens."

In their latest moves through a mysterious third party negotiator, thought to be Michael Adams, pro-Arab Briton, the Arabs were completely bypassing the United States and Israel and dealing only with the ambassadors of Britain, Switzerland and West Germany. It was clear the Popular Front regarded the Americans and Israelis as their principal foes.

Throughout the negotiations the five powers have insisted on an all or nothing hostage release regardless of nationality or religion. Today, guerrilla spokesmen in Amman ignored this and asked for separate settlements. The International Red Cross already had bowed out of the negotiations because of this demand.

The growing difficulties between the guerrillas and the United States stemmed from a guerrilla statement Monday they were treating Israelis and Americans as the same and a tough White House statement Monday that the holding of any U.S. hostages is "totally unacceptable."

For the first time today the guerrilla spokesman listed their demands on Israel —release of and Ali Helaziz, taken from a BOAC plane in Tel Aviv; release of Swiss Bruno Berger, detained June 23 in Haifa wearing a corset stuffed with explosives and charged with being a guerrilla saboteur, and release of 10 captured Lebanese soldiers.

Irbid area 45 miles northeast of Amman followed similar reports Monday by the guerrilla organization Al Fatah. And in Beirut, the right-wing newspaper The Daily Star quoted guerrilla sources in Amman as saying the Jordanian Army has cleared guerrillas out of South Jordan.

The Daily Star said King Hussein hoped to liquidate the whole movement gradually. It said the campaign was launched after leaders of the Bedouin, the fanatical supporters of King Hussein, met in special session and pledged to support the government.

Hussein has been faced with near civil war for months and has survived nine assassination attempts. The Jerusalem Post, quoting "sources close to the Jordanian Royal Court," said in a front page banner story he was for the first time considering abdicating.

"Hussein . . . expressed his intention of quitting after last week's fierce clashes between his armed forces and the 'errorists, and after the open split in his army over the issue of the presence of terrorists and Iraqi troops in areas of Amman and other major towns, it said.

It said Hussein held up his decision at the insistence of Nasser "who fears total civil war in Jordan would follow his abdication."

its landing at San Francisco for refueling.

DeNisco, who also boarded at Los Angeles, was on duty in his capacity with Brinks to guard part of the cargo shipment. Police said the stewardess managed to show him the note on the way forward to the cabin.

When the plane landed at San Francisco airport officials barred it from the terminal and police cars, alerted after Gilman's radio message to Los Angeles, blocked its path.

Rushing onto the plane, officers found the hijacker lying semi-conscious between two seats, and DeNisco standing over him, still pointing his gun at him. Police said the hijacker's weapon turned out to be a stater's pistol, the kind used for athletic events, which shoots only blanks.

During the hour while the 35 passengers disembarked — including military personnel, small children and their parents — and the hijacker negotiated with Irwin, other activities at the airport went on nearly normally.

Some flights were routed away from the big 707 as police and other cars sped to and from it.

It was the second time in the history of air piracy that a hijacker was wounded on a U.S. airliner.

The other hijacker casualty occurred last June 4 at Dulles International Airport near Washington when a hijacker who demanded $100 million in ransom was wounded slightly in the thumb while being subdued in a struggle on a TWA plane.

The expressions of love and understanding from Charley's many friends throughout the county during his long illness and now his passing have been a great comfort.

I want to especially thank Fire Chief Louis Bloom of the Marin County Fire Department and his men for their great tribute to Charley. I also thank the American Legion Post of Bolinas, Reverend W. Frederickson, the Marin County Sheriff Department and the other Marin County Fire Departments for the Cortege which accompanied my husband to his final resting place. RETURN TO WORK — Asst. Dist. Atty. Gary W. Thomas chats with reporters on his return to work at Marin County Hall of Justice. Thomas, wounded in the Aug. 7 shootout at Civic Center, was all set to go yesterday and gave no indication he regarded a wheelchair as a handicap. (Independent-Journal photo)

Thomas, Fit, Thinner Back At Civic Center

Looking fit but thinner than before he was wounded three times during the Aug. 7 shootout at the Civic Center, Asst. Dist. Atty. Gary W. Thomas quipped and joked with newsmen as he arrived for work yesterday.

Paralyzed from the waist down, the 32-year-old attorney settled behind his desk in the wheel chair which he has learned to use since leaving the hospital. "I'm down to my fighting weight," he joked.

"As soon as they taught me how to get in and out of the car, I was ready to get away from there," he said about leaving home far earlier than physicians had predicted.

He plans to work every day, he said, adding that he didn't know what kind of work he would be doing. "I imagine I'm a little bit behind on my correspondence," he smiled. He declined to speculate when he will again try a case.

Although the mood of the interview was mostly light, Thomas's face clouded when asked how it felt to reenter the Hall of Justice, five weeks after the tragedy in which Harold J. Haley and three others were killed.

"I have to go back to earning a living," was his answer.

What about the municipal court judgeship, to which a bipartisan committee is attempting to get Gov. Ronald Reagan to appoint Thomas?

"I'm ready to go to work tomorrow," he said, "if the governor will just appoint me."

Thomas, shot twice in the chest and once in the spine, underwent surgery followed by a month's convalescence at Marin General Hospital.

Since returning home about a week ago, he has had daily one-hour sessions with a physical therapist, who has him do such exercises as pushups and weight-lifting.

"I've always led an active life and I intend to continue doing so," he said.

Thomas, a member of the district attorney's staff since 1962, was taken hostage along with three women jurors in the courtroom of Judge Harold J. Haley, killed by a shotgun blast in the convicts' getaway van.

Thomas reportedly grabbed a gun from one of the convicts after the judge, who was his wife's uncle, was killed and shot two or possibly three of them. Two convicts and a young accomplice died in the shootout.

A third convict, Ruchell Magee, has been charged with murder and assault and is due to be arraigned today at San Quentin, where all routine court matters involving inmates have been heard since the shootout.

Still being sought in connection with the murder is teacher Angela Davis, who has been linked to guns used in the abortive escape attempt.

Police Pursue Kidnapping Leads

BERKELEY (UPI)—Police say they are pursuing "several investigation leads" into the mysterious disappearance of realtor Jack Setzer who reported he had been kidnapped for three days.

The department's statement came Monday after a day of talks with Setzer who says he was kidnapped Wednesday night and released Saturday night near Susanville.

There was no demand for ransom and he was not abused.

Tiburon Lodge Additions Wins Approval By Council

The Tiburon City Council last night approved a master plan for additions to the Tiburon Lodge, including addition of 32 motel rooms, two meeting rooms, a Bank of America branch and office building and an addition to the lounge.

The plan, adopted without discussion last night, includes conditions imposed by the council at its last meeting. Among the conditions are improving Beach Road and dedicating it to the city, installing fire hydrants and mains and assuming responsibility for drainage.

William R. Bremer, representing developer Fred G. Zelinsky, had said they could "live with this," and previously estimated the cost of such conditions at about $10,000.

There was no indication when the work on the additions would begin.

The Tiburon City Council Also:

CLUSTERING — Unanimously approved an ordinance amendment allowing clustering of houses to provide more open space in residential areas, emphasizing that this amendment does not approve clustering in any particular area of Tiburon at this time.

RECREATION LAND — Granted the parks and recreation department authorization to conduct a study to determine uses for open spaces for inclusion in city's master plan.

STREET LIGHTS — Agreed to abide by a decision of a Reedland Woods area homeowners' group to install 4,000 lume incandescent lights for a six-month trial period.

APARTMENTS — Referred back to planning and development committee a plan by real estate developer John S. Hoffmire of North Bay Properties, Inc. to build 38 new units on Mariner Circle.

DRAINAGE — Heard recommendations from Milton Hudis, Santa Rosa engineering consultant working with the joint Tiburon-Belvedere flood control committee, that the holding pond behind the Safeway store should be deepened and that he did not see any short term solution to flooding in the Reed Basin area. Hudis also asked for and received the council's consent to enter several parcels of property to conduct drainage study.

REZONING — Continued to a later meeting the question of rezoning of the Leo Bodian and the A. J. Casella Jr. properties in the Round Hill Road area from RO-1 to RO-2.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned till Sept. 28 at 7:30 p.m. in city hall for the next council meeting.

CLOSED SESSION — Entered closed session to discuss impending litigation.

Mill Valley Rec Group Endorses Creekside Park

In a brief meeting, the Mill Valley Parks and Recreation Commission last night endorsed a proposal by Trans-Marin Properties to develop a creekside park near La Goma Street and Miller Avenue and turn it over to the city.

Chairman James E. Rutledge said the commission asked the city council to approve Trans-Marin's plan to develop the park when it builds an apartment development on adjacent land.

Commissioners also decided that each would write down his feelings about the type of development he preferred for the city's small craft harbor. The recommendations will be combined at a future commission meeting, Rutledge said.

On a field trip before the meeting, commissioners viewed creek erosion at Boyle Park and urged the city council to take action to combat the undermining of the bank near the park's baseball diamond.

Two Satifactory After Overdoses

Two Rohnert Park women were reported in satisfactory condition today at Community Hospital in Santa Rosa suffering from overdoses of pills.

Rohnert Park police said Dessie Sommerhalder, 43, of 7506 Adrian Drive, was taken to the hospital by ambulance at 3:40 p.m. yesterday.

Chiako Hewitt, 39, of 243 Alison Avenue, was taken by ambulance at 7:05 p.m. yesterday, police said.

Sausalito Will Consider 22-Unit Housing Project

A proposed 22-unit housing development on Santa Rosa Avenue above Glen Drive will come under the scrutiny of the Sausalito City Council today at 8 p.m. when the council considers a variance for the property.

At the Sept. 3 meeting of the Sausalito Planning Commission David Hunter, owner of the 145,000 square foot site, requested the variance and conditional use permit necessary for the development. The commission approved the variance, but took no action on the permit, waiting for council action on the variance.

The project would include apartments, duplexes and some single-family dwellings.

The council will also open bids on $560,000 worth of bonds for city purchase of waterfront land and consider a resolution to sell the bonds, approved by voters in June.

A variancet to allow the Sausalito Arts Center to use outdoor amplified sound during certain planned events will also be discussed.

Woman Critical After Collision

A 60-year-old San Rafael woman was reported in critical condition today at Marin General Hospital with internal injuries sustained when her vehicle collided yesterday with another at Redhill Avenue and Ancho Vista, San Anselmo.

Police said today Faye Sybil Jasmann of 127 Valley View Avenue, apparently crossed Redhill Avenue without seeing the auto driven by John Tilden Osborne, 16, of 380 Vista Grande, Greenbrae, which crashed into her at about 4 p.m.

Osborne was not injured.

Cable TV Is Upheld For Several Areas In Tiburon

Approximately 700 families in Tiburon's Taylor Road, Seafirth, Tiburon Hills and Greenwood Beach areas may get cable television this fall as a result of action by the Tiburon City Council last night.

At present, residents of these areas are unable to receive signals from San Francisco, according to Robert Pace, manager of Cable TV of Marin, and can receive Sacramento stations only weakly.

Cable TV of Marin was granted a franchise in all of the above areas except Greenwood Beach, which was awarded to Clearview TV, which serves the rest of Tiburon.

Cable TV of Marin had objected to the city's requirement that a franchise holder pay $1,200 or 5 per cent of gross receipts per year to the city. This was resolved last night with the granting of the franchise to the company with the provision that the $1,200 minimum could be lowered later because of the limited number of people being served by the franchise.

"Until I get a franchise or written permission from you," Pace told the council "the phone company will not grant me a pole line contract."

The council passed the franchise agreement bcause it will take at least two months for the cable system to become operative, and delay would penalize the homeowners in these areas, according to Mayor Denis T. Rice.

Man Arraigned In Arrest Chase

Dennis William Donohoe, 21, of 4 Mount Diablo Circle, San Rafael, was arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on charges of felony battery on a police officer, assault with a deadly weapon, resisting arrest and reckless driving.

Donohoe was arrested Thursday after a high speed chase by California Highway Patrol officers on Highway 101 from Greenbrae to San Rafael.

When the chase finally ended at the Irwin Street off-ramp, Donohoe allegedly swung his fist and kicked the officer, who finally subdued him with the help of an off-duty San Francisco police officer.

He is to return to court next Monday to enter pleas to the charges.

Today is Tuesday, Sept. 15, the 258th day of 1970.

The moon is full. The morning stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn. The evening stars are Venus and Jupiter.

President William Howard Taft was born in 1857.

On this day in history:

In 1935 the Nazi Third Reich established the swastika as part of the national German flag.

In 1963 a bomb thrown at a Negro church in Birmingham, Ala., killed four girls and touched off city-wide rioting. Two Negro boys were shot to death the same day.

In 1966 Gemini-II splashed down in the Atlantic after a three-day flight.

A thought for the day: Benjamin Disraeli said "What we anticipate seldom occurs; what we least expect generally happens."

Tricia Gets Seat On Arts Board

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon today appointed his daugher Tricia, 24, to a 10-year term on the board of trustees of the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts.

That means Tricia would continue serving long after her father has left office no later than 1977.

Tricia will succeed Mrs. George R. Brown of Houston, Tex., multi-millionaire friend of former President Lyndon B. Johnson. Her term has expired.

Nobody noticed the hawk-faced man with the pipe in his mouth as he watched the inter-city match last month in the ballroom of the Sheraton-Boston Hotel. CLUB LEAD

West had opened the six of clubs, and South played low from the dummy when my companion, the ageless Sherlock Holmes, made his comment. And he was right, even though the players were the best experts of Boston and Los Angeles.

South won the first trick with the king of clubs, drew three rounds of trumps and then led out the ace and jack of diamonds The defenders won and promptly led three rounds of spades.

South wanted to ruff in his own hand because he needed dummy's last trump to ruff a third round of diamonds. But then there would be no way to get back to the South hand for the last two diamonds.

Declarer would fare no better if he ruffed the third spade in the dummy. He could cash two high clubs, but then dummy would be dead. Either way he could get only nine tricks.

REMOVED ENTRY

South lost his contract by using up the king of clubs at the first trick. He should win the opening lead with dummy's queen of clubs. Then declarer draws three rounds of trumps, cashes the ace of diamonds and gives up a diamond.

If the defenders lead three rounds of spades, their best defenes, South ruffs the third spade in his own hand, ruffs a diamond in dummy, and then returns to his hand with the carefully preserved king of clubs to cash the two good diamonds.

"Since the opening lead is an obvious singleton," Holmes observed when we discussed the hand, "declarer must go after the diamonds and must save all his entries to that suit."

Treated For Cuts

William Woody Barham, 29, of 519 Pineo Street, Tamalpais Valley, suffered head cuts when his eastbound motorcycle struck an embankment while rounding a curve on Shoreline Highway, west of Chamberlain Court, Tamalpais Valley, at 9:05 a.m. Sunday, according to the California Highway Patrol. He was treated at Marin General Hospital.

A Confused Diana In Guatemala

only a handful of ruling families.

Whenever Diana was in the capital, Guatemala City, she would spend the evening with Howard, talking late into the night about the peaceful revolution envisioned by the Quakers and the violent revolution already under way in the mountains to the east. Howard argued that Guatemala's only hope for fundamental change lay with guerrilla leaders like Iris Turcios.

Howard's views were shared by one of Diana's Guatemalan friends who prescribed violence even more bluntly. "What this country needs," he told Diana, "is to line up the 50 first families against the white wall."

Diana found such ideas hard to accept. She was not necessarily against violence in extreme circumstances; but like most Americans, she had always assumed that hard work could achieve the same ends with less suffering.

Throughout her two years in Guatemala Diana struggled with the questions of poverty, social justice and revolution. She and Ann Aleman, another VISA volunteer in Chichicastenango, had been exposed to the country's deep conservative roots as soon as they had arrived; the priests warned them bluntly that discussion of birth control or other subjects considered sensitive by the Catholic Church was forbidden.

During the months that followed, both girls gradually began to see that no matter how hard they or Father Casas worked, there would always be more people than food or jobs or places to live.

"Father Casas is one of the finest men I've ever met but he's a fool, too," she once said to Mike Kimmell, another VISA volunteer living in a small town about 15 miles from Chichicastenango.

Despite her doubts, Diana committed herself totally to her work. She deliberately sought out a simple, almost primitive place to live. She carried all her own drinking water, cooked over a wood fire, read by candlelight and washed her clothes in a large wooden tub.

When two Indian children contracted a rare eye disease Diana kept prodding the sluggish Guatemalan bureaucracy until operations for the children could be arranged in the capital. Several times she took the children to Guatemala City for eye examinations and returned the same day, a bruising four-hour trip each way.

When she developed asthma in the high mountain climate of Chichiastenango she tried to ignore it. During severe attacks Ann would build a fire to dry out the air and Diana, refusing to leave the town and her work, would simply retreat into bed and wait until the attack had passed.

Once she was bitten by a dog the whole town considered rabid, but refused to leave to get rabies shots, saying she couldn't spare the time.

On one occasion when she and Kimmell were trying to find a way to build some ovens, Diana decided the best way was to cut openings in large earthenware pots. She took a small elegant tool kit out of her pack, a present from her father, attached a chrome-plated saw to its chrome-plated handle and then sat in the sun for five hours, laboriously cutting openings into the rock-hard pots. When she was done her hands were covered with blisters and the saw was ruined.

The volunteers were paid a small subsistence salary which most of them found barely adequate, but Diana spent even less than she received. When her clothes wore out she patched and re-patched them.

As time passed Diana began to feel that American economic aid was only consolidating the control of Guatemala's ruling families without ever reaching the broad mass of the people.

The American influence seemed to reach everywhere, Diana knew that the American Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) had been responsible for a coup against a left-wing Guatemalan regime in 1954, and that the Spanish newspaper she helped edit was run by the Guatemalan Army with U.S. military assistance funds.

She and other VISA volunteers made friends with the people who ran CARE in Guatemala City, stopping in whenever they got to the capital to pick up a couple of pounds of radish seeds for the Indians or a box of ballpoint pens or whatever else had arrived since their last visit.

ALAN HOWARD
Planted revolutionary seed?

The volunteers were surprised and disturbed when two CARE officials suddenly left after it was reported that both were CIA agents.

On another occasion Diana was angry to learn that a large shipment of baby food donated to CARE had been prompted by something less than charity. The American manufacturer had simply decided that free samples distributed by CARE would be the cheapest form of advertising.

Diana's growing concern over the American influence in Guatemala was matched by a growing dislike for the American tourists who came to Chichicastenango and stayed at the Mayan Inn, where they spent enough in a week to support an Indian family for a year.

Diana's distaste for American extravagance was also directed at her friends. When an old college friend and her husband, both heirs to large fortunes, came to Guatemala for a visit, Diana was disgusted by their complaints about the food and water and by their extravagant spending. "My God," Diana said to Kimmel after the couple had left, "she used to be my very best friend in the whole wide world."

The attitude she had tolerated in her friend was something she could not abide in her parents.

Before they arrived she made them promise they would stay at the cheapest of the town's three hotels, not the comfortable but expensive Mayan Inn. During the visit her parents were always aware of Diana's tenseness. She was impatient with their occasional discomfort and constantly afraid they would anger or insult the people she worked with.

Later, after they had gone, she wrote them and apologized. "I had forgotten how long it took me to adjust to life here," she said.

Shortly before the end of her two years in Guatemala, Diana wrote home and tried to explain what the experience had meant to her. She did not mention the long conversations with Howard about revolution and the disturbing changes taking place in her attitude toward her upbringing, her country and her own life, but she allauded to her doubts about the Quakers' approach to changing society.

By the time she left, Diana had a totally new view of the problems faced by underdeveloped peoples and of the U.S. role in the struggle to solve those problems. When an Aid for International Deveolpment (AID) official, impressed by her fluency in Spanish, offered her a job Diana was flattered but refused to take the offer seriously. By this time she had largely accepted Howard's argument that American and Guatemalan interests were directly opposed.

The following year, when Diana returned to Guatemala for a brief visit, she was half embarrassed to tell Mrs. Dreyer she was working in a poverty program in Philadelphia.

"What are you doing working for the federal government?" Donna asked.

Diana tried to dismiss the question with a joke, but Mrs. Dreyer felt she was troubled by it.

On New Year's Eve in 1967, Diana met Kimmell for dinner in New York. "I'll drive," Diana said when Kimmell started to get on his big BMW motorcycle.

"You're crazy," Kimmell said, but Diana insisted. Kimmell finally agreed and she startled him by expertly kicking the machine to life and then maneuvering through New York traffic until the icy December air began to hurt her gloveless hands. After dinner she flew back to Ann Arbor, Mich., where she was helping to run an experimental school with a handsome, charming radical named Bill Ayers. Kimmell never saw her again.

In November 1968, Diana wrote him to say the experimental school had folded and that she was thinking of becoming a fulltime organizer for the Students for a Democratic Society (SDS). She included a quote from D. H. Lawrence which referred indirectly to a discussion she and Kimmell had on the plane to Guatemala in 1963.

"There is no point in work unless it absorbs you like an interesting game," Lawrence had said. "If it doesn't absorb you, if it's not any fun, don't do it."

Fee Drop Not Seen Fatal To Sonoma State Activity

By C. P. McCARTHY

When Sonoma State College students voted last April to abolish mandatory student activity fees, they cut off $55,000 in funds which supported student government, intercollegiate athletics, lectures, concerts and the student newspaper. (Another Sonoma State story, page 1)

The student government folded a month later.

But the man in charge of student activities at the school doesn't think the fund cutoff will be fatal to other activities.

Prior to the opening of classes today, William L. Carr, who is associate dean of students for activities and housing, said he thinks the prospects for student activities this year are exciting.

What's exciting, he said, is the fact that activities won't be "encumbered by funds, and the structure funds create.

"Nobody will be saying, 'We have $4,000, what should we do?' Rather it will be, 'What do we want to do, and how do we do it?' " Carr said.

"Students will initiate, or there won't be anything, " he said.

One area wher Carr will be taking the initiative, he said, is insuring student representation on all-campus committees and policy-making bodies — a task formerly handled by student government.

He was not sure of how student representatives to various committees will be selected, but he said he was thinking of perhaps calling for nominations from the different academic divisions of the college.

Carr doesn't see the end of student government as disastrous. In fact, he said he thinks "the day when a student body can be represented by a government is gone."

Student representation and governance in campus life is important, he said, but many of the functions of student government are "pure busy work — not necessarily meaningful to the educational experience."

Some activities will not be hurt at all by the loss of student government or its funds, Carr said.

Most student organizations don't require much money, just interest, he said, citing the Chess Club as an example.

But he listed three areas where the loss of funds will be more sharply felt: Publications, sports and lectures and concerts.

The gap created by the absence of a student newspaper, he said, can perhaps be filled by a combination of a public information office newsletter about campus activities, a similar faculty newsletter and an enlarged bulletin board system.

In addition, a group of students, calling themselves Radio Free Cotati, have applied for a broadcast license from the federal comminications commission to serve the campus.

Athletics, the most expensive of student activities, has sought public aid.

Athletic director G. Edward Rudloff said $8,000 has already been raised, but another $4,000 is needed within the next two months to carry the intercollegiate athletic program through the first semester.

Intramural sports are financed through state funding, he said, but the 12-sport intercollegiate program was financed entirely through the mandatory student activities fee.

Rudloff said the total athletics budget of $16,500, if it can be raised, will finance cross-country, football, basketball, wrestling, baseball, track, golf and tennis for men, and field hockey, volleyball, softball, gymnastics, tennis and basketball for women.

A group called Friends of Sonoma State has been conducting an advance ticket sales campaign in an effort to raise the needed funds.

Funding of lectures and concerts may prove more difficult, Carr said, adding that he expects to see less of them on campus this year.

But he noted that many lecturers are free, and there is $3,000 in the college budget for lecturers.

The money is divided into three funds: $1,000 is available for the academic departments to bring in lecturers; another $1,000 is at the disposal of a faculty ad hoc committee for lectures and concerts, and the third $1,000 is reserved by the college president for a commencement speaker.

As for concerts, Carr said his office is investigating the possibility of getting performers who might be in the area to appear at the college free.

If a music group is booked to play at a nightclub in Cotati, it might be willing to put on a free concert at the college in the afternoon, he said.

In addition, several groups have already contacted his office volunteering to perform free, he said.

Carr, who is beginning his first year at Sonoma State after being assistant vice provost for graduate student affairs at the University of Pennsylvania, said he hopes to organize voluntary student task forces to deal with problems that may come up.

"I have a lot of confidence in student initiative," he said.

Three-Car Crash Injures Two

A 57-year-old Fairfax woman was admitted yesterday to Marin General Hospital suffering from back injuries and a Sacramento man was treated for mild back strain following a three-car accident on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in San Anselmo.

Police said Ruth Willis Dole of 300 Olema Drive was turning left on to Madrone Avenue at 1 p.m. when her auto was rammed into the path of the westbound vehicle of George Pobanz of Sacramento by a third vehicle driven by Edward Thomas Koshko, 48, of 351 Meadow Way, San Geronimo.

No Religious Exemption In Pot Case

Although he finds marijuana laws "highly debatable," a Marin judge yesterday ruled that the use of it by a Laguntas man did not fall under the religious exemption granted by the Constitution.

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of superior court said that Jeffrey Neil Stallard "does not worship marijuana and does not think that God exists in it" as American Indians who use peyote in religious ceremonies do.

NOT THE SAME

Stallard's case is not the same, the judge wrote in his decision. Stallard "has not at any time used marijuana pursuant to any set or known theology," he said.

He granted, however, that the 32-year-old man who had gotten himself arrested in order to test the marijuana laws, did "entertain a good faith belief in a rather individualized religion."

Stallard had testified at a preliminary hearing that he was able only through the use of marijuana to obtain certain religious experiences, which he described as being "like I was when I was a child leaving church . . . glad to be alive."

Judge Gardiner did not elaborate his own views on pot but said that the legislature has a right to make laws as a coordinate branch of government.

"In the case of marijuana, it has made a finding which this court thinks is highly debatable, but which it, nevertheless, had the right to make," he wrote.

ARRESTED IN 1969

Stallard got himself arrested in April 1969, by handing a marijuana cigarette which he had taken out of his boot to a sheriff's deputy at the county jail.

Judge Gardiner made his decision yesterday without taking testimony but on the basis of the transcript of the preliminary hearing held before Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. of municipal court.

Judge Goldstein had also refused to dismiss the case saying that there was no such religion as "marijuanaism."

Earlier this year another superior court judge, E. Warren McGuire, threw out the religious defense for entertainment tycoon Frank N. Werber, whose case is still being appealed.

Judge Gardiner did not set a sentencing date for Stallard yesterday after finding him guilty of felony pot possession.

Jury Trials Set In Armed Robbery

Two jury trials were set yesterday in Marin Municipal Superior Court for Roy Morgan Jr., 22, of Marin City who is charged with being a participant in an armed robbery in Mill Valley on July 11 and possessing marijuana when arrested on July 13.

He is to be tried on three counts of armed robbery and one of felony illegal entry during the week of Dec. 7 and on the pot charge the following week.

Morgan is accused of being one of three men who forced their way into the home of Kenneth M. Stephens of 85 Tamalpais Avenue and robbed him and two guests at gunpoint.

No Report For Lack Of Quorum

The San Rafael Library Board failed to muster a quorum last night to hear the initial report on the second phase of the city's library facilities study by Donald R. Hegstrom of the Consulting Organization of San Francisco.

Most of the meeting, with only two members present, was devoted to detailed analysis of the results of a patron questionnaire distributed last April during the survey's first phase.

Hegstrom said "some decisions will need to be taken" at the October meeting. He indicated his feeling is that the library should be expanded at or near its present location, with some extension of services but not through the usual type of branch libraries.

Ayala Cove previously was made a state historical landmark and that designation now will be extended to the entire island.

Activities now planned for Ayala Day include the dedication of the landmark plaque and a barbecue lunch starting at 11:30 a.m., according to chairman David Teather. Tickets and other information may be obtained from Tiburon City Hall.

Hayakawa Optimistic About Year

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— San Francisco State College President S.I. Hayakawa said today he had "every reason for optimism that the school would see a peaceful year.

"The past is past indeed. I don't expect the college to be a battlefield this year," Hayakawa said.

The college president pointed out that last year was peaceful and said he expected the same this year. His prediction was given at a faculty meeting called on the opening of the school year. Attendance at the meeting was about 700, a little better than average.

"In the year ahead we are going to need ingenuity, judgment and wisdom to cope with the problems caused by the serious shortage of resources and the increased demand for our services," he said.

Hayakawa said the failure of the legislature to vote faculty raises "means that the public is pretty well fed up" with what has been going on on college campuses.

He said the black studies department, focal point of campus disturbances two years ago, will offer 33 courses this year. "I think we have reason to believe that this department will not be torn with internal division as it was last year."

Hayakawa announced the appointment of Dr. John Edwards, 47, as executive vice president of the school to replace Earl Jones, now acting president of Sonoma State College.

He also announced appointment of Dr. Leo Young as dean of humanities, Dr. Helen Bedesem as acting dean of students, and Dr. James Hirabayashi as director of ethnic studies.

Guilty Plea To Exposure Counts

Clifford T. Van Pelt, 52, of San Francisco, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Superior Court to two counts of indecent exposure and a third count of the same offense was dismissed.

Judge E. Warren McGuire appointed two doctors to examine Van Pelt, who also admitted that he had a prior conviction for the same charge, to determine if he is a mentally disturbed sex offender.

Van Pelt was arrested most recently in May at Stinson Beach State Park after children complained of his exposing himself and trying to entice them to come near.

CAMPUS FIRE DEMONSTRATION — Firemen demonstrate Rohnert Park's new $86,000 snorkel truck at Sonoma State College to allay concern over fire protection at the campus. The 65-foot snorkel can reach the tops of the tallest buildings on campus.

Fire protection at Sonoma State College has been vastly improved since last December when a faculty member climbed down a rope from a third floor window to illustrate his concern over fire danger.

The improved protection was demonstrated Friday when the Rohnert Park Fire Department showed up on campus with its $86,000 snorkel truck.

In December when students and faculty dramatized their concerns, the Penngrove Fire Department, which is responsible for the campus, had only a 24-foot ladder — incapable of reaching the third story windows of some campus buildings.

Rohnert Park, which is adjacent to the campus and has a mutual aid arrangement with Penngrove, purchased its snorkel in January and Penngrove itself purchased a new truck with a 35-foot ladder last month.

Penngrove's ladder is capable of reaching the top windows of the campus's three-story buildings — the tallest in the area, and firemen showed Friday that the 65-foot snorkel is capable of putting firemen on or making rescues from the roofs of the three-story buildings.

The campus fire alarm system, which was included in December's criticisms, is also improved, although William Mabry, the college's assistant to the chief of plant, maintains the system was and is adequate.

All campus buildings now have an in-building alarm system, Mabry said, but the fire fire department must still be notified by someone who hears the alarm.

To be put into operation shortly, he said, is a system in which any firebox pulled on campus, in addition to sounding an alarm, will send a coded signal to the college's boiler plant, which is manned 24 hours a day.

The code will give the boiler plant operator the exact location of the fire and he will notify the Penngrove Fire Department. Mabry said December's criticism overlooked the fact that the campus buildings are "the most fireproof construction there is."

He said the buildings are equipped with sprinkler systems and have larger hallways and more exits than required by law.

Panel Objects To Richmond Loop Study

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Unanimous opposition to the Golden Gate Bridge District's study of extending rail rapid transit to Marin from Richmond was voted yesterday by the San Francisco Board of Supervisors.

The board, at the urging of Supervisor Robert E. Gonzales, adopted a resolution urging the bridge district directors to reconsider their vote of last Friday to study the Richmond loop.

Gonzales, also a member of the bridge board, had fought hard but unsuccessfully against the study last Friday. He objected that such a routing of rapid transit would require a permanent bus system for Southern Marin commuters.

Gonzales reminded his fellow supervisors yesterday that when they voted last week to approve use of San Francisco streets by bridge district buses it was understood the buses some day would be replaced by rapid transit.

However, Okamoto-Liskamm, the urban design consultants working on the district's transit plan, were to have begun work immediately on their study of the Richmond loop, for which $49,165 was allocated. They therefore will be three weeks into the study when the directors next meet Sept. 25.

Fairfax To Consider Transfer Request

The Fairfax School District board, meeting at 7:45 p.m. today, will consider an interdistrict attendance request for one student to attend classes in the Mill Valley School District.

Meeting at the district office, 58 Park Road, Fairfax, the board will also consider a student teaching agreement with San Francisco State College, and will hear reports on first day attendance figures, the Miller-Unruh reading program and the movable walls at White Hill School.

San Rafael Denies Firemen's Pay Plea

San Rafael City Council, viewing a policeman's job as more hazardous in these times, last night rejected a bid by firemen for equal pay.

Firemen, getting 2.5 per cent less than policemen, contended the pay schedule for each department should be equal as it had been in past years.

Councilmen also rejected a request by firemen for a shorter work week, 60 hours instead of 63 hours, noting that the work week was reduced from 67 to 63 hours last year.

The two mateers, unresolved in previous closed negotiating sessions, were aired at an open special session at City Hall attended by about 35 firemen and several wives.

Parity pay for firemen was turned down by a 4-1 vote, with John A. Miskimen dissenting.

Thornton C. Bunch, representing the San Rafael Firemen's Association, argued there should be no difference between pay for firemen and policemen.

Traditionally, policemen and firemen have received equal pay, and both "are public safety employees, and provide essential public service," Bunch said.

Firemen, too, have a hazardous job, and the death and injury rate for firemen is higher than that for police officers, he contended.

"The work is just as dangerous with less notoriety," Bunch said.

When a fireman dies he doesnt' "get the great press, the High Mass, the flag at half-staff and what amounts to a military funeral," accorded police officers killed in the line of duty, Bunch commented.

He said policemen in San Rafael now get 2.5 per cent more pay than firemen and "it's 5 per cent among officers in most cases."

(The salary range for firemen is $794 to $954, and the range for police officers $812 to $976.)

This has disrupted the morale of firemen, who previously were paid at the same rate, Bunch said.

Councilman Harry A. Barbier, a member of the city fire commission, said a policeman in a patrol car "has his life on the line more than a fireman," and "that 2.5 per cent is hazard pay."

In these days, policemen stopping cars on minor violations are getting shot, Barbier said.

Miskimen said the difference in hazards for each department was difficult to prove, and they traditionally had been on the same salary base.

Councilmen unanimously voted against reducing the work week three hours to 60 hours.

Bunch said that other similar departments in the Bay Area averaged below the 60-hour week, and the intent was to move eventually to a three-platoon system on a 56-hour week.

Reducing the work week would make the San Rafael firemen's work time, "comparable with his counterparts in the Bay Area," Bunch contended.

City Mgr. James H. McCown said San Rafael pays the highest salaries of any city in Marin and has the second shortest week for firemen.

There was some confusion as to how many additional men would be needed to put a 60-hour week into effect, but McCown said it would cost $11,248 a fireman, plus fringe benefits costs.

This year firemen were granted the same pay raise as other city employees, a flat $55 a month for those earning below $1,000 a month and a 5.5 per cent boost for those making more than the $1,000.

Mayor Bettini said he felt "badly that firemen were unhappy," but believed the city had given "everyone the best possible we could afford."

Councilman Barbier contended the firemen had fared well in past years when they met face-to-face with the council to present their demands. This year there were closed sessions in negotiation with the city's representative, McCown.

Thefts Reported At Two Petaluma Service Stations

Thefts from two Petaluma service stations were reported by Petaluma police today.

James Morris, an attendant at Roberts Shell Station, 900 Petaluma Boulevard North, told police two men drove into the station at about 4:15 p.m. yesterday.

While one of the men asked Morris the price of tires, the other apparently stole a battery charger valued at $160, police said.

Police said a Go-Cart valued at $75 was stolen from Henri's Union 76 station at 4998 Petaluma Boulevard North, between 10 p.m. Friday and 6 a.m. Saturday.

'Bridge' Victim Phones Coroner

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Sandra Stricker, 21, telephoned the coroner's office Monday that her mother was incorrect in saying she had plunged to her death from the Golden Gate Bridge.

Her mother, Mrs. Louise Reyes, had identified the body of a plunge victim as Miss Stricker on Sunday and declared the daughter had left her San Francisco home saying she wanted to "live my own life."

Miss Stricker refused to give her present address, "because I don't want my mother to know." She did say she worked occasionally as a receptionist at a YWCA hotel.

Officials turned to a camera found near the body in an attempt to establish the true identity.

By JANE ROGERS

London Express Service

Remember the shirt dress as it used to be — straight up and down and no nonsense? It was useful, that just about summed up its charm, but any shape that went into it you put in yourself. And if the shirt was in thin jersey, the shape more often than not was a baggy seat, rather than a curvaceous waist and hipline.

Well the fashion roundabout has come round again to that ever-useful shirty look, but this time there's a distinct difference about it. The shirt dress of the '70s is shapely, definitely feminine and pretty, rather than practical to wear.

First there were a whole batch of see-through shirt dresses in thin cotton voile with gathered skirts and low-diving necklines. But not everyone wants to be seen through, and even more people find that the bunched effect of a gathered waistline makes them look like a merry peasant, hips and all, so now they've refined it down to something a little more practical in its purpose, but it still has plenty of fashion fun about it, all the same.

THE NEW-LOOK shirt dress for the season ahead is almost certainly in jersey; that's what gives it that soft look. But the jersey is imperceptibly backed with reinforcement, where needed to avoid that too-droopy look. One midi dress that has already proved to be a top seller has a bonded jersey top to give a good shape to the bustline, a neat waist, but the skirt which is stitched down to the hipline, then flared out into unpressed pleats is left unbonded, so that it hangs prettily. The shirt collar has taken a new look too on this dress, for it is cut to stand up and frame the neckline, with deep wide-cut lapels, rather than simply being a copy of a classic shirt, manstyle.

Another fashion idea that is catching on fast is the shirt-'n'skirt look. The top is cut classic shirt-style in a gay patterned fabric, the skirt in a plain toning color. But as they are joined as a dress, the shirt stays firmly tucked in and shaped to the waistline, often finished off with a wide tie belt. It's ideal for the kind of girl who only really feels happy in tailored clothes, but wants to keep up to date in fashion too.

The shapely shirt look makes its appearance in trouser suits too, some of them are so curvily cut that they look almost like artists smocks and are being snapped up by expectant mothers as a good shape to hide under for the first few months.

BUT FOR sheer good looks, plus plenty of shape, I prefer the shirt-trouser suits that are leaner in their cut and given curves by seaming. Tucks down the sides of the bodice can give curves where they are needed, yet control a too-wide look, in some cases the trousers have stitched creases in the center front to match and to help give a longer line. Here again jersey is the fabric to use if you want to keep that feminine look. And some of the jersey shirt tops are long enough to be worn as a dress, if you're sticking to the mini-length line, or a tunic top to be worn belted over a longish skirt if you're dropping your hemline. To complete the rennaissance of the shirt in fashion, a whole new series of shirt coats are on their way into the shops. Cut midi-length, shaped in at the waist and worn with huge buckled belts, they have a traditional shirt-front fastening, with jet buttons marching down the front, and a collar that fastens high and snug under the chin. Worn with lace-up boots they have a very attractive, slightly old-fashioned air without making you feel that you might just be mistaken for your own grandmother . . . a very real risk if you slip into a shawl-collared longer-length coat and those high-vamped lace-up shoes.

SHIRT DRESSES of the '70s are shapely, feminine and pretty instead of just practical to wear as they have been in he past. Many of the newlook shirt styles are in jersey, backed with reinforcement to avoid the droopy look. Left, a shapelier shirt dress by St. Honore has a bonded top and a single jersey skirt. Right, the shaplier shirt with trousers has parallel seaming to give it extra shape.

St. Rita's Is Setting For Wedding Of Shirley Carson And Robert Cole

No Sex Discrimination Among Airplane Pilots and Owners

"We don't consider that there are men pilots and women pilots. The people wno fly their own airplanes are just pilots. But some of them are a lot prettier than others."

This is the way the world's largest organization of airplane pilots and plane owners looks at today's women's liberation movement.

Women have always been welcome in general aviation, a spokesman for the Aircraft Owners and Pilots Association said. "In fact, it was recently called to our attention by a woman that our membership application has no place for designating the sex of the applicant," he said.

In the annals of general aviation along with the names of Charles Lindbergh and Roscoe Turner you will find Amelia Earhart and Jacqueline Cochran. Jerrie Mock of Columbus, Ohio, and Sheila Scott of England are both modern globe circling, record breaking pilots.

In addition to the women pilots who achieve outstanding flights, there are outstanding women who regularly make ordinary flights. Actress Susan Oliver, once fearful of stepping into any type of airplane, is now an accomplished plot with a crossing of the Atlantic to her credit.

There are women employed as pilots for corporate aircraft. More than 500 women are licensed flight instructors and three times that number are licensed to teach aviation ground school. Several hundred women are licensed airplane mechanics.

During World War II, the WASPS, Women's Air Force Service Pilots, played an important role in ferrying military aircraft.

But, as spectacular as some of the achievements of women pilots may be, the real story lies in the unspectacular. Thousands of college girls, mothers, career women and grandmothers use their general aviation airplanes with the ease and safety of using the family automobile.

ON A WEDDING trip to Southern California are Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Beardsley (Nancy Silewicz), who were married at Our Lady of Mt. Carmel Church in Mill Valley. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Casimir Silewicz of Mill Valley, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Bagley, also of Mill Valley.

150 Years Of Marriage Is Possibility

How would you like to be married to the same person for 150 years? Or work for the same company even longer?

Sound too bad to be true?

It's a possibility — in the future that is, when some authorities predict living through parts of three centuries may be possible.

According to Dr. C. W. Hall, head of the artificial organs program of Southwest Research Institute, San Antonio, Tex., long life — the hundreds of years kind — may be in the offing.

And it will be accomplished, to an extent, through the judicious use of artificial organs.

Dr. Hall, a surgeon and former member of the widely-known DeBakey transplant team in Houston, believes that in time there will be a cure or treatment for virtually all human ailments.

When this happens, Dr. Hall believes our scientists and engineers will extend life spans by developing spare body parts to duplicate, even improve, our worn out ones.

But there will be problems.

What, for example, will this do to health and life insurance premiums

It's certain, says the Health Insurance Institute, that both health and life insurers will have to adjust their thinking and their actuarial tables, to accommodate a 175-year-old man.

For one thing, major medical insurance specifically designed as a bulwark against the really big medical bills, will have to raise its coverage if it is to handle a dual heart-liver transplant.

The average maximum of a major medical policy today is normally between $10,000 and $20,000, although group policies are now being written with maximums of up to $100,000.

Some other routine problems were cited in "Tomorrow Through Research," a publication of the Southwest Research Institute. They include:

What about our prison inmates? Should longevity be encouraged among those serving life sentences?

What metallic or mineral designation would you have for a 150th wedding anniversary?

But probably the big question in the age will be simply: "How old is old?" That is, will people actually feel as old as they are?

"Tomorrow Through Research" is optimistic.

It points out that remarkable effects of estrogens (female sex hormones) have already been demonstrated in both the physical and mental areas among middle-aged women. And it adds:

"There is promise of similar hormonal age retardants for the male, and research into turning back the atherosclerotic process shows promise of considerably reducing the effects of aging.

"What will life be like when it spans two or three centuries? This is a question worth pondering. But we can be relieved that Dr. Hall says it won't happen in our lifetime."

Teens Anti-Trash Movement Ended With No Place To Move It

DEAR HELEN:

Yesterday my brother and I went around the neighborhood to pick up all the trash that was carelessly thrown around the streets and vacant lots.

When we got home with our wagon load, our mother told us we had to stop because she paid for garbage collection and extra boxes meant extra charges, so she wasn't going to shell out for the neighbors.

Well, I see her point, but how do teens get an anti-litter program started when there's no place to dump the junk? — CONCERNED ABOUT LITTER

DEAR CONCERNED:

If you tell City Hall about your anti-litter campaign, I'm quite sure pick-ups will be provided. Give the mayor a ring, and who knows, your idea might develop into a city-wide program. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

My boy friend does something that really bugs me. After bringing me home from a date (around midnight), he goes to different hangouts and drinks beer with the kids (male and female) until sometimes five a.m. I'm afraid his folks think he is with me all that time.

In a few days I begin hearing how drunk he got with his so-called friends. He doesn't try to hide this from me, but I think it's dirty of a guy to go out by himself after he takes his girl home.

DEAR BUGGED:

You're right, but "getting on a boy's back about it" may only drive him to more partying.

"Sauce for the goose" might work better. Tell him you must be home by 11:30 because "a bunch of kids are planning something for later."

(And if he asks to come along — well, you've got another problem.) — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Are you in favor of pop or rock festivals? I'm not. My ex-boy friend went to Woodstock and came back a drug addict. That's why he is my ex. He just couldn't quit LSD, so he moved to the Village to be closer to the supply.

I moaned and groaned for a long time, but finally met someone else and we're very happy. But I still have an empty feeling when I think of this guy who was so great until that Woodstock trip messed him up. He may be dead or dying for all I know.

I don't see how the police or authorities can allow rock festivals to take place. — CATHIE

DEAR CATHIE:

I think you're blaming Woodstock for an "addiction" that might have happened anyway. One rock festival doesn't permanently turn a fellow to drugs, unless the inclination is already there: He would have experimented whether he went on that trip or not, and only his basic weakness made him continue.

The day of the super-big festival is over for two reasons: Local authorities are afraid of them, and they're financial disasters (unless planners can recoup with a documentary). As for smaller ones, why not? They're less dangerous, a good deal more peaceful and probably more fun than were 1960's booze and beer busts during Easter week at Ft. Lauderdale. — H.

The best newsmen in Washington work for you...(because they work for us).

No less an authority than a leading Bishop has attested to the "accuracy and justness" of Louis Cassels' writing on religion. His specialty, as a reporter and feature writer for United Press International, is probably unique. It has made possible his authoritative coverage of the Vatican Ecumenical Council, Pope Paul's visit to America, and important meetings of Protestant bodies in all parts of the world. Among Mr. Cassels' many awards is the Faith and Freedom award for outstanding coverage of religious news. As a subscriber of UPI, we bring you Cassels stories on religion—the most perceptive being written today.

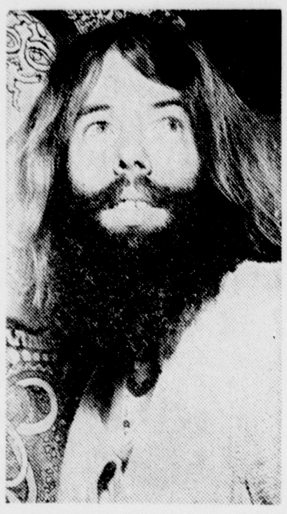
MOSAIC

Spontaneous Art For Larkspur Park

By ERIK INGRAM



DICKENS BASCOM
Gives his art away

Four years ago Larkspur artist Dickens Bascom first caught the public's interest by the somewhat unconventional interior decoration of his rented home high in the Larkspur Canyon.

He explained at the time that he was seeking to transform the three-story structure into an object of art reflecting himself.

To do so, he had scavenged materials and by creating hundreds of smaller works, had sought to integrate them into his larger work, the home.

That was 1966. Today his outlook has changed but not his passion for art.

Sitting in the shaded front yard of a friend's home in Larkspur, Bascom explained that he now gives most of his art work away, and the remainder he uses for trading as a type of currency.

His most recent donation, the 25-year-old artist commented, is a large mosaic given to Larkspur's Park and Recreation Commission. It will be hung in Dolliver Park.

The mosaic, fashioned from tile and glue donated by city businessmen, was a spontaneous effort by Bascom and about 10 of his friends.

Interspersed throughout the work are small knick-knacks, the type which are usually safeguarded in an 8-year-old's secret treasure chest.

Seashells, buttons, beads, marbles, mirrors, bones, and bottle caps are the most numerous. However a closer inspection reveals dice, colored rocks, a 1920-vintage photo and a ceramic-handled butter knife.

Why the change from self-introspection in the design of the home to complete spontaneity in the design of the mosaic?

"I worked for four years on the house. Every day, just like you go to work, I'd get up and work on the house," Bascom explained as he toyed with his full beard. "Finally, it was just too much."

Having lived hermit style while working on the house, with an occasional trip to the dump for a resupply of material, he explained he finally just left one day, leaving pets, musical instruments, and his art to be rummaged through and carted off by others.

That was two years ago, he said, and since then he has been traveling or rather painting his way through South America, Africa and Europe.

"I picked up a lot of ideas in my travels," he explained. "That mosaic has Indian, African and Persian styles in it. But it was still a spontaneous thing.

"The city, you know how they are, wanted me to submit plans and things for the mosaic, so I gave them a drawing," he continued. "But it didn't turn out anything like the drawing."

Bascom, who attended San Rafael Military Academy for three years, before running away, graduated from Oakland High School. He has only attended one art class.

"That was ceramics, and I only did that so I could use the clay," he related. "I had some ideas on what I wanted to do, so while the teacher was with the class on one side of the room, I was on the other side working."

He added that he has always had a compulsion to create and decorate.

"I've gotten into a lot of trouble because of it," he continued explaining that after he received city permission to do the mosaic for the park he and some friends decided to decorate the entire park.

"We were painting the park equipment and drawing pictures on the outside of a restroom wall when the police told us we had to stop," he said. "They said they were afraid we would begin decorating the city hall next."

He added that he had a few ideas for improving the appearance of the city building "but the government just won't go along with spontaneous ideas."

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon has named Raymond R. Guest, King George, Va., former U.S. ambassador to Ireland, and David K. Wilson, a businessman from Nashville, Tenn., as members of the Advisory Council on Historic Preservation.

Trial Set In Fire

Grace Patricia Halloran, 24, of Novato, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior Court to a charge of setting fire to her home on Aug. 18. A jury trial was set for the week of Oct. 13.

Officer Tells Of Firing Gun During Riot

Berkeley police Lt. James J. Polk said he fired his gun while riding in a jeep on Dana Street. Rundle was shot at Parker Street and Chilton Way.

Until Polk's statement the government had been able to keep from the jury all shots fired in the riot except the one allegedly discharged by Riche.

The shooting of Rundle, a freshman at the University of California, was described to the court Monday by a roof-top eye witness.

Colin McMaster, also a student, said he saw a rock thrown toward a blue-uniformed deputy in the middle of Parker Street.

"The officer turned and I saw him shoot a young man on Chilton Way. I saw him buckle and fall," McMaster said.

Iowan Is Seeking Address Of Cousin

Being sought is a woman whose maiden name was Jessie Everett and formerly lived in Chariton, Iowa.

Anyone who has any information about her may notify Ruth Mundell, 710 West Third Street, Apt. 1, Davenport, Iowa.

Arts Festival Still Taking Entrants

Entry blanks still are available for the Mill Valley Fall Arts Festival, set for Oct. 10 and 11 at Old Mill Park. They may be obtained from P. O. Box 300, Mill Valley.

Publicity chairman Jeanne Franklin said the festival committee will meet Thursday at 8 p.m. at Mill Valley's city hall to review plans for the show, and she invited all interested persons to attend. Last year's festival drew more than 10,000 spectators.

More than 250 entrants have been received so far. Media represented include painting, sculpture, weaving, ceramics, photography, serigraphy, graphics and jewelry.

In addition, several musical ensembles will perform and a variety of food booths will operate. A special feature of this year's festival will be a display of art work commemorating Mill Valley's 70th anniversary.

Weeds and sometimes nutritious pasture plants will produce off-flavors in milk.

Oceana Marine Residents Seeking A Locked Entrance

By WAT TAKESHITA

Robert L. Cantu, speaking for 64 of 68 homeowners of the ocean-front subdivision, explained that the residents are fed up with a series of burglaries, trespassers and beach visitors who park their cars at random, blocking driveways and even using the private driveways so the owners have to use the street. He made his pitch before the Marin County Planning Commission.

"It is proposed that a gate will be installed and property owners will have keys to the gate," said Cantu. "As more people move into the subdivision, there may possibly be a guard." He acknowledged that there would be drawbacks because if a resident invited outside guests, he would have to meet the guests at the gate.

Planning commissioners saw other drawbacks, such as the closing of public access to the beaches and coves along the Pacific Ocean from Dillon Beach northward. They want another discussion at the next meeting on Sept. 28.

Cantu's request yesterday was for the county to abandon all the roads within Oceana Marin subdivision — Oceana Drive, Kailua Way, Lanai Way and Tahiti Way — so that they could become private roads for resident use only.

"It's primarily for security reasons," said Cantu. "Most of them are weekend homes, and practically every home has been robbed."

Commissioner Margaret B. Azevedo wanted to know what the road abandonment would do to the public access to the beach frontage. She backed up Harold E. Gregg, president of the Marin Conservation League, who asked for at least pedestrian access along the subdivision roads so that hikers and beachcombers can reach the coves and beaches. Gregg declared that with the subdivision locked off with a gate, the only public access would be from the old Dillon Beach area along the water's edge.

At high tide, this would be impossible because the water comes up to the rocky cliffs, said Gregg.

"There is a public easement about 20 feet wide along the edge of the cliff," replied Cantu. "People can come through old Dillon Beach and use the cliffside."

Planning Director Werner von Gundell warned that a locked gate would cause problems in an emergency such as fire, injury or a disaster.

All four planning commissioners present yesterday agreed to a two-week continuation, but for different reasons. Chairman Walter F. Freitas and Eugene R. Trombley wanted more information from the planning staff, particularly on the beach access required by the county supervisors when Oceana Marin Units 5 and 6 were approved last May.

Mrs. Azevedo wanted some provision for quick access to Oceana Marin by emergency vehicles, and assurance of pedestrian access to the beachfront.

John F. West declared he's not so sure that the county should abandon the roads at all.

Belafonte Charge Will Be Dropped

CHATHAM, N.Y. (UPI)—A spokesman for Harry Belafonte said Monday night the singer's arrest during the weekend for alleged petty larceny at a grocery store was a misunderstanding and that charges would be dropped.

Mike Merrick, a New York City spokesman for the singer, said he had been assured by A&P chainstore President William J. Kane the charges would be withdrawn today. "The whole thing's ridiculous," Merrick said.

Belafonte was arrested Saturday on complaint of Miles Halstead, Chatham A&P store manager, who said the singer did not pay for $8 worth of articles.

Convicts' Chilling Word To Youths

By LARRY MOWELL

"You can commit a goddamn misdemeanor and end up here for the rest of your life."

"Here" is San Quentin State Prison, and the earnest words expressed both the despair of the convict and his desire to see that his young audience never follows in his footsteps.

Getting the message, Saturday, from members of San Quentin's SQUIRES were youngsters who have scraped the boundaries of legality.

"Our primary concern is to give of ourselves the experience we've had coming up the criminal route," one convict said.

The SQUIRES are in prison for various serious offenses — rape, murder, armed robbery, forgery, sale of heroin — but they share one desire: keep the teen-agers who rap with them each Saturday from 9 a.m. to noon out of prison.

"We as a group don't want to see you fellows end up in here," one inmate said. "It's cold in here. Sometimes your mother cuts you loose. When your girl cuts you loose, when she's running around the streets with another man, you can understand that, but when relatives cut you loose it's cold."

"I've got callouses on my soul," he concluded.

Frightened eyes and solemn expressions indicated his teen-age listeners —all from San Francisco — weren't quite so hardened.

Marin juveniles, however, aren't getting the benefit or the inmates' experience and two Novato teen-agers who went through one three-Saturday sequence last year want to offer it to them.

Although they have never had any trouble with police, Craig Luckin, 18, of 417 Alameda del Prado and Carl Yorke, 17, of 495 Rowland Boulevard said they know many youths who may be on the verge of prison.

They said their youthfulness will allow them to relate to those other young people who need the program whereas adults and policemen cannot.

However, their asset is also their debit. Being young they don't have funding.

They are optimistic of getting a $1,000 grant from the Marin County Youth Commission, but they must first find matching funds. The matching $1,000 can be in money or in kind and the young men hope someone will donate office space in San Rafael.

The Novato police were involved in SQUIRES, San Quentin's Utilization of Inmates' Resources, Experience and Studies, but their program died out, according to Luckin.

He said his peers were not enthusiastic about being asked to go because they had records or were suspected of crimes, but felt participation will increase if police aren't involved.

Five three-weekend series could be reserved for Marinites each year, Lucklin guessed, meaning 50 to 75 youth could get the actual prison discussion experience.

Saturday's discussion was the first of three for the dozen youngsters so they were generally subdued and preferred to listen. The convicts however, occasionally drew them out.

A convict named Alfred asked the youths if they weren't afraid of marijuana because one seed could land them in prison, but Stanley and Joe, two teen-agers, said they would not get caught.

"You two there is pretty slick and you'll be pretty luckynot to get exposed," another convict told them.

Since such awakening experiences must be limited to Saturdays, the Novato youths plan a broader program.

They hope to use their building as a drop-in center staffed by professionals and other young people. Luckin said 10 persons have already volunteered from the Novato area alone.

Since actual visits to the prison would be limited, the pair said they would hold round table discussions liberally sprinkled with ex-cons.

They would also try to establish a hotline to the prison for anyone who might need it. This will be their only access to the prison though, unless they can find transportation, too.

Luckin said a bus might be obtained from the county, but wasn't sure how.

Given the support of the SQUIRES, Luckin and Yorke now need a bus and a building to show the chilling reality of prison to youngsters who might otherwise soon be convicts.

What is that reality? "If you get here, you don't have no assurance you're getting out," one convict said.

"I'm in the same situation at 42 as I was at 17," another said.

Demo Alquist Charges Governor With 'Monstrous Welfare Fraud'

State Sen. Alfred E. Alquist, Democratic nominee for lieutenant governor, last night accused Gov. Ronald Reagan of "a monstrous welfare fraud" which he said could cost California taxpayers $1 billion.

The San Jose Democrat, speaking at a $100-a-plate dinner for him at the Windjammer in Tiburon, charged that Reagan had "blocked badly needed welfare reform," and was using the issue of welfare in campaign speeches to hide "an almost incredible bungling."

Alquist based his charge on the governor's appeal of a federal court order that the state raise its Aid to Families With Dependent Children to levels set by the federal government. The court warned that if the state failed to comply with the order, it may order the state to refund nearly $1 billion it has received for AFDC since July 1, 1969.

The senator asked how "can the governor flout the law and deride the courts, and then convince our young people they should obey the law and respect the courts?"

Alquist said that the governor "is like the driver who parks in a no-parking zone to save a nickel. He gets a ticket and ignores it. He gets a summons and ignores it. Finally, he gets a warrant and is fined $100. Then he gets mad as hell."

The fund-raising dinner was attended by about 115 persons, most of whom arrived from San Francisco on a chartered ferryboat. The theme of the event was "Al in the same boat."

Messages from other politicians who did not attend were read by Joseph C. Houghteling of San Francisco, Northern California chairman for Alquist's campaign to unseat Ed Reinecke. Among them was one from San Francisco Mayor Joseph L. Alioto, which Houghteling said he read "with some pride — since I wrote it."

Freitas Sees Marin Guilty Of Snobbishness In Zoning

Marin County is guilty of "snob zoning," providing primarily for the wealthy homeowner and ignoring the low and moderate income group, chairman Walter F Freitas of the Marin County Planning Commission declared yesterday.

Faced with a growing housing shortage, described in a 186-page housing report presented to the commission yesterday, Freitas declared that the county must reverse its thinking.

Even against strong neighborhood opposition, commissioners must on occasion vote for less expensive homes if they feel this is good for the community, said Freitas.

"We're guilty of snob zoning. People want to develop and there is immediate opposition to anything that is not equal to or better than what is already there. If the area has $35,000 homes, everybody wants adjacent land developed for $40,000 and $50,000 homes."

"So what can we do?" asked Freitas. "Seems to me we have to be less concerned with the indignation of particular homeowner associations that come in and protest that they are being threatened by a development a half a mile away that is not as good as they want."

Albert Solnit, chief of advance planning, asked the commissioners to draft some kind of policy statement, outlining how the county can meet the housing shortage, particularly for the low and moderate income families.

Freitas named Margaret B. Azevedo, Hugh Dougherty and Edward Hageman to a subcommittee to draw up a statement of policy on housing, with Mrs. Azevedo as chairman.

The subcommittee's proposed policy statement and the entire housing question will get a public hearing before the planning commission on Nov. 9.

The Marin County Planning Commission Also:

ALTO REZONING — Continued until Sept. 28 a request for motel zoning for a 40,000 square foot property on highway frontage road just north of Alto interchange. Donald R. Telford owns the parcel on the east side of Highway 101 at the corner of Thomas Drive and the frontage road. A majority of the commissioners said an apartment appears to be the most practical use of the parcel.

HOUSEBOATS — Plans for docks and berths for 225 houseboats on Donlan J. Arques property and 72 houseboats on George Kappas' property in Richardson Bay were put off without action until Sept. 28. Planning Director Werner von Gundell said both Arques and Kappas asked for a delay because their detailed plans were not ready for presentation.

BOLINAS MESA — Approved 4-0 for Ethel Steiner Montague a lot split of a 16,000-square-foot parcel on Juniper Road between Alder and Larch Roads on Bolinas Mesa on condition that before a home on either lot (one of them purchased by Scott Wilson of Bolinas) may be occupied, the owner must improve the road in front of his property.

HOMESTEAD — Denied 3-to-1 a request by Laura H. Mackin for a land division of 18,650 square feet at Melrose and Rydal avenues in Homestead Valley, only Freitas failing to agree with staff objection that the split would leave insufficient room for buildings and proper setbacks.

Girl To Get Jury Trial On Three Felony Counts

Rebecca Matthews, 21, of Forest Knolls, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin superior court to three felony counts of sex perversion and one of battery upon a police officer.

A jury trial was set for the week of Dec. 14.

Miss Matthews was arrested at Kent Lake Aug. 2 after she was reportedly engaging in sex acts in the nude with several men while a crowd of hippies and children watched, played guitars and joked.

She is also accused of cutting a deputy's mouth with a rock during a struggle.

Miss Matthews also faces a charge of possessing marijuana, allegedly found in her pocket Sept. 3 when a judge sent her to jail after a preliminary hearing. She is free on her own recognizance.

Stolen Ford

A 1968 white Ford owned by Patricia Slattery of 109 Tamalpais Avenue, San Anselmo, was stolen while parked at her residence sometime between 2:30 and 8:30 p.m. Friday, police reported yesterday. The auto carried license plates WZF 006.

Joblessness Among Youth Cries Out For Solutions

A 5.1 per cent national unemployment rate, highest in six years, got the headlines. But more significant in the Labor Department's report on the August employment situation was disclosure that joblessness in the "teenage work force" — from 16 to 21 years — had climbed to 15.9 per cent. This was up 2 per cent from July and the highest since April of 1965.

We do not know how the Labor Department arrives at the number of 16-to-21-year-olds who are in the job market. Many in this age bracket are not looking for jobs at all. Many others seek summer employment during school vacation, and we feel quite certain that more than one out of six of these failed to find it this year.

BUT WHETHER the percentage of those who have reached the legal "employable age" of 16 and are seeking jobs they cannot find is 13.9 per cent, 15.9 per cent, or something higher, the continued scarcity of work for this group among us is both significant and disquieting.

There has been some anguished comment about the situation. Mostly, the suggestions have run to massive federally financed job programs for the teen-agers. But this is no answer, except in the shortest of short-range views.

Several things contribute to the difficulty — sometimes almost impossibility — of finding jobs for those who have left school to enter the labor market.

FIRST, THEY ARE categorized. They're labeled "dropouts." This is a nasty word, a discriminatory word. The inference is that if the young person were any good, he would be in school. The fact is that he may be out of school and looking for work for any of several perfectly good reasons which have nothing to do with his character or ability.

SECOND, THEY ARE unprepared. Although one of the purposes of the public school system is supposed to be to prepare young people to support themselves, in fact very little such preparation is provided by elementary or high schools.

In the present technological ratrace, it is unrealistic to expect the high schools to teach students the technical skills needed for most jobs. But it is not unrealistic to expect them to turn out students who are good enough at English and mathematics to be able to read and understand directions and keep simple accounts, and disciplined enough to accept and respond to orders.

But employers complain constantly that they do not do so.

THIRD, THEY ARE UP against union discrimination.

Many of the jobs that these young people could perform are under union jurisdiction wherever they go. And the unions are not about to allow teenagers to have work that they are jealously guarding for their members.

FOURTH, THE LAW is against them.

Child labor laws are necessary. But the restrictions on employing those under the age of majority have become so great that employers shy away from hiring them to avoid trouble and possible legal difficulties.

The solutions — except, as we said before, in the shortest of short-range views — are not to be found in any massive federal job program. They must be provided by better education, not oriented to the idea that everyone is going to finish high school and go to college. They must be provided by curbs on union dictation of who can and cannot work. They must be provided by revision of child labor laws to make some sense. And they must be provided by respect for young people who want to work, instead of the disrespect shown in categorizing them as "dropouts."

Commitments To 'Free World' Come High For U.S. Taxpayers

WASHINGTON — Vice president Spiro Agnew is a man of many parts. He has been out on the hustings blasting the Democrats in his inimitable style and he has only recently come back from Asia where he went to give cheering words to America's partners — limited partners — in the Vietnam war.

In his stop at Seoul, Korea, the vice president found in Korea's President Chung Hee Park a very tough bargainer. The primary Agnew mission in Seoul was to reconcile Park to a cutback in the 53,000 American troops stationed in Korea nearly 20 years after the end of the Korean war.

Okay, said the Koreans in effect, but you will have to pay for it. The price was modernization of the Korean armed forces. What was to have been a polite exchange on one of the hopscotch stops on the Agnew schedule lasted through eight hours of tough talk.

Various price tags — one billion, two billion — for the modernization were leaked out. In any event, a large sum of money is involved if the United States means to remove about one-fifth of the force stationed in Korea and still keep the good will of President Park.

AGNEW MIGHT have been helped in his tough bargaining session if he had with him an advance copy of a report just released. It is another chapter in the record being written by Sen. Stuart Symington's foreign relations subcommittee on America's overseas commitments. Dredged out of the Pentagon and the Department of State through long and painstakingly prepared hearings, this chapter dealing with Korea reveals startling facts hitherto kept secret on what the Korean involvement in Vietnam has meant.

The cost to the United States from 1965 to 1970 for a Korean force of 47,872 was just under $1 billion. Of that amount $130 million went on allowances to Korean military personnel. Thanks to this generous supplement to the low-paid Korean military, they were able to send home savings of $27 million. Another perhaps as much as $75 million went for combat rations and PX supplies. As did the Thai troops under similar circumstances, the Korean military shipped home, at American expense, quantities of consumer goods out of the PXs.

A part of the price for committing the two Korean divisions was a commitment in American defense aid of $193 million that could be spent on "commercial consumables." This went for gasoline and other daily needs rather than for the long-term hardware to modernize the Korean military. That is one reason the price tag presented to Agnew for bringing the Korean military up to date was so big.

IN QUESTION is the gloss of "Free World" rhetoric sprayed over the participation of troops that were essentially mercenaries. They may not have fought, in the dictionary definition of mercenary, solely for pay. But they would never have gone to Vietnam if their government had not exacted a high price for their commitment.

"The fact of the matter is," Senator Symington said in the course of the hearings, "That the people of the United States were deceived as to the degree of the desire to participate in the South Vietnamese venture. President Nixon said on Nov. 3 that no nation will support a war unless they are given the truth about it, and we just didn't know what the facts were with respect to these transactions"

Why the arrangement to foot most of the bill for the Korean troops was kept secret disturbed the committee. A letter from Gen. Hamilton H. Howze, then U.S. Army commander in Korea, was read into the record setting out the agreement to pay allowances for Vietnam service and concluding, "The United States government attaches considerable importance to maintaining as confidential information the fact it is assuming these costs."

Having completed the Asian hearings, the Symington committee turns to Europe. Secret testimony has already shown the way in which the United States is made to pay for fundamental services, plus taxes, to sustain forces in Europe dedicated to the common security of the West.

City Sprays Trees Without DDT

When I wrote to you last week concerning the tree spraying program in San Rafael I evidently didn't make myself understood.

Anyone who wants his street trees sprayed should call the public works department and give his permission. They will be more than happy to spray the trees, without using DDT, as long as they have the consent of the caller.

The mosquito abatement district has the same policy — just call and they'll come right out.

Did Not Suggest Anniversary Gift

I wanted to advise you of several errors in the article covering the horse matter in the Sept. 9 issue . . .

I did not suggest to the city council that the approval of our permit be an "anniversary present" from the council, but did suggest that "this was an important evening to us because, (1) I was hoping to get justice and (2) it happened to be our 13th wedding anniversary."

The petition did not represent the "general" neighborhood, but the specific neighborhood.

Most important is the fact that you stated I was convicted of maintaining a nuisance, but in fact, the conviction was maintaining animals without a permit; the nuisance charge was dropped by the city as it could not be proven.

(A map displayed by Wachsman at the city council meeting was marked with the locations of homes of the signers of his petition. It covered several streets, hence the reference to general neighborhood. — Editor.)

Better To Pay Than Take Chance

Your editorial of Sept. 10, appears to be a terribly irrational approach to the recent Palestinian hijackings.

You apparently seriously disapprove of paying ransom to kidnapers. But could you really be so cold-blooded if your own child were kidnaped?

As for the Hall of Justice fiasco, Judge (Harold J.) Haley could very well be alive today if the order of Sheriff (Louis P.) Mountanos to leave the vehicle go through had been heads.

I could possibly accept your plan to give King Hussein an ultimatum, however, if you and the other trigger-happy people who are so willing to heartlessly risk the lives of others would offer and be accepted as substitute hostages. Then when your plan failed and your carcass with plane parts went sailing into the blue, I could say with a clear conscience: "Good riddance to bad rubbish."

Protect Officers Who Protect Us

I would like to voice my opinion on the last supervisors' meeting, regarding the sheriff's department.

I think it's too bad Mr. (John F.) McInnis, Mr. (Michael) Wornum and Mr. (Peter) Arrigoni saw fit to vote against having two-man patrols.

Do we have to wait until some of our deputies are injured or possibly killed, to afford to have the money for adequate protection?

They may sometimes have to lay their lives on the line for our protection. The least we could do is see that their job is made somewhat safer.

I wonder if the cities would object paying for the sheriff's help for backup, if an emergency arose in their cities.

I think our county has about as much problem with dope and undesirable people as anywhere. Those who have no respect for law and order.

I wonder if they would like it if they found themselves needing the protection of the police and not getting it?

Are we going to use our money to aid and abet these people who have no respect for authority, nor in some cases self-respect? Or are we going to use it to back our law enforcement, for their safety and well being?

I respect Mr. (Louis P.) Mountanos highly for trying to get for his men the things he sees they have need of.

LOUISE TRUMBLY
Fairfax.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

State Seeks To Crack Down On Promoters – In Mexico

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Some pertinent legal questions may be answered as a result of a $25.7 million lawsuit filed by several state officials against the developers of a subdivision in Baja California.

The suit was filed by Burton E. Smith, state real estate commissioner; Thomas H. Lynch, attorney general, and Anthony Pierno, state corporation commissioner. It seeks recovery of funds invested by California residents in property located in a foreign country.

The state real estate commissioner has all the authority he needs to regulate the sale of subdivided lots in California, but the question is how far this authority extends when applied to a jurisdiction outside of California.

CAN THE STATE real estate commissioner regulate advertising for a subdivision that's out of the country, even if such regulation might be for the beneficial interest of the purchaser? If he can so regulate, then he is behind the times, for there will long be the memory of lots sold in Florida that turned out to be lots all right, but just a few feet under water.

Probably there are no greater gyp artists in business than the hard-sell land developers, even those who definietly are regulated by California law and comply with the requirements of California statutes as supposedly enforced by the real estate commissioner. Unfortunately, either the law does not go far enough or it is not enforced to the extent it should be.

There have been instances of lot sales even around a choice area like Lake Tahoe, where property has been held for a decade in the hopes of plausible increases in valuation. About the only increase available has been the increase in county taxes and assessments for sewage disposal.

OF COURSE, this has nothing to do with the subdividers, except the legal glowing accounts of potentials and the unkept promises of what the subdividers intended to do, but never did, for the buying public.

There ma be some subdivisions that live up to their promises, but they seem to be few and far between. So if the real estate commissioner, the corporations commissioner, and the attorney general get a court ruling that the state can regulate out-of-state and out-of-country subdivision sales in California, it may be helpful for future dealing in land purchases.

On the other hand, such regulation may be wholly out of line with the activities in other states and foreign countries, where regulations may be tougher than in California, or not so tough.

New Road To Peace: Everybody Play Soldier

Reprinted from Washington Evening Star

In Dewsbury, England, Mrs. June Grace, out of pure uxorial thoughtfulness, has suddenly opened the most promising road to peace since the defeat of Napoleon at Waterloo.

By way of fulfilling an oft-expressed wish of her husband's, Mrs. Grace, for his 30th birthday, arranged through the Ministry of Defense for him to run the obstacle course at a nearby British army post. Gerald Grace, a coal miner by profession, jogged through a running track covered with mud, hurdled fences and scaled walls, crawled on his belly under barbed wire and swung through the air on a rope.

"Just what I've always wanted," said Gerald, much renewed as he headed back to the pits and the wrong side of 30.

The prospect for peace is obvious. According to one entire school of war-peace analysts, neither we nor the Russians nor anyone else except the Liechtensteiners can afford to have peace break out because of the immense investment we have in the instruments and processes of war.

Mrs. Grace has found the answer. The obstacle course can be opened to the public for a fee. Likewise the rifle range, the artillery field and the tank course. We all begin our childhood playing soldier and the only reason we stop is that the scale becomes ridiculous. Given the nice profit, w'ed go on at a nice profit to the Defense Department, or Entertainment Center, as it could be renamed.

For the man who has everything, the Grace system of redemption could offer a day at the Pentagon as a joint chief. Those maps, those choppers, those thousands posted at your bidding over land and sea. Best thing for megalomania since Cecil B. DeMille.

WINDOW ON THE WORLD

By ALBERTO J. SCHAZIN

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI)— Triumph of a Marxist presidential candidate in Chile has led the chiefs of staff of Latin American armies to their greatest reevaluation of foreign policy since Fidel Castro came to power in Cuba in 1959.

Military sources in Rio de Janeiro told United Press International that installation of a Marxist government by Salvador Allende in Chili, who was backed by the Communist party, would be considered a greater threat to continental security than Cuba.

"Cuba, at least, was an island that could be isolated," remarked one South American military officer based in Rio de Janeiro.

ARGENTINA and Brazil are the most important countries affected by the Chilean elections. These are the two largest countries in South America, both in population and territory. Both have conservative military governments which reject leftism as a way out for their nations' problems. Both are plagued by underground, terrorist movements, whose members would probably find easy refuge in Allende's Chile.

Particulary bothersome to Argentina is its 2,000 mile frontier with Chile. Military observers expect Argentine to tighten border controls to prevent infiltration across the Andes.

Brazilian military officers are also upset. They view the leftward trend of the military governments in Peru and Bolivia, on Brazil's border, with distrust. They are also worried about the instability in Uruguay, whose civilian government is hard-pressed to control the Tupamaro terrorists.

MANY MILITARY officers in Argentina and Brazil would welcome a coupe d'etat in Chili to prevent Allende from taking power, but they see little possibility of this happening now. Army officers here expect the Chilean armed forces to maintain their traditional policy of non-intervention for the time being. There has not been a coup d'etat in Chile since 1932, a rare record for Latin America.

Military sources here also rule out any immediate joint Argentina-Brazilian armed intervention in Chile. "We'll just have to wait and see what happens," one officer commented.

Said one officer, "We can expect Russian fleets to anchor off Valparaiso like they do now off Havana. It's likely that Chile will be come a ground for confrontation between China on the one side and Russia on the other."

LATIN AMERICAN generals would like to see more favorable treatment by Washington of military governments. They point out the U.S. last year gave Chile $122 million in foreign aid—more than any other Latin American country.

"I remember when the United States refused to sell tanks to Argentina shortly after General Juan Carlos Ongania was put into power by a coup," recalled one Latin American officer. "But the U.S. did sell a battallion of the tanks to Chile. They will now probably be used to occupy the property of the Anaconda copper company."

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

As if Wall Street brokers weren't having enough troubles these days, one of them was called at the busiest hour of the day last week by his dear old mother who demanded, "I want you to tell me immediately, Arthur, what I'm suppose to do with my American Telephone dentures."

After three rounds of humiliating back-pedalling and absorbing haymakers, a miserable preliminary fighter sat gasping for air and resignedly waiting for the bell to signal round four. "Ya doin' good, kid," his manager sought to encourage him. "The bum ya fightin' ain't really laid a glove on ya yet," "That so?" mumbled the fighter, spitting out a couple of teeth. "Then keep an eye on the referee, because somebody is beatin' the bejabbers outa me!"

ART BUCHWALD

How The Fuehrer Lost The War And The Miniskirt Triumphed

WASHINGTON — It was the end of the 1970 fall fashion season, and the news on all fronts was bad. The furhrer, deep down in his bunker underneath the Seventh Avenue Subway, was reading reports from all parts of the country in rage and frustration.

"Mein fuehrer," one of his aides told him, "Seventh Avenue is in ruins. The midi-length skirt has bombed. All is lost. We must surrender."

"Don't tell me we have lost the war," the fuehrer screamed. "We will counterattack. We will punish all those who refuse to wear the midi-skirt!"

Another aide came in. "Good news, mein fuehrer," he said. "Bonwit Teller reports it has just sold two midis today."

The fuehrer started to dance a jig. "You see, swine. It is selling! The midi is selling! Today, Bonwit Teller . . . tomorrow the world."

THE FUEHRER went over to his map and stuck two pins in it. "That makes 234 midi-skirts sold this year. I told you the women would go for it."

Another aide came in with a telegram. "Mein fuehrer, Saks Fifth Avenue has surrendered to the mini forces. So have Macy's, Gimbels and Bloomingdales. We cannot hold out much longer. Perhaps we should issue a communique saying that it makes no difference what length a woman's skirt is this year as long as she's happy."

"Never! Never!" screamed the fuehrer, kicking over chairs and tables. "I decreed that women would wear midis and they will wear midis, whether they like them or not."

The aides looked at each other in hopelessness. The fuehrer's mistress, who was playing solitare, looked up from her game, "Perhaps it may be better, liebchen, to give in."

The fuehrer looker at his mistress and screamed: "Yes, and if I surrender I will be tried as a war criminal and they will hang me. They will say I brought ruin to all of them. The answer is, 'No.' My plan to bring order to the fashion world will triumph. If they do not listen to me, there will be anarchy in the land. What word from Sears, Roebuck?"

AN AIDE came in with the new Sears, Roebuck catalogue.

"They've replaced the midi with pantsuits," the aide said.

"Traitors! They will pay for this," the fuehrer yelled as he started tearing the catalogue to bits. "I made Sears, Roebuck and I will destroy them."

The telephone rang and an aide grabbed it. "Yes, yes. Good, good." Then he turned to the fuehrer. "It's Orbach's. They have a customer in the store and she's looking at midis."

The fuehrer started to dance another jig. "The tide is turning," he cried.

"What's that?" the aide said. "Oh." He hung up the phone. "Her husband came in and dragged her out of the store."

The teleprinter rang.

An aide went over to the machine. "I. Magnin's, Marshall Field, Lord & Taylor, and J. C. Penney have collapsed. They're all holding fire sales on the midi."

The fuehrer sank down in his chair. "That does it. No more Mr. Nice Guy."

The fuehrer's mistress took a bottle of cyanide capsules out of the drawer and placed one in each cupcake. Then she called over the dog and gave him a cupcake. He ate it eagerly and rolled over dead.

She poured out two cups of coffee. She handed the fuehrer a cupcake. He looked at her and said, "Liebchen, you believed in the midi, didn't you?"

Quadruple Ship Passage Requests

PARIS (UPI) — Reservation requests for passage on the Queen Elizabeth II and the liner France have more than quadrupled after recent airline hijackings to the Middle East, the General Trans-Atlantic Co. reports.

A company spokesman said Monday the France, which has 2,044 berths on its transAtlantic sailings, would start its next crossing from France to New York starting Friday and probably would be able to cope with the increased demand in the current off-season.

The Queen Elizabeth II sailed from Le Havre Friday with many last-minute passengers, the spokesman said.

Fort Point Bill Passes House

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House has passed a bill to establish the Fort Point National Historic Site in San Francisco.

The bill, passed by a voice vote and sent to the Senate, would authorize spending $5.25 million for developing the site.

Peking Hits Kremlin On Bonn Pact

LONDON (UPI) — Peking, rekindling its feud with the Kremlin, has accused the Soviet Union of treachery because of its recent nonaggression pact with West Germany.

The Mao regime evidently has taken time to study the agreement before launching its broadside against the Soviets, whom they officially charged with "social imperialism" and "collusion" with the United States.

Behind the move lies Peking's oppoistion to Kremlin policy on principle. But there is a special fear that by consolidating the front in Europe, the Soviets are strengthening their posture in the Far East against China.

The Institute for Strategic Studies in London earlier this month reported the Soviet Union has shifted nine divisions to the Far Eastern front in the past twelve months alone and doubled her strength there in the past two years to 30 divisions.

The Soviets have moved troops and missiles into Mongolia, close to China's precious nuclear weapons installation.

Peking can have hardly overlooked these moves.

In addition to attacking Russia for her accord with West Germany, Peking has also accused Moscow of collusion with the United States in alleged appeasement tactics in the Middle East.

Judge Denies Motion In I-J Rioting Case

I-J Special Report

FAIRFIELD — A judge in Solano County Superior Court yesterday denied motions to dismiss indictments and suppress evidence in the case of seven men arrested during the Valentine's Day riot outside the Independent-Journal building in San Rafael.

Visiting Judge S. C. Masterson of Contra Costa County ordered the men to stand trial on Oct. 20, refusing the request of defense attorney Robert D. Carrow to be allowed more time to appeal the denials and to bring more lawyers into the case.

Judge Masterson also denied a motion that the defendants' cases be tried individually.

He ruled that the indictments should not be dismissed on the grounds that the men had been indicted by the grand jury after preliminary proceedings had begun in municipal court. He also said there was no legal reason that evidence should be suppressed in the case of three of the men.

A pre-trial conference in the case was set for Oct. 5, although both Carrow and Deputy Dist. Atty. Joshua W. Thomas said there was no possibility of settling the case without going to trial.

The seven defendants are John Joseph De Martini, 44, of Mill Valley; Nimmes Harrison Shelton, 40, Charles Porter Vance, 29, Alvis Dean Bailey, 43, and James Starkey Brooke, 35, all of San Francisco; Joe Earl Reese, 31, of Hayward, and Terry Warner Lansing, 20, of Berkeley.

They are charged with offenses including felony assault upon officers, possessing unlawful weapons and various misdemeanor counts. They were arrested during a riotous demonstration Feb. 14 in support of San Francisco Typographical Union 21, which has been on strike against the I-J since Jan. 7.

Their case was transferred to Solano County after Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court granted a defesne motion by defense attorneys for a change of venue.

They claimed the defendants could not receive a fair trial in Marin because of publicity in the I-J.

Suspect Nabbed On Grand Theft

The assistant manager of a Petaluma grocery store, arrested Sunday on suspicion of grand theft, has been ordered to appear in Sounthern Sonoma Municipal Court Sept. 28.

Alvin Lester Finch, 34, of 48 Cordelia Drive, Petaluma, was booked at Petaluma City Jail Sunday on a citizens arrest by James O. Gaultney, owner of Hagstrom's Market at 200 Douglas Street, who told police that Finch had taken about $1,380 from the store's cash register during the past 56 weeks.

Finch was freed on his own recognizance by Judge Alexander J. McMahon of Southern Sonoma Municipal Court.

High Court Backs Chevez In Picketing

SALINAS, Calif. (UPI)— Monterey County is prohibited by the State Supreme Court from enforcing temporary restraining orders against picketing by Cesar Chavez's striking farm workers union.

The high court in San Francisco issued the ruling Monday and set Oct. 7 for hearing arguments on whether to make it permanent.

Affected is an Aug. 25 order by Judge Stanley Larson in Monterey County Superior Court which forbade the striking AFL-CIO United Farm Workers Organizing Committee from "striking, slowing down or pickeing."

Chavez has openly defied the order by personal picketing. However, he has not been arrested.

As the Supreme Court was acting, a superior court judge in Salinas was issuing preliminary injunction against picketing of two Salinas Valley growers who had long-standing contracts with the Teamsters Union.

Judge Anthony Brazil issued the injunctions in behalf of Bud Antle, Inc., and Mapes Farms, both of whom have had Teamster pacts since the early 1960s.

Judge Brazil's preliminary injunctions were the first issued in the jurisdictional dispute between Chavez' union and the Teamsters. Temporary retraining orders were issued previously without hearing arguments from each side.

In dispute is whether the UFWOC or the Teamsters shall represent field hands in this valley which produces most of the nation's lettuce as well as other vegetables and strawberries.

Police arrested six pickets opposed to Chavez as they attempted to halt trucks operated by Inter Harvest, Inc., the valley's largest lettuce grower and the only one to have switched from the Teamsters to the UFWOC.

Chavez is negotiating with 13 other growers and has permitted his members to work those farms.

(Recession Proof)

We're proud to talk about our business. It's fascinating. Dynamic. Appeals to the small investor. No experience necessary. With very little money he or she can achieve financial satisfaction — quickly or moderately. It's yours to decide.

Ours is a vending machine program. The best. We sell you Ussery machines, establish route locations. Provide finest line of snack items. We train, counsel, guide, hold your hand until you're firmly entrenched. No experience necessary. Just honesty, integrity, willingness to listen, work and give good service.

You need a car and at least $600 to $1500 for minimum investment strictly for equipment and inventory. No fee or extra of any kind required. Be ambitious and willing to expand.

Vending is a vigorous 4-billion plus recession proof business. Cash sales. No credit risks. Equipment works for you day and night—even while you sleep. Quick turnover. Original investment can be returned in short time.

Requires only 6 to 8 hours per week of serious attention. Like getting retirement pay, annuity or pension — only better!

If you're serious, sincere, let's talk. Letter preferred, giving name, address, phone number, and sufficient references to verify.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Younger Generation Damaging Ears With Today's Pop Music

Van Dellen

If rock 'n' roll recordings were medications they might never pass our FDA because the racket causes deafness. Dr. Frederick L. Dey of New London, Conn., tested sound pressure levels in a local discotheque and found the octave band frequencies most damaging to hearing. A typical reading of 110 decibels was obtained at a distance of 30 feet from the loudspeaker.

Noise is measured in decibels. In general, 35 is acceptable in court and classrooms, 55 in restaurants and 60 in a sports arena. At 80 decibels it is difficult to hear a telephone conversation if the room is noisy. Ninety can be tolerated for only a short time and 100 causes severe physical discomfort. At take-off, jets create 130 decibels and a mile from the runway 100 decibels.

ADMITTEDLY, 110 decibels in the discotheque is a lot of noise. At this level, exposue lasting an hour or two can be expected to cause some loss of hearing. At first, the impairment is temporary and due to fatigue of the hearing apparatus. But prolonegd exposure results in deafness (acoustic trauma). Furthermore, there is ample proof that pop music is damaging the hearing of the present younger generation.

In industry, prolonged exposure to noise (greater than 85 decibels) is hazardous, even though susceptibility to noise damage varies with the individual. Ringing of the ears (tinnitus) may be an early indication of damage, but regular auditory testing is the only certain way of detecting the condition.

WITH AGE, hearing becomes less acute, and if the individual has worked in a fairly noisy environment for many years, he is likely to blame noise for the deficit. Audiometer tests usually distinguish between the two possibilities because different sound levels are involved.

City dwellers find noise pollution almost as disagreeable as air pollution. There is a good possibility that daily exposure has some harmful effect upon hearing.

PAINFUL ARM

O.D. writes: My doctor said that the pain in my right arm is coming from a vertebra in my neck. Would an operation relieve this condition?

REPLY

Yes, provided tests have demonstrated pressure upon the nerve as it comes out of the vertebra. This is particularly true if a disk is protruding and pressing upon the nerve. You ought to consult a neurosurgeon or an orthopedic specialist.

SPASTIC COLON

REPLY

Abdominal pain develops because of cramping or spasm of the intestine. Nervousness is the most common cause and the condition is most prevalent during periods of stress and strain.

Panel To Hear $120 Million Bay Fill Plan

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A precedent-setting development proposed for San Francisco's waterfront will be heard by the Bay Conservation and Development Commission at 2 p.m. on Thursday in Room 1194 of the State Building, 455 Golden Gate Avenue.

The $120 million proposal for a hotel, offices and stores on 18.4 acres of fill and pilings has aroused the biggest storm of controversy in the commission's five-year history.

Linked to the development is a staff proposal to allow bay use for any purpose if an equivalent area of fill or pilings is restored to open bay. The development would replace 13.9 acres of existing piers.

The commission's present policy is to limit bay uses to water-oriented projects.

BACKWARDS CRASH INJURES DRIVER

The demolished auto driven by Willis Clark Jr., 42, of 215 Bayview Street, San Rafael, rests in the doorway of the Boy Scout headquarters on A street after a noon-hour crash. Clark's auto struck three parked vehicles yesterday on Second Street and then backed into a fourth, moving car before slamming into the building. San Rafael police said Clark, eastbound in the right lane on Second, may have had a seizure before driving his car into unoccupied vehicles parked on the south side of Second street and owned by Jack Underwood, 823 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Kentfield, and James E. Ruzicka, 36 Bell Avenue, Fairfax. The car then going into reverse grazed an auto driven by Virginia Martha Huerto-Rojo, 35, of 28 Monterey Street, San Anselmo, and backed at more than 25 miles per hour into the building around the corner of A Street. Clark was reported in satisfactory condition today by Kaiser Hospital in San Francisco, with multiple injuries, including a possible broken neck.

Creek Debris Problems In Fairfax

The Fairfax City Council last night waded through problems of debris-clogged streams in what one councilman called an "hour-long bull session."

The discussion, which centered on San Anselmo and Cascade creeks, ended only after Councilman Francis J. O'Connell moved it be continued to Sept. 25 because, as he said later, "we would have been here all night."

The discussion was spurred by a meeting between councilmen and residents last week over the operation of a bulldozer in the Arroyo Road channel.

DOING HARM

Claiming the bulldozer was doing more harm than good, residents convinced the council to cease operation until a policy of creek clearing could be maintained.

The discussion swirled from residents who fear debris-clogged creeks will continue to erode their property when winter rains begin, to residents questioning the city's policy on the construction of creekside bulkheads to halt erosion.

City Engineer Ben C. Albritton told the council much of the creek problem has been caused by haphazard clearing of channel beds.

"You can't haphazardly put a cat (bulldozer) into a channel and say that what is being moved will have a good or bad effect," he said. "You're upsetting the balance of nature by tampering with the velocity of the water and with the rate of (bank) erosion."

STUDIES NEEDED

Albritton said the only way to insure proper creek flow is through extensive studies. "Right now there is no satisfactory answer," he said.

"You take the trees and stumps out and you increase the velocity of the water which causes erosion. You don't take the trees out and you have (debris) blockage which backs up the water and creates flooding," he explained.

Sidney W. Foote of 50 Creek Road noted the erosion and questioned the city's policy of permitting only concrete bulkheads.

"I don't see why redwood retaining walls shouldn't be allowed," responded Mayor Frank J. Egger.

STATE DEBRIS

Related questions came from Charles Bagley of 334 Bolinas Road who sought city support in ending erosion to his property by Cascade Creek.

Magley, who lives adjacent to a piece of property owned by the state, said debris from the state property and the backing up of a culvert on Cascade Drive were primarily responsible for the loss of his retaining wall.

The city disavowed ownership of the culvert, which runs across the state property, except for that portion under Cascade Road.

"This is not getting us anywhere," said Councilman O'Connell, who labeled the discussion a "bullsession." He moved that the discussion be continued. A special meeting was set for Sept. 25.

Holding Pond Urged For Flooding Relief

A Santa Rosa consulting engineer told the Belvedere City Council last night that the city can expect relief from flooding this winter if certain measures are taken before rains begin.

Specifically, the engineer, Milton Hudis, said that work should be started soon on a holding pond behind the Safeway market on Tiburon Boulevard.

He recommended enlargement of the pond, owned by the Tiburon Peninsula Club, and conveyance of its waters across the Northwestern Pacific Railroad right-of-way to an existing ditch and culvert and thence to Raccoon Strait.

"This is the most urgent work facing us, and it would be a very effective measure against flooding," said Hudis. He told Mayor Edwin J. Drechsel that a gravity system to convey the water would be best, because such a system would not require extensive pumps.

Although he emphasized that work on the pond would be an interim measure, Hudis said it would reduce flooding "for one or two years" until more permanent improvements could be made.

The recommendation coincided with one made by tre Tiburon-Belvedere Joint Drainage Study Committee, a group that earlier in the year pointed to the holding pond as the key to proving temporary flood relief.

Other projects, which Hudis said were more long-term in nature, included building a system of pipes in the Reed and Belvedere basins and the planting of grass in the Reed basin and on Red Hill to prevent silt runoff.

Hudis was hired with matching $2.500 appropriations by Tiburon and Belvedere to study drainage problems in the two cities and come up with interim and long-range solutions. His report to the council last night was based on his first two weeks of studying the problem and a more thorough report will be delivered later.

Drechsel expressed hope that Belvedere and Tiburon may be able to save money on the projects suggested by Hudis by using city crews to perform the work.

Fairfax Gets Cable TV Contract

The Fairfax City council last night succeeded in negotiating a new contract with Clear View Cable Systems for cable television service to city residents.

After about a year of sparing over a new contract, the two agreed last night that the city should recieve a 5 per cent service fee from the company, which will begin collecting $5.50 per month from subscribers beginning in January. The city now collects 2 per cent.

Subscribers who originally contracted with the company for $4.50 per month by placing a $50 deposit will not be affected by the new contract as long as continuous service is maintained.

Subscribers who are now paying $5.50 and $6.50 per month will pay $5.50 monthly in 1971, $5.75 in 1972 and $6 in 1973. The life of the contract will be 20 years.

By a 3-2 vote, Robert R. Souza and Lee Nelder dissenting, the council ordered drafting of an ordinance.

The city had struggled for its 5 per cent and a monthly service charge to customers of $5. The council had argued this would be comparable to San Anselmo and other Marin cities.

The company countered that at such a rate it would mean a loss of about $11,000 per year or about 70 cents a customer per month.

In accepting the city's offer, Clear View attorney Joseph Sheeks said "losing 20 cents (per customer) is better than losing 70 cents" the first year.

Subsequent annual increases through 1973 are expected to recoup those losses.

The Fairfax City Council also:

BIDS — Postponed awarding a contract for construction of the Arroyo Road Retaining wall when only one bid was received from O. C. Jones and Sons of Berkeley for $13,500, about $5,500 above the city engineer's estimate.

CANYON ROAD — Approved unanimously acceptance of Canyon Road for city maintenance after residents paid to bring it up to city standards.

STREET REPAIRS — Tabled a request from San Anselmo that the two cities split the cost of repairing about 800 feet of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard which borders Fairfax city limits.

CONSTRUCTION — Approved sending to bid street repairs on Crest Road. Bids to be opened Oct. 13.

DRAINAGE — Approved the construction of a $400 culvert along Meernaa Avenue by city personnel.

SITE DEVELOPMENT — Approved the use of the city personnel to prepare White Hill School recreational area for installation of an irrigation system.

Greyhound's Cutback Pleas Criticized

New cutbacks in bus service in Southern and Central Marin — sought by Greyhound Lines West in an application pending before the California Public Utilities Commission — drew unanimous opposition today from Marin County Transit District directors.

The cutbacks, which Greyhound said would reduce the amount it soon will seek in a separate application for new fare hikes, could mean 90-minute delays between connecting midday, weekday buses, according to the district's acting manager, James Robertson.

"FIRST GAMBIT"

Marin County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney said that the cutbacks probably were "a first gambit in Greyhound's long-expressed desire to withdraw from commuter service in Marin."

The seven-member board agreed with his prognosis, and voted to send him to protest the application when it is heard by the PUC at 10 a .m. on Oct. 1 in the commission courtroom, 350 McAllister Street, San Francisco.

Chairman John F. McInnis added that the pplication underscored the need for the Golden Gate Bridge District to move fast to set up its commuter bus system. The district got permission from San Francisco to run the system downtown last week, after a year's delay.

McINNIS WARNING

The cutbacks, Robertson explained, will increase from 30 to 45 minutes the interval between buses on three routes, thus connecting routes no longer will overlap. The affected routes are the C, which operates through Sausalito to Marin City and north to Fairfax and San Anselmo via Corte Madera and Larkspur, the D, which follows the same route except that it bypasses Sausalito using Highway 101, and the G, a shuttle between Fairfax and San Rafael.

Most service in the county is on 30-minute or one-hour intervals, Robertson said, thus a 45-minute schedule "would cause a discontinuity of many trips from routes by persons wishing to transfer."

Marin Transit System Wins Another Subsidy

Marin Transit Systems today won another month's subsidy of $4,000 from the Marin County Transit District to keep it going until it contracts with the Golden Gate Bridge District for Marin service.

The transit directors also got a request for a subsidy to a separate bus company connecting San Rafael with San Quentin Prison and Richmond.

Cecil J. Allen, owner of the San Rafael Bus Line, said he no longer could operate "without some assistance." His letter to the board did not state how much assistance he wanted, but he told the Independent-Journal that he needed $750 to $1,000 a month.

Marin Transit Systems, a Marin City-based company, has received $30,000 in subsidies from the transit district through today. The transit district also has promised to provide the company with a $51,000 subsidy for six months after it contracts with the bridge district to expand its service to Novato.

The company has been operating a feeder service to the Tiburon ferry since last November.

Tiburon Councilman Denis T. Rice, a member of the transit board, attempted unsuccessfully to increase the subsidy to $6,000, but lost in a 3-4 vote. Voting with Rice were San Anselmo Councilman Kenneth L. Anderson and Supervisor Michael Wornum.

The company's attorney, Albert Bianchi, pointed out that his client originally had asked for almost $8,000 a month. The $4,000 subsidy, he said, was "a bare minimum" that still will leave the company with an operating loss.

The general manager of the bridge district, Dale W. Luehring, said he hoped that a contract between the bridge district and the company can be ironed out within a month. Under the contract, the bridge district will hire the company to serve the Tiburon and North Marin routes, with the county transit district continuing to subsidize the operations for intracounty service.

Intercounty service, such as to bus passengers also using the Tiburon ferry, would be subsidized by the bridge district.

In other business, the directors referred to staff for study a request from a woman in the audience that local newspapers publish bus schedules regularly, "just like the winds and tides." McInnis commented that the bus schedules "are changeable — like the winds and tides."

J.B. Rice Named To Span Post

J. Brooks Rice of Alameda, a retired Greyhound Lines vice president, has been hired by the Golden Gate Bridge district to fill its new $18,000-a-year position of transportation maintenance manager.

Rice, 62, formerly was in charge of maintenance of all Greyhound equipment west of Chicago.

The district's transit manager, H. Donald White, who announced the hiring, said Rice had invaluable experience in setting up a bus system since he was the first maintenance manager of the Alameda-Contra Costa Transit District.

White and Rice thus will have the same roles as the bridge district sets up its $7.7-million, 132 commuter bus system. White was the assistant general manager of the East Bay district.

Rice, who already has been advising the bridge district on its bus plans, will start work on Oct. 1.

Rice worked for Greyhound from 1931 to 1960, rising to assistant maintenance manager for Greyhound's western operations. He joined A-C transit in 1960, and worked there until he was hired bacq by Greyhound in 1964 as a vice president. He retired last year.

A public hearing on the dismissal of Gabe Jackson, community worker for the Sausalito School District, was postponed last night by the Sausalito School board when Jackson failed to attend the meeting and asked for a continuance.

Greg Dunn, field representative for the California State Employees Association, told the board Jackson did not feel he could appear "because he has received several telephone calls suggesting in rather strong language" that he not attend the meeting.

Trustees voted to continue the hearing until Sept. 28 at 7:30 p.m., 8 Bayside School. At that time trustees will hear testimony on the charges they have formulated against the community worker.

A request from Dunn that an impartial hearing officer be hired to conduct the hearing was turned down by the board. The CSEA representative said he feld the use of such an officer was "critical."

I don't see how you could judge the merits of any testimony given at the hearing without reflecting on prior testimony you have heard," he told the board. On Aug. 24, the board met in closed session for two hours to hear testimony from interim Supt. Robert G. Spain and Jackson about the incident.

"Someone who is not involved could approach the situation in complete neutrality," Dunn continued. Board chairman Nathaniel Johnson, who voted against proceeding with Jackson's dismissal, said the trustees' initial decision to go ahead with the firing "is an indication that the board has already made up its mind."

Trustee Jerry L. Whitcomb disagreed. "I absolutely do not have any pre-conceived ideas. For me, everything was chopped off at that point, after that meeting."

Whitcomb added Jackson will not be in the position of "disproving anything at the hearing; instead, it will be up to the administration to convince us it is necessary to fire Mr. Jackson."

Trustee Delta Christ said she felt some changes in board policy for dismissals may be necessary. "I feel we should give the superintendent the power to dismiss (an employee)," she said, "and then the board could hear the charges and make the final decision."

At present, the board, on the recommendation of the superintendent, must vote to go ahead with dismissal proceedings and also draw up a list of charges against the employee in question.

The Sausalito School District Board Also:

RESIGNATIONS — Accepted the resignations of Thomas Bonynge, a teacher, who has accepted a position with San Francisco State College, and Peggy Williams, an educational aide; Myrna Hill and Victoria Meade, both school secretaries. All three resigned for personal reasons.

LEAVES OF ABSENCE — Granted a one-month leave of absence without pay to teacher Mary Davis, and a six weeks' leave of absence without pay to Jeanne White, an education aide.

TITLE 1 AIDES — Agreed to pay for tuition and books needed at the College of Marin for eight title one educational aides, since federal funds for that part of the program have been withdrawn.

TRANSFER POLICY — Adopted additions to the district's interdistrict transfer policy which deal with expenses of education. The board agreed that if a child transfers out of Sausalito, the district will pay the cost of educating a child in the district the transfer student plans to attend, minus state and federal monies. If a child comes into the district where the student resides to pay that district's current cost of education, less state and federal funds.

TRANSFERS Accepted four children, Lisa Pardee, David Padgett and Lee and Scott Kresy, as transfers into the district. Denied transfers out of the district for Launa Gaines, Robert Howe and Cassandra Politzer and granted transfer requests for Peter Zimmerman and Connie Bradley who plan to attend Reed and Mill Valley districts.

MEETING — Set a special meeting to hear a report from the director of the outdoor education school in San Mateo County for tomorrow at 4 p.m. in Bayside School. The board tabled action on a recommendation from Spain to allow 100 fifth and sixth grade students to participate in the one-week camp program which begins Sept. 28 after Royce McLemore, a Marin City parent, said youngsters who attended the program in 1968 were "very badly treated" and called names by some of the camp counselors. Mrs. McLemore said a group of parents had called for an investigation of the program at that time and asked the board to look into the matter before sending any more youngsters.

ENROLLMENT — Heard a report from the superintendent that enrollment in the district is 501 students.

Novato Land Use Change Abandoned

The Novato Planning Commission last night abandoned an attempt to change land use of property at the northeast corner of San Marin and San Andreas drives from service station to other uses.

Novato Sanitary Board Sets $5.5 Million Bond Election

The Novato Sanitary District board last night adopted a resolution calling for a $5.5 million special bond election Dec. 8 to finance a sewage works improvement project.

The Novato Sanitary District Board Also:

RELOCATION — Authorized payment of $3,200 for completed relocation of lines on Hamilton Air Force Base to allow construction of a new base exchange.

Trio Of Firms Hired To Plan Tam Projects

The Tamalpais High School District board last night approved hiring three San Francisco architectural firms to plan district projects totalling about $860,000.

According to Edward J. Neumeier, administrative assistant, the three firms were recommended by an architictural selection committee which spent about two years interviewing firms for the district.

Neumeier said the firms hired last night were Wurster, Bernardi and Emmons to design a $231,000 multipurpose-lecture room at Sir Francis Drake High School; Bushnell, Jessup, Murphy and Vandeweghe to plan a $357,500 student center at Tamalpais High School, and Richard C. Marshall and Chester Bowles for $277,000 remodeling at Redwood High School.

Mudcat Traded In Mystery Move

The only consistent performer on the Oakland pitching staff, Grant compiled an impressive 6-2 record with an earned run average of 1.71. He saved 24 games and earned the unusual distinction of keeping his earned run mark below 1.00 for several weeks of the campaign.

It is no secret that the A's, who have experienced trouble with their starting pitchers, would not be as high as their current second place standing in the American League West without the effective late inning relief of Grant.

Howeber, Grant also made no secret of his opinion of club owner Finley. The veteran hurler said in a pre-game radio broadcast Sunday that the A's would have been more successful in 1970 without interference from the front office.

Grant's comment may or may not have been the reason for his being traded. He certainly was no troublemaker among his teammates. In fact, it was Grant and a few other veterans such as Tommy Davis and Felipe Alou who lent a measure of stability and maturity to a young ballclub racked by a running feud between Finley and slumping slugger Reggie Jackson.

Full terms of the Grant deal have not yet been disclosed. Undoubtedly, the Pirates are happy to be receiving a man who can help their pitching situation down the stretch of the National League East pennant fight.

The A's were rained out Monday. They play a twi-night doubleheader against Milwaukee today. Since Minnesota also was rained out Monday, Oakland still trails the first place Twins by eight games.

BOCCABELLA OUT FOR THE SEASON

MONTREAL (UPI) — Montreal Expos catcher-first baseman John Boccabella will miss the balance of the 1970 season after undergoing surgery for acute appendicitis at Queen Elizabeth Hospital here Monday afternoon.

Doctors decided to operate after Boccabella complained of pains.

Making A Pitch For New York

The acute appendicitis that has sidelined Montreal Expos catcher-first baseman John Boccabella for the remainder of the season means the Marin County slugger will finish up the year pitching for New York. I mean, he'll be making a pitch for the New York Life Insurance Co. as a salesman in Marin, his off season occupation.

KEN BLUE, who coached football at Drake High in 1953, posting a 4-5 won-lost record, is now linebacker coach for the St. Louis Cardinals of the National Football League. Blue, 48, is famous around Stockton as the only undefeated, untied, unscored upon head football coach in University of Pacific history. Because: During the winter he was named the head man at Pacific and after a month resigned to accept the St. Louis job without so much as drawing an X or an O in anger at Pacific.

The Same Dan Fouts

YES INDEEDY, that Dan Fouts who led Oregon to its 31-24 upset of Cal in their Pacific 8 Conference opener at Portland last Saturday night was the same skinny little Dan Fouts who quarterbacked Marin Catholc High n 1966. Dan transferred from Marin to St. Ignatius where he became a star and earned a scholarship to Oregon. The son of sportscaster Bob Fouts, Dan, a soph, passed 32 yards for the winning TD over Cal.

LAST FRIDAY a press release from U. of Pacific said wide receiver Honor Jackson (senior from Mill Valley) "has been the subject of rave notices." The very next afternoon the most Honorable Jackson lived up to rave notices by catching 42-yard touchdown pass from quarterback John Read as the Pacific Tigers edged University of Texas at El Paso, 24-18.

No Action For Alvarado

NO, I DON'T think San Anselmo's Don Alvarado saw any action for Stanford in that TV thriller at Arkansas Saturday afternoon. At least I didn't see his No. 85 on the field. The former Drake star is second string split end and has been nursing a hip pointer, so he didn't figure to see much action. Besides, Stanford tried to give the win to Arkansas and needed its healthy first string all the way.

REDWOOD HIGH assistant football coach Al Endriss says the Larkspur school's sophomore quarterback-defensive back Darryl Etralin, part Hawaiian, "reminds me a lot of Herman Wedemeyer," the former St. Mary's College All-American halfback of the mid-1940s. "He (Etralin) will be a great one," says Endriss.

A Scratch Golfer In Hawaii

Endriss compared Etralin to Squirmin' Herman because during the summer the Redwood coach bumped into Wedey in Hawaii. "He looks great," said Endriss of the former Gael flash. "He's a scratch golfer and is getting back into politics over there."

DUE TO A mixup in jerseys and numbers printed in the official program, there was an error in the caption on that Pop Warner Conference pictorial spread in last night's I-J. No. 22 for the Drake Junior Pirates was Jay McDonald of San Anselmo and NOT Ken Davis.

CHALK TALKS, BULLDOGS LISTEN

Coach Bob Muster uses chalk to put across some points while preparing his San Rafael High School Bulldogs for their 1970 football opener against George Washington High of San Francisco Friday night at San Rafael. The Bulldogs, looking forward to a winning season with an abundance of speed and experience on their roster, are rated among the strong contenders in the Marin County Athletic League. All Marin and southern Sonoma county high schools will be in action this weekend.

Reg Carolan Fails In Try With Bills

Reg Carolan of Novato, veteran profesisonal tight end who was released by the world champion Kansas City Chiefs last month, has failed in his bid to win a job with the Buffalo Bills of the National Football League's American Conference.

The United Press International reported today that the Bills have also released the former Drake High School star. He was trying to win a job as a tight end and punter, the wire service said.

Carolan, a substitute teacher in Marin County during the off season, suffered a leg injury in the 1969 exhibition season and sat out the entire season, although he remained with the Chiefs and shared in their championship rewards.

Carolan could not be reached for comment this morning.

Banaszek Might Miss 49er Game

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (UPI)—Tackle Cas Banaszek and defensive lineman Charlie Krueger hope to recover from leg injuries in time for the San Francisco 49ers' regular season opener against Washington.

The 49ers finished 1-4 in exhibitions despite outgaining four or five opponents. Fumbles, interceptions, a breakdown by special teams and a plodding offensive attack cost the club several games.

Krueger, nursing a pulled thigh muscle, sat out a loss to Los Angeles in which Banaszek injured a knee. Krueger may recover sufficiently for the game against the Redskins. But Banaszek suffered a hemorrhage in his knee and was hospitalized. He could miss the season opener.

Nolan drilled the 49ers Monday in an effort to eliminate recurring errors which plagued San Francisco throughout the exhibition schedule.

"We've worked on the areas that need improvement," Nolan said. "The defense is better. The kicking game is improved. We'll spend considerable time with the offense this week. Against the Rams, we spent most of the game backed up in our own territory."

Cassius Wins Ruling; To Apply For License

NEW YORK (UPI) — Cassius Clay, bolstered by a judge's ruling that he cannot be barred from boxing for refusing to be inducted into the Army, will apply for a license later this week, and the New York State Athletic Commission is expected to rule on the application Thursday.

UNREASONABLE

Federal Judge Walter R. Mansfield ruled Monday that the commission's suspension of Clay, also known as Muhammad Ali, three years ago "constituted an arbitrary and unreasonable departure from the commission's established practice of granting licenses to applicants convicted of crimes or military offenses."

The judge pointed out that "a number of licenses were granted to convicted felons in 1967 but it does not appear whether the commission acted before or after the denial of Alis' application. In any event, 35 licenses were granted to felons and those who committed misdemeanors in 1968 and 1969 and Ali's license was suspended by the commission."

He added, "The commission has offered no proof to refute the overwhelming and undisputed proof of arbitrary, capricious and unfounded discrimination against the plaintiff (Clay)."

THE FIRST

The New York commission was the very first to strip Clay of his heavyweight title and place him on suspension after he refused to be inducted into the Army 3 1-2 years ago. Every other boxing authority in the world eventually followed suit, and he was subsequently found guilty of draft evasion.

It was less than two weeks ago that Clay finally was granted permission by a local boxing commission to enter the ring for an exhibition bout in Atlanta. Encouraged by the action, the 28-year-old Clay has signed to defend his "title" against Jerry Quarry on Oct. 26 in Atlanta, and will begin training in Miami Tuesday.

"The way I look at it," Clay said, "it's just great to get a chance to earn a living again. I dont have hard feelings against nobody. They did what they thought was right and I did what I thought was right."

Chiefs Cut Flores

KANSAS CITY (UPI) — Quarterback Tom Flores, an original Oakland Raider who remained with the club through 1966, has been released by the Super Bowl champion Kansas City Chiefs.

Johnson Is Giants Ace Utility Man

Key Hit In S.F. Victory

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Frank Johnson finally seems to have found a home with the San Francisco Giants but it's not exactly what he had in mind.

The 28-year old native of El Paso, Texas, failed in three previous trials with the Giants and wasn't even invited to spring camp this year.

However, Johnson never gave up and Charlie Fox, upon being named manager in May, brought him up again this year, and now he looks like a solid fixture but strictly as a utility man.

FOR McCOVEY

Monday night he was the key man in a 7-5 victory for the Giants over the Atlanta Braves, and he did it after taking over for Willie Mc Covey at first base in the fourth inning.

Johnson, who also can play the outfield and third base delivered three hits in as many at-bats and his second one was the big one in a four-run sixth inning rally that broke a 3-3 tie.

"He is the perfect utility player," said Fox of Johnson. "He can play three positions for me and is a good right-handed pinch-hitter. I couldn't ask for more from anyone. Dont't forget, a team is as strong as its bench and Frank gives me a lot of bench."

Johnson doubled with the bases filled in the sixth inning rally Monday after a walk to Willie Mays with bases filled gave the Giants their first run of the frame. A wild pitch by Atlanta reliever Phil Niekro pushed across the fourth run.

BATTING .257

While Johnson was happy with his performance he didn't exactly buy Fox's evaluation of him as a utility player.

"I'm not complaining," he said, "I'm young enough and I think I can do a job. But if they say this is my role then that's the way it will have to be."

The three hits pushed Johnson's batting average to .275 and he now has 30 runs batted in. Not bad for a guy who has appeared in parts of 60 games.

Frank Reberger was the chief beneficiary of Johnson's key hit as he picked up his sixth victory in 12 decisions. However, Frank, who gave up nine hits and walked five batters, needed help from 40-year old Don McMahon over the final 2-1-3 innings. McMahon didn't give up a hit over the stretch and the only man to reach base off him did it via an error, Hal Lanier's second of the game.

FIFTH SAVE

The save was McMahon's fifth in the last eight games for the Giants, who have won five

Limping Raiders On Mend

OAKLAND (UPI)—Five more players have been added to the extensive injury list of the Oakland Raiders.

Linebacker Bill Laskey, Duane Benson and Gerald Irons, safety George Atkinson and wide receiver Rod Sherman all suffered minor hurts over the weekend in Oakland's 20-6 loss to Pittsburgh.

Coach John Madden said Monday the five injured players, plus four who sat out the Pittsburgh game, should recuperate in time for the Raiders' regular season opener Sunday at Cincinnati.

Receivers Fred Biletnikoff and Ray Chester and running backs Marv Hubbard and Pete Banaszak all should be ready for the Bengals.

IN SAN JOSE

Marin Tars Drill For Grid Opener

The Tars, who did a little scrimmaging with Sonoma State College last Saturday, get down to real game business this Saturday night when they travel to San Jose for their season opener with the San Jose City College Jaguars, a team that beat them last year, 28-14.

College of Marin coach Dick Read said about San Jose's team: "They're about like us," meaning they have some backfield men returning from 1969, but are hurting for veterans on the line.

A member of the Golden Gate Conference, San Jose should by rights be much stronger than the Tars, since the South Bay school has an enrollment of close to 9,000 as compared to Marin's 4,000.

The Kentfield campus rates about in the middle regarding enrollment among schools in the Camino Norte Conference, which the Tars joined three years ago.

About last Saturday's scrimmage with Sonoma State, Read said, "We were pretty even with them."

Read had praise for quarterback Peters and running back Ron Blasingame among the backfield people, tackle Rich Simpson and center Charlie McBride on offense, and linebacker dave Perron, safety Pete Carroll and cornerback John Dohn on defense.

Perron, a Marin County Athletic League all-star last season for Novato High School, is the best so far of the freshmen who have come out for the Marin Club. Altogether some 50 players are on the Tar roster, roughly the number Read will carry into the season.

The Tars' other fall sports, cross country and water polo, will also get underway this weekend. The cross country team, under Tony Bailey, journeys to San Mateo Saturday for a beach run that morning against the College of San Mateo.

Marin will be out to improve a 1969 CNC record of three wins and two losses. Four lettermen led by last year's conference champion Don Makela will be joined by former Tamalpais High School great Keith Krieger in forming a fairly strong nucleus. Bailey says Krieger has been running really well in early workouts.

Marin's water polo squad, coached by Bob Justice, opens the 1970 season in the Visalia Tournament at the College of Sequoia Saturday and Sunday.

Seals Will Send 20 Players To Minors

OSHAWA, Ont. (UPI) — Coach Fred Glover says 20 players will be sent to the minor leagues following the Oakland Seals' exhibition hockey game here Friday night against Buffalo.

By AL GIDDINGS

Trout plants were made today with nearly 5,000 catchable trout dumped in Bon Tempe Reservior here in Marin County. Witha cooling system installed n Bon Tempe, the waters are now cool and fit for the present plants. Other plants will be made periodically in Bon Tempe.

Some of those anglers trying Kent Dam recently were disappointed! The hotbait taking the fish there was a miniature marshmallow with a Pautzke egg seasoning! One marshmallow and one egg! Try it. Isn't it ridiculous!

LAKE MERCED in San Francisco also received plants if you travel in that direction.

And Shasta Lake and the high Sierra lakes are just reaching their best depths and temperatures for top fishing. Just received a report on Shasta County trout fishing from Bob Borello of Point Reyes. Bob and George Honenko, Novato, took weight limits from lower Hat Creek. George's best fish, a rainbow weighing 12 pounds, 15 ounces, 27½ inches in length and 19½ inches in girth. If that's not a big enough fish, try the Klamath River. It's reported red hot for salmon.

THE STRIPER fishing has still been good around the Richmond Bridge area. The other 2:30 a.m., the San Quentin security officials called telling me that the bass were jumping in the lighted area of the bridge. They also stated that the illegal night anglers were out! I went down and cited two of the anglers, adults all the way from Concord, for night fishing. They had one fish taken on a fly. Two others were juveniles from up Corte Madera slough way. They were all in boats, but in the lights they really show up! You know, it's great fishing there one hour before sunrise in the dark and it's legal one hour before sunrise, but 2:30, that's really an early three hours before sunrise! Oh, for the life of a game warden! By the way, 5:50 a.m. is now the legal starting time!

I RECEIVED a note from Winter Enterprises in San Jose at 1430 Cherryhill Drive. Bud Winter writes: "How would you like to fish where the fish are stacked in the stream like a log jam; and they eagerly take a fly! These finny monsters are Coho salmon with weights topping 20 pounds. The place? The remote Queen Charlotte Islands, but I can jet you there in four hours from San Francisco. You'll live at the Thele River Lodge. Bonus attractions include: Deer so plentiful there is no bag limit or season, mushrooms that weigh five pounds, and clams and crabs so plentiful that it's unbelievable. I take eight people at a time, and this opportunity comes seldom in a lifetime. All this is available from August through October!"

He didn't mention what they drink up in that area, but it must be good!

THOSE OF you who have killed deer, get your tags validated and mailed in! The wardens usually send for all the tags, checking them against club areas in the county. If no tags show up from some areas where club and ranches definitely do a lot of hunting, personal calls are made there for a final checkout. Citations could be issued. There will be a two week interval before the season opens Sept. 26 for the inland deer season this year.

AND LAST, but not least, Marty Medin of the Marin County Fire Dept. finally killed his first buck. Mary, my wife and the kids took him out for his last hunt, and they ran him a buck. Marty got one shot, and thought he had missed, but he had the good sense to have Mary check the brushy area where he shot, and there was his trophy. Mary said, "Marty then got the fever, couldn't make out his tag, and almost cut his finger off gutting the deer." That's par for the course. Now, everybody's happy!

FOOTBALL PROSPECTS

San Rafael Cadets Should Be Improved

In 1969, San Rafael Military Academy's Tom Kewell was good enough to be named all-Bay Counties League quarterback despite his team's miserable record of no wins, eight losses, and a tie.

Kewell and two of his primary receivers are back this year, and football fortunes for the Cadets may be looking up.

"We have more size and more speed than we've had in two or three years," says coach Charles Tubbs. "And our spirit is terrific. I've never seen its equal on any team at the academy."

Because the Cadets play a largely independent schedule (the BCL has only four teams), it's hard to predict what they will do. But 41 players have come out for the team, including 14 lettermen, and Tubbs feels they have the potential for a solid club, certainly better than last year.

Kewell, a senior, has gained 15 pounds and a foot in height over the summer, and now checks out at 6-1 and 180. Author of nine touchdown passes last year, he will again be throwing to senior tight end Ken Goebel and wide receiver Kurt Bromberg, a junior.

Tubbs hopes to supplement Kewell's passing game with a strong rushing attack, and he pins his hopes on veteran senior running back Jim Stevenson and junior transfer Larry Bengston.

The SRMA line, which last year was a disaster area, should be bolstered by the return of center Jare Henderson, a junior who also serves as the team's middle linebacker and defensive signal caller.

A couple of newcomers to football, Scott Montgomery and Steve Rayburn, will assume the tackle positions, and while they lack experience (Montgomery played junior varsity ball briefly two years ago), Tubbs believes they will do much to shore up the line.

Playoff Schedule Arranged

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—National League president Chub Feeney has made arrangements for playoff games in the event of a two or three team tie for first place in the Eastern Division.

Feeney said Monday that lots were drawn by the league championship series planning committee in New York Sept. 10, to determine the site of an Oct. 2 playoff game in the event of a two-team tie involving Pittsburgh, New York or Chicago.

The Pirates would have to play in an enemy park no matter who their opponent. The Cubs, who would be at home against Pittsburgh, would have to travel to New York if tied with the Mets. New York would have the home field adventage in any case.

In the event of a three-team tie, the club with the highest winning percentage against the other two clubs would have the option of selecting an opponent and a playing site.

The club with the second highest percentage gets the second option. Such a playoff arrangement would be held Oct. 2-3.

If two or three clubs finish with identical winning percentages, their options would be determinetd by lot.

of their last six starts and eight of their last 10. Overall, it was big Don's 18th save and he kiddingly said "There's nothing to it. All you have to do is to get them to hit it to no. 24." No. 24, of course, is Willie Mays.

McMahon knew what he was talking about. Of the seven men he retired four hit the ball to Mays in centerfield.

The Giants jumped to a 2-0 lead on Atlanta starter and loser Mike Mc Queen (0-4) in the second on a hit batsman, a double by Bernie Williams and a single by Reberger. They made it 3-0 in the next inning on Mays' second double, a wild pitch and a passed ball.

Gaylord Perry (20-13) pitches tonight in the second game of the series and Ron Reed (6-9) goes for The Braves. In Wednesday's wrapup game it will be Juan Marichal against Jim Nash.

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

Add Danny Frisella To Met Hero List

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

A 24-year-old right-handed relief pitcher who has bounced around between the majors and the minors since 1966, Frisella has suddenly become a big man in the Mets' hopes of winning a second straight National League pennant.

Frisella, who throws a crackling curveball which he sometimes gets over the plate, won his seventh game of the season Monday night when the Mets beat the Montreal Expos, 9-5, in 10 innings and moved into a first-place tie with the idle Pittsburgh Pirates in the National League East. The Mets and Pirates are one game ahead of the Chicago Cubs with the three teams separated by a blanket og seven percentage points.

"We are getting good relief pitching now," said Mets manager Gil Hodges after Monday night's victory. "Ron Herbel has helped us and Frisella and Tug McGraw are contributing, too."

Frisella held the Expos to one run and one hit for five inings and became the winning pitcher when the Mets scored four runs in the 10th inning with the help of errors by Ron Fairly and John Bateman.

Jerry Grote led off the inning with a single and pinch-runner Rod Gaspar stole second and went to third when Bud Harrelson was safe on an error by Fairly. Gaspar was trapped between third and home on Tommie Agee's grounder but scored when Bateman threw wild during the rundown to put the Mets in front, 6-5. Wayne Garrett's double, Ron Swoboda's sacrifice fly and Donn Clendenon's single drove in three more runs to round out the inning.

The Los Angeles Dodgers beat the San Diego Padres, 12-4, and the San Francisco Giants downed the Atlanta Braves, 7-5, in the only other NL games Monday night. California at Minnesota and Oakland at Milwaukee were postponed by rain in the only scheduled American League action.

Willie Davis' double with two on keyed a five-run first-inning outburst which carried the Dodgers to their victory and snapped a five-game San Diego winning streak. Claude Osteen yielded three runs in the ninth but won his 15th game against 13 losses. Ivan Murrell hit his 11th homer of the year for the Padres.

No Takers On Halas' Challenge

CHICAGO (UPI)—And so ends another chapter in the story of Papa Bear George Halas, head of the Chicago Bears. He stood eyeball-to-eyeball with the bookmakers, and they blinked.

The chapter opened last week with Halas hearing that Jimmy "The Greek" Snyder, a Las Vegas oddsmaker, had offered 200-to-1 against the Bears to win the NFL championship.

Halas promptly said he would ask football commissioner Pete Rozelle for permission to place a $15,000 bet, with proceeds of any win going to cancer research as a memorial to the late Bear backfield star Brian Piccolo.

"It is regrettable," Halas said Monday, "that none of the legalized professional makers in Las Vegas had enough faith in the 200-to-1 odds against the Bears to challenge my $15,000 investment. Three very meritorious cancer research funds would have benefited richly, I'm sure.

"I was amused by the so-called expert's explanation how he arrived at 200 to 1. He rated Detroit and Green Bay each 5 to 1 and Minnesota 8 to 1 over the Bears, and so multiplying five by five by eight, he arrived at 200."

Candlestick Work Gets Okay

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The San Francisco Park and Recreation Commission has approved an $11.5 million bid from Williams and Burrows, Inc., to go ahead with the long delayed expansion of Candlestick Park.

Construction and installation of new seats and other improvements, if started in a couple of months, would not be completed until March 1973 by the earliest.

Approval of the bid was welcomed by owner Lou Spadia, whose San Francisco 49ers have been playing in rundown Kezar Stadium.

McClinton, Long In Early Retirement From Football

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

A lot of older men look forward to a nice, easy, rocking-chair existence. But at the age of 31?

Curtis McClinton and Charlie Long, both 31, are hardly ready to lead sedentary lives. But both retired Monday from pro football wars.

McClinton, the man who scored the Kansas City Chiefs' first regular season touchdown back in 1963, wrote finis to a distinguished eight-year pro career. An All-American out of Kansas University, McClinton was American Football League Rookie of the year in 1962, and three-time All-AFL.

Long joined the Boston Patriots out of the University of Chattanooga and became Boston's offensive captain for six years. He filled a variety of jobs, including offensive guard and tackle, tight end and even blocking back.

The Pats cut three players to reach the required 40-man limit prior to the start of the regular season. Released were third year running back R. C. Gamble, second year defensive back John Outlaw and running back Bob Gladieux. The Chicago Bears asked waivers on running back Elijah Pitts, a nine-year veteran acquired from the Packers. The Dallas Cowboys cut five-year veteran running back Les Shy and linebacker Fred Whittingham, also a five-year veteran.

Rookie Bob Lanier Reinjures Knee

"He was in pain and the knee swelled up," a spokesman for the National Basketball Association club said. "He'll be out of practice a couple of days, at least."

This is not serious, according to Dr. Robert Bailey, who has performed operations on knees numerous times, because the breaking of adhesions sometimes happens after an operation.

The 6-foot-11 St. Bonaventure graduate suffered torn ligaments to the same right knee last March in the semifinals of the NCAA basketball tournament.

Lanier was still limping and bothered by a little pain as the Pistons opened practice for rookies last week but had been assured by Dr. Bailey recently that he could go all out in practice and in games.

Shockley Has Cast On Hand

STANFORD (UPI) —Running back Hillary Shockley, who ripped the Arkansas defense for 117 yards last weekend, is taking part in Stanford University football practice with a cast on his hand.

"Shockley has a chipped bone on the base of his right thumb," Stanford coach John Ralston said Monday. "He's playing with a cast, but he's not having any trouble holding onto the ball."

Cal Lineman Resting Ankle

BERKELEY (UPI) —Defensive tackle O.Z. White, resting a twisted ankle, was the only University of California player to receive more than a minor injury in the Bears' 31-24 loss to Oregon.

Recreation Softball

Novato Son 10, Bombers 2; Cal's Steakhouse 8, Harding Gophers 2; Round Table Pizza 9, Mike's Bar and Grill 1.

Baseball

CHICAGO — New manager Chuck Tanner looked forward to meeting his White Sox baseball team with an open mind Monday night.

Tanner, and new pitching coach Johnny Sain, hired Monday, flew to Kansas City during the afternoon to join the White Sox and "watch them play the rest of the season." Tanner, who managed Hawaii to the Pacific Coast League championship this year, said he believed his job for the rest of the season would be to "observe and analyze" the White Sox.

Weightlifting

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Polish contenders stole the show at the 1970 World Weightlifting Championships here Monday night, becoming the first team to win both first and second place in a single event.

Mecislav Nowak won the featherweight title with a total poundage of 875 and Jan Wojnowski was runnerup with 848 1-2 in the third night of competition.

Basketball

DETROIT — Bob Lanier, the top choice in last year's pro basketball draft who signed a $1 million contract with the Detroit Pistons, fell during practice Monday, causing his knee to swell. A team physician said, however, that the injury to Lanier's knee, which was operated upon last March, was not serious.

BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER

The "spot system" of bowling is for everybody. Common logic says it is easier to hit a target 15 feet away than a target 60 feet away. In practice learn which arrow will usually bring your ball to the pocket. Then concentrate on rolling the ball over this mark.

Autopsy Report Due In DePaula Death

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (UPI)—An autopsy report was expected today on Frankie DePaula, former light heavyweight contender, before authorities decide whether to press heavier charges against two men charged with gunning him down.

DePaula, 30, died Monday at Jersey City Medical Center after lying paralyzed for four months following an early morning gangland style shooting outside the home of a young woman he dated.

The attack May 14 came one week after a jury acquitted him of theft and possession in connection with $75,000 worth of copper ingots. DePaula, Anthony Joseph "Gary" Garafola, his manager, and four others had been indicted on charges of hijacking the copper ingots from Port Newark docks in 1968.

The jury could not agree on conspiracy charges and Garafola faced a new trial on all three charges because of a hung jury.

Garafola and Richard Phelan, 26, were indicted as the result of an investigation into the shooting by Deputy Police Chief Patrick McGee. Both McGee and Police Director George Whelan said any further action against the pair would hinge on the medical report.

Ira Clark, associate director of the Jersey City Medical Center, said one of two high-powered bullets that struck DePaula lodged in his spinal column. The fighter underwent several operations on the wounds.

Clark added DePaula appeared to have died from pneumonia brought on by the debilitating effect of his gunshot wounds.

"He (DePaula) was a quadraplegic. He could talk, but he couldn't move," Clark said.

After a Jan. 22, 1969 light heavyweight title fight in which DePaula was knocked out by Bob Foster in the first round, DePaula and two alleged underworld figures were indicted on charges of lying to a Manhattan grand jury investigating possible irregularities in the fight.

Then came the hijacking charges and DePaula was suspended from boxing in May, 1969. The indictment was returned the day before he was to have fought Don Fullmer in Madison Square Garden. The Manhattan indictments were against DePaula, James "Jimmy Nap" Napoli, 57, a reputed crime syndicate chieftain, and Joseph "Joe Carlo" Calbro, 44, a convicted gambler, seven months later.

Mike Suyderhoud of San Anselmo, reigning world water ski champion, led the United States team to victory in the Group I water ski championships over the weekend in Mexico City.

Suyderhoud, due back in time to return to studies at Sonoma State College tomorrow, won the jump event with 153 feet, won the slalom by clearing four buoys with a 40 foot towline, and was second in tricks with 4,800 points. The performance was good for overall championship.

Group I includes the Americas, and water skiers from the U.S., Canada, Chile, Argentina, Mexico and Columbia competed.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Build Fund Through Periodic Buying

Q. We are interested in knowing if there is a system whereby money could be invested each month to build up a retirement fund. J.H. and J.B.

A. You have two options open to you, a Monthly Investment Plan through a New York Stock Exchange member firm or a mutual fund systematic accumulation plan. The former allows monthly or quarterly purchase of any Big Board stock in $40 minimum payments. Most mutual funds, both load and no-load, offer some type of voluntary accumulation plan. I stress a voluntary rather than contractual plan, since the latter penalizes the individual who discontinues the plan prior to completion through use of a front-load system in allocating acquistition charges. A typical mutual fund requires a $100 minimum initaial investment with subsequent monthly contributions of $25. This does vary sharply from fund to fund; some have no minimums and others require as much as $1000. Regardless of the means you choose for your retirement program the dollar-cost-averaging afforded by regular periodic purchase is a distinct advantage over a period of years.

Q. About two years ago we bought 25 shares of Transamerica. We now have 52 shares as a result of a split and stock dividend and our cost is $37. Do you think these share should be held for recovery? S.P.

A. Although many segments of the company's business have suffered under adverse economic conditions, operating earnings for its largest subsidiary, Occidental Life Insurance, were well ahead of results reported in the first half of 1969. Corporate earnings, however, were down to 53 cents compared with 77 cents in the 1969 period. Transamerica is building a multimarket service organization with interests in life insurance, real estate development, travel, motion picture financing and distribution and mobile home park development. An interruption in its uptrending pattern of earnings growth appears probable for the full year. However, because the outlook is promising in most of the company's operating areas, retaining these shares for recovery is warranted.

The new office products have their own built-in ink supply, rate good for about 25,000 impressions. Made from Porelon, a plastic printing material, they come in single or multiple colors or red, blue, green and black.

NEW YORK (UPI) — American-Standard has signed a $1.6 million contract with the Labor Department to train 420 unemployed or unskilled workers for jobs as electricians, spot welders, sheet metal workers and machinists.

Stock Prices Fall Across Broad Front

Weighing on the list were a strike at General Motors, an unauthorized walkout at three of the nation's major railroads, and fear of renewed hostilities in the Middle East.

Shortly before the close, the Dow Jones Industrial Average was off 6.50 at 750.62. Of the 1,559 issues traded, more than 1,000 declined, while only about 285 advanced.

Turnover of around 10 million shares was down from 11,900,000 shares on Monday.

At the close trading was off. DuPont closed at 120 1-2 off 1 1-4; General Electric 79 1-4 off 3-8; IBM 266 3-4 up 3-8; Southern Pacific 28 5-8 off 3-4; General Motors 70 1-8 off 1-2; and U.S. Steel 31 3-8 off 5-8.

Among the day's most active issues were FMC Corp., Occidental Petroleum, Federated Department Stores, and Sunbeam Corp.

Prices declined in moderate turnover on the American Stock Exchange.

OTHER PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

By HARRY CRAFT

Huffaker Engineering Company Is Back In Marin County Again

A former San Rafael firm that moved to San Francisco about two years ago, Huffaker Engineering Co., has made the return trip to Marin.

The company, owned by J.W. Huffaker of Novato, makes racing cars and parts and is now located at 22 Mark Drive, Northgate Industrial Park, where 3,000 square feet has been leased through William W. Howy and Co.

When previously in San Rafael the company was at 45 Duffy Place. In San Francisco it was on Van Ness Avenue. The new location is larger than the San Francisco quarters and eliminated a long commute for Huffaker.

A STORE scheduled to open about Oct. 1 is The Chandlery, at 969 Grand Avenue, San Rafael — a new venture of Carroll Stoerker.

With Stoerker's background in yachting and boats and also as former owner of the Colonial Candle Co. this business name could indicate either a line of marine supplies — or a candle shop. As it turns out, candles will be the stock in trade. He will manufacture some of his own and also sell some other make.

Store hours will probably be from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

MRS. KRISTI NELSON of Larkspur has been appointed advertising manager of Holiday Magic, Inc., San Rafael. She has been with the company four years as a copywriter and package designer.

EDWARD PURSEY is Holiday Magic's new vice vresident in charge of fund raising. He will advise distributors and coordinate their activities in marketing products used by civic and charitable organizations in their fund raising efforts. He was formerly regional vice president of the northwest states for Holiday Magic.

PETER SCOTT of Sausalito has been named program director of KSFO in San Francisco. He joined the station in 1965 as production coopdinator. Before beginning his radio career he started as a stand-up comic at San Francisco's Purple Onion and then entertained across the country. He has received several awards for his creative radio work.

COMMISSIONS: P and H Design Group San Francisco has been commissioned by KFRC Radio to design a new visual image for the station. Executive vice president Tom Hall of Terra Linda and designer Jack Martin of Sausalito will be working on it . . . Ronald Wren Advertising, Inc. has been selected to handle the advertising of Vaughn at Sather Gate Sacramento-based clothing chain. Serving this client are account executive Dick Rojas Of Marinwood and creative director Stanely Raymond of Mill Valley.

INSURANCE: Donald Ross III of Novato will head a new West Coast reinsurance sales office of Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance Co. in San Francisco. He recently joined the company as regional reinsurance director and an officer of the firm. He has been a representative in individual, group and reinsurance sales in the Bay Area for 12 years . . . .

Michael W. Dooling, president of Crown Funding Corp., San Rafael, has announced the start of the first prepaid dental plan in Northern California which utilizes the prepayment of dental expenses on a per capita basis instead of insuring them. Crown Funding specializes in health and securities programs for association and employer groups.
